CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—In this active city, with the thermometer at three below zero, people walk so fast they don't feel it. For comfort they can look toward the northwest, 38 below zero in Minnesota.

Cold is good, for the young, but why do so many of the older people able to travel, risk their lives in the cold north, with California, Florida and warm Gulf states inviting them?

THE death of Charles R. Erwin deprives American business of an able, constructive adviser. Mr. Erwin, who leaves eight children, and dies too soon, only 57 years old, was president of Lord & Thomas in 1913. Then developed the Erwin & Wasey organization. It can be said of him, as of other men that devote their lives to advertising, that many successful men owe their wealth to his intelligence and do not realize it.

CHEERFULNESS in Wall Street, Christmas dividends continuing in a way to make Jupiter with his golden rain seem stingy.

Yesterday 1,925,000 shares were sold, 2,000,000 the day before, and brokers ask hopefully, "is the public coming in to restore the happy 3,000,000 share days of yesterday?"

DON'T sell anything short in this country, not even products of our mers, not well enough organize control government as they might do. The country's merchandise exports for November ... last in a year, amounted ... y unit a billion, in spite of a $ ...,000 drop in cotton shipments.

We have the gold, water power, coal, oil, unlimited territory, developed and undeveloped, intelligent men and women and a government that doesn't interfere with business. What in heaven's name have we to worry about, except our own foolish fears? But don't gumble.

THE World Review asks two questions. How would you answer?

"1—What is the best thing that has happened this year (1926) for America or for Americans?

"2—What is the best thing that could possibly happen in America this coming year (1927)?"

1—The best happening of 1926 was sending the world court to join the dodo.

2—The best happening for 1927 would be the building of an adequate American air fleet. You can't expect Providence always to send an earthquake to Asia just as Asia is getting ready to send several earthquakes to us.

If You Hunt At All

You must know the game laws.

Whether you hunt rabbits, birds, or mountain lions, you must learn when and where they may be shot or trapped, and how big a bag you are permitted.

To keep out of trouble you must know the legal provisions in every state covering licenses, seasons, possession, sale and export of game.

All of these points are covered in a 46-page booklet issued by the department of agriculture. Every sportsman should have a copy of this booklet so that he may keep within the laws.

This is a government publication and our Washington Information Bureau will secure a copy for any reader who fills out and mails the coupon below. Enclose four cents in stamps for return postage and handling and be sure to write your name and address clearly.

EARTH TREMOR THEN EXACTS HEAVY TOLL IN ISLAND CITY

Madeira Islands Scene of Disaster, Says Lisbon.

BOATS CAPSIZED

Portuguese Government Issues Instructions for Relief.

LISBON, Dec. 17.—A tidal wave, followed by an earthquake, has devastated Funchal, principal city of the Madeira Islands, according to advances received here today.

Heavy loss of life and poperty is reported in the meagre dispatches received here.

City is Flooded.

The disaster occurred yesterday when a huge tidal wave swept over the mole, partially destroying it, and flooded the lower portions of the city of Funchal.

The devastating effects of the tidal wave had not been counted before an earthquake shook the city and added the destruction. Houses were heavily damaged, business places were flooded and small boats in the harbor were washed ashore or capsized.

The loss of life is still indeterminable, but it is believed that it is heavy. Many are reported to have suffered severe injury.

Panic reigned among the population.

Radio and cable communications have been seriously interrupted.

Last Sunday a hurricane swept over Funchal, doing heavy damage, and causing a loss of life estimated at eight.

The Portuguese government had issued instructions for relief measures, and it is anticipated that if necessary relief ships will be sent to Madeira from the Azores.

This is the second disaster in the islands off the African coast within six months. A tidal wave and earthquake recently caused great damage and considerable loss of life in Horta, the Azores.

MARX'S BERLIN CABINET FALLS

Government Defeated in Reichstag by Socialists.

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—The Marx government has fallen. The government was defeated in the reichstag on a no confidence motion sponsored by the socialists today.

The vote of no confidence was carried by 249 yeas to 171 nays.

The socialists announced their intention last week of bringing a motion of no confidence before the reichstag, but early this week efforts were made to patch up their differences with the government without avail.

At present it seems likely that Dr. Scholz, of the German People's party, may head the next government.

Herr Stresemann is leader of this party and it is anticipated that he may continue as foreign minister in the next government.

STATE READY TO REST PAT'S CASE

Defer Arguments In Fall-Sinclair "Oil Scandal" Case

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—After waiting patiently for more than an hour, counsel for the government, and for H. F. Sinclair and Albert B. Fall this morning were advised that argument on the motion to quash the conspiracy indictment against the oil man and the former cabinet officer had been postponed until Tuesday.

The great number of persons waiting arraignment and sentence in the criminal branch of the District of Columbia supreme court caused Justice Jennings Bailey to make the change.

Bailey ordered, however that on Tuesday both defendants be present. This morning, Fall was not at the court house and Sinclair, after a brief appearance, left.

POLICE FIND NO SECRET KEY TO PUNCHBOARD

Exonerate Liberty Pool Room Owners in Statement.

INQUIRY MADE

Ten-day Suspension Based on Offer of Money Prizes.

Thomas McDonough and Jack McLaughlin, operators of the Liberty pool room, whose license was suspended for 10 days by Mayor Ralph Benedum last Saturday, were exonerated of a report that the punch-board confiscated in their place of business contained a secret key, in a statement issued today by Chief of Police McDermott.

The police chief's statement follows:

"After making an investigation I find that the boards seized at the Liberty pool room contained no secret key but were in violation of the law inasmuch as it was a game of chance.

"Representatives of a Chicago house were in East Liverpool recently endeavoring to place boards which contained a secret key but none were sold, I learned upon inquiry."

Operators of five other pool rooms in whose places punch-boards were seized in a raid about 10 days ago, were closed for periods of five days each. In explaining the difference in the suspension perods, Mayor Benedum today said that the Liberty room was operating the "California Gold Mine," commonly known as a money board, while the other places were operating merchandise boards.

The four pool rooms whose licenses were suspended for five days reopened for business at noon yesterday. The Liberty will re-open next Tuesday.

Six are Forced To Flee When Fire Sweeps Lisbon Home

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pappas and four children, living in Hephner hollow, near Lisbon, were forced to flee in night clothing to a neighbor's home at 5:30 o'clock this morning as flames destroyed their home and practically all their belongings. The loss is estimated at $1,500.

The fire originated from an overheated flue. The Lisbon fire department responded to a call, the blaze being beyond control when the firemen arrived.

TOKIO RULER SUCCUMBS IN PALACE, SAYS CENTRAL NEWS

Official Bulletin, However, Says He is Still Alive.

PULSE HIGHER

All High Japanese Officials Remain at Hayama.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Emperor Yoshihito, of Japan, is dead, according to a Central News dispatch from Tokio this afternoon.

Emperor Yoshihito was born on August 31, 1879. He succeeded his father Mutsuhito, on the Japanese throne on July 30, 1912, at the age of 33 years.

The late emperor had been in precarious health for more than five years. His indispositions had completely incapacitated him for his duties as emperor, and the reins of the Japanese government had been held during that period by his son, Crown Prince Hirohito, who ruled as prince regent.

Hirohito, who is 25 years old, is one of the most democratic of rulers. He will succeed his father on the throne as soon as the extensive formalities following Yoshihito's death have been dispensed with.

TOKIO, Dec. 17.—An official bulletin issued at 10:40 p. m. tonight declared that the Emperor of Japan was still alive.

The bulletin said the emperor's pulse and respiration were higher and that his fever remained about the same.

The statement revealed that salt water injections have failed to produce distinctive results.

All high Japanese officials are remaining at Hayama.

May Withhold News of Death.

The above official bulletin was issued at 8:40 a. m., New York time.

The news of the death of the emperor of Japan, in accordance with custom, may be withheld for many days after his death. No announcement of the death is made until all members of the family have been notified and arrangements for the succession are made. Furthermore the announcement of the death would probably be withheld until the body had been removed to the royal palace. Since an emperor must always die in his palace, so far as official records go, in the light of the aforegoing dispatch it would seem possible that Central News dispatch of the emperor's death is premature.

POLAR FLYERS VOTED MEDALS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The senate today voted congressional medals of honor to Commander Richard E. Byrd and Floyd Bennett, the navy pilots who flew across the north pole last summer.

KANSAS CITY BANK BANDITS GET $79,600

Four Robbers Hold Up Messenger in Downtown Zone.

ESCAPE IN AUTO

Outlaws Execute Robbery With Almost Perfect Finesse.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 17—Four bandits held up a messenger for the Fidelity National bank here today and escaped with $79,600 in new currency being sent to the Fidelity bank from the federal reserve bank.

The hold-up occurred in the heart of the downtown section.

The money was being carried by one messenger, who was accompanied by a guard a short distance behind. The bandits pulled up to the curb in a motor car. While one of them stole up to the guard from behind and slugged him, others held up the messenger, seized the money and escaped in the car.

Three shots were fired at the fleeing bandits, but none took effect, it is believed.

With the streets thronged by crowds of noonday shoopers, the bandits executed the holdup with almost perfect finesse. With such swiftness was it accomplished that one man standing a few feet away, who saw it from beginning to end, said the bandits had taken the money and were gone before he had time even to shout an alarm. Other passersby were entirely unaware of what had happened until they heard shots fired at the fleeing bandits.

PROSECUTION WITNESS NAMES MAZER, RUDNER IN CANTON TESTIMONY

Thelma Harris, Called in McDermott's Trial for Murder of Don R. Mellett, Crusading Editor, Says Alleged Conspirators Met in Doll Carey's House on Night Before Slaying.

SHE ALSO TELLS JURORS THAT POLICEMAN WAS IN PARTY

By DAVID P. SENTNER.

CANTON, O., Dec. 17.—Thelma Harris, of Canton, testified today at the trial of Pat McDermott for the murder of Don R. Mellett, vice crusading publisher, that Louis Mazer and Ben Rudner, alleged conspirators with McDermott, had met in Doll Carey's house in Canton the night before the murder.

"When Mazer went out he had a gun," Miss Harris said.

The witness said Policeman Streitemberger also visited the Carey house with Mazer.

Stanley Baltzly, Massillon storekeeper, testified that Ben Rudner, a week or ten days before the Mellett crime, told him "there would be a big doings up in Canton."

Norman Clark, lawyer, under charge of liquor conspiracy, brought by Cleveland federal authorities, testified Louis Mazer had threatened his life. He was formerly Mazer's lawyer. The witness denied the quarrel with Mazer was over liquor matters.

Finish State's Case Today.

Prosecutor C. B. McClintock said during a recess that he had only five or six more witnesses to call and would finish the state's case today.

The prosecution in drawing its case to a close was emphasizing the testimony against Ben Rudner, wealthy Massillon hardware merchant, and Louis Mazer, of Canton, indicted with McDermott for murder.

The prosecution charges that Rudner hired McDermott to "get" Mellett for the latter's editorial attacks upon the bootlegging ring."

Mellett alleged the "ring" was corrupting the local police department.

Malcolm Klein, another witness, told on the stand of seeing Rudner and Mazer in a Chrysler automobile in Canton on the morning of the murder.

Danny Pfuff, of Cleveland, then testified. Praff related his acquaintanceship with McDermott after the murder when Pat was "hiding out" in Cleveland.

"What was your business when you were seeing McDermott and Ben Nadel in Cleveland?" Pfaff was asked.

"Bootlegging," the witness answered smilingly.

Policeman Reported Ill.

After a luncheon recess was declared, Prosecutor McClintock announced that he was preparing to send an ambulance for J. A. McDonald, Canton policeman, wanted as a state witness. McDonald was reported too ill to appear.

O. E. Pfouts, Canton official, was recalled to the witness stand in the afternoon session. Defense counsel had an unnamed youth pose before him.

"Could this boy have been the one you saw with Ben Rudner in an automobile," the witness was asked.

"It might have been," Pfouts finally admitted.

The witness had previously testified to seeing Rudner and McDermott together in a Chrysler the Sunday before the murder.

LISBY FUNERAL 8:30 SATURDAY

TRAFFIC COMMISSION RECOMMENDS OVERHEAD WALKS AT TWO RAILROAD CROSSINGS AND BRIDGES AT OTHER POINTS

Construction of overhead walks at the College street and Virginia avenue railroad crossings and overhead vehicular and pedestrian bridges at the foot of Broadway and also on Mulberry street were recommended to city council by members of the newly created traffic commission at last night's meeting of council.

The commissioners pointed out that "numerous accidents have occurred here recently and several lives have been lost." Council was urged to "take steps that are necessary to cause the materialization of the recommendations." Solons received the communication and "approved the recommendations."

Request of employes of the water works department, firemen and other city officials for wage increases were rejected after Councilman Thomas Farrall, chairman of the finance committee, reported that the municipality's finances precluded action. A statement setting forth the committee's reasons for opposing wage increases was submitted. Council approved the recommendation for the rejection of all wage increase requests without a dissenting vote. In this connection an ordinance increasing the salary of the solicitor's clerk was tabled.

An ordinance providing for the purchase of a three-way traffic light for installation at the corner of Mulberry street and Pennsylvania avenue was passed on three readings under suspension of the rules. Another ordinance providing for the regulation of taxicabs and establishing a license fee of $10 per car per year was passed on one reading and laid over two weeks for further consideration to give the ordinance committee an opportunity to investigate the proposal.

Councilman Otto Kommel, who qualified last night, objected to the removal of a shed over an outside stairway at the rear of the American theatre. He charged that "some one had a grude against the theatre" and submitted a motion that the matter be investigated by the street committee too. The motion was passed.

Service Director J. W. Moore advised the council that he had been "given instruction to enforce the ordinance" prohibiting the blocking of streets and alleys. He declared council had no authority in the matter inasmuch as steps had already been taken to remove the shed.

Kommel said that the stairway was used as an exit for performers when the theatre had a vaudeville act. Mayor Benedum declared that the door was always padlocked on the outside and that it was locked during the early part of the week when the theatre presented a vaudeville act.

Councilman Hughes said that alleys in the business district were blocked with parked automobiles and that steps should be taken to curb the practice.

A petition was received from Harvey avenue residents, asking that council stop the dumping of salt water on concrete pavements. The complaint was laid over for investigation.

Upon motion of Councilman Kommel, sewer assessment against a lot on Springdale street, owned by Joseph Davies, was reduced $170.68.

Attorney Ben L. Bennett appeared before council protesting against the removal of popular trees along Dresden and Woodlawn avenues and Grant streets. The street committee will investigate, reporting at the next meeting.

POLICE FIND NO SECRET KEY TO PUNCHBOARD

Exonerate Liberty Pool Room Owners in Statement.

INQUIRY MADE

Ten-day Suspension Based on Offer of Money Prizes.

Thomas McDonough and Jack McLaughlin, operators of the Liberty pool room, whose license was suspended for 10 days by Mayor Ralph Benedum last Saturday, were exonerated of a report that the punch-board confiscated in their place of business contained a secret key, in a statement issued today by Chief of Police McDermott.

The police chief's statement follows:

"After making an investigation I find that the boards seized at the Liberty pool room contained no secret key but were in violation of the law inasmuch as it was a game of chance.

"Representatives of a Chicago house were in East Liverpool recently endeavoring to place boards which contained a secret key but none were sold, I learned upon inquiry."

Operators of five other pool rooms in whose places punch-boards were seized in a raid about 10 days ago, were closed for periods of five days each. In explaining the difference in the suspension perods, Mayor Benedum today said that the Liberty room was operating the "California Gold Mine," commonly known as a money board, while the other places were operating merchandise boards.

PROSECUTION WITNESS NAMES MAZER, RUDNER IN CANTON TESTIMONY

Thelma Harris, Called in McDermott's Trial for Murder of Don R. Mellett, Crusading Editor, Says Alleged Conspirators Met in Doll Carey's House on Night Before Slaying.

SHE ALSO TELLS JURORS THAT POLICEMAN WAS IN PARTY

By DAVID P. SENTNER.

CANTON, O., Dec. 17.—Thelma Harris, of Canton, testified today at the trial of Pat McDermott for the murder of Don R. Mellett, vice crusading publisher, that Louis Mazer and Ben Rudner, alleged conspirators with McDermott, had met in Doll Carey's house in Canton the night before the murder.

"When Mazer went out he had a gun," Miss Harris said.

The witness said Policeman Streitemberger also visited the Carey house with Mazer.

Stanley Baltzly, Massillon storekeeper, testified that Ben Rudner, a week or ten days before the Mellett crime, told him "there would be a big doings up in Canton."

Norman Clark, lawyer, under charge of liquor conspiracy, brought by Cleveland federal authorities, testified Louis Mazer had threatened his life. He was formerly Mazer's lawyer. The witness denied the quarrel with Mazer was over liquor matters.

Finish State's Case Today.

Prosecutor C. B. McClintock said during a recess that he had only five or six more witnesses to call and would finish the state's case today.

The prosecution in drawing its case to a close was emphasizing the testimony against Ben Rudner, wealthy Massillon hardware merchant, and Louis Mazer, of Canton, indicted with McDermott for murder.

The prosecution charges that Rudner hired McDermott to "get" Mellett for the latter's editorial attacks upon the bootlegging ring."

Mellett alleged the "ring" was corrupting the local police department.

Malcolm Klein, another witness, told on the stand of seeing Rudner and Mazer in a Chrysler automobile in Canton on the morning of the murder.

Danny Pfuff, of Cleveland, then testified. Praff related his acquaintanceship with McDermott after the murder when Pat was "hiding out" in Cleveland.

"What was your business when you were seeing McDermott and Ben Nadel in Cleveland?" Pfaff was asked.

"Bootlegging," the witness answered smilingly.

Policeman Reported Ill.

After a luncheon recess was declared. Prosecutor McClintock announced that he was preparing to send an ambulance for J. A. McDonald, Canton policeman, wanted as a state witness. McDonald was reported too ill to appear.

O. E. Pfouts, Canton official, was recalled to the witness stand in the afternoon session. Defense counsel had an unnamed youth pose before him.

"Could this boy have been the one you saw with Ben Rudner in an automobile," the witness was asked.

"It might have been," Pfouts finally admitted.

The witness had previously testified to seeing Rudner and McDermott together in a Chrysler the Sunday before the murder.

LISBY FUNERAL 8:30 SATURDAY

TRAFFIC COMMISSION RECOMMENDS OVERHEAD WALKS AT TWO RAILROAD CROSSINGS AND BRIDGES AT OTHER POINTS

Construction of overhead walks at the College street and Virginia avenue railroad crossings and overhead vehicular and pedestrian bridges at the foot of Broadway and also on Mulberry street were recommended to city council by members of the newly created traffic commission at last night's meeting of council.

The commissioners pointed out that "numerous accidents have occurred here recently and several lives have been lost." Council was urged to "take steps that are necessary to cause the materialization of the recommendations." Solons received the communication and "approved the recommendations."

Request of employes of the water works department, firemen and other city officials for wage increases were rejected after Councilman Thomas Farrall, chairman of the finance committee, reported that the municipality's finances precluded action. A statement setting forth the committee's reasons for opposing wage increases was submitted. Council approved the recommendation for the rejection of all wage increase requests without a dissenting vote. In this connection an ordinance increasing the salary of the solicitor's clerk was tabled.

An ordinance providing for the purchase of a three-way traffic light for installation at the corner of Mulberry street and Pennsylvania avenue was passed on three readings under suspension of the rules. Another ordinance providing for the regulation of taxicabs and establishing a license fee of $10 per car per year was passed on one reading and laid over two weeks for further consideration to give the ordinance committee an opportunity to investigate the proposal.

Councilman Otto Kommel, who qualified last night, objected to the removal of a shed over an outside stairway at the rear of the American theatre. He charged that "some one had a grude against the theatre" and submitted a motion that the matter be investigated by the street committee. The motion was passed.

Service Director J. W. Moore advised the council that he had been "given instruction to enforce the ordinance" prohibiting the blocking of streets and alleys. He declared council had no authority in the matter inasmuch as steps had already been taken to remove the shed.

Kommel said that the stairway was used as an exit for performers when the theatre had a vaudeville act. Mayor Benedum declared that the door was always padlocked on the outside and that it was locked during the early part of the week when the theatre presented a vaudeville act.

Councilman Hughes said that alleys in the business district were blocked with parked automobiles and that steps should be taken to curb the practice.

A petition was received from Harvey avenue residents, asking that council stop the dumping of salt water on concrete pavements. The complaint was laid over for investigation.

Upon motion of Councilman Kommel, sewer assessment against a lot on Springdale street, owned by Joseph Davies, was reduced $170.68.

Attorney Ben L. Bennett appeared before council protesting against the removal of popular trees along Dresden and Woodlawn avenues and Grant streets. The street committee will investigate, reporting at the next meeting.

Wall Street.
Two Best Things.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—In this active city, with the thermometer at three below zero, people walk so fast they don't feel it. For comfort they can look toward the northwest, 38 below zero in Minnesota.

Cold is good, for the young, but why do so many of the older people able to travel, risk their lives in the cold north, with California, Florida and warm Gulf states inviting them?

THE death of Charles R. Erwin deprives American business of an able, constructive adviser. Mr. Erwin, who leaves eight children, and dies too soon, only 67 years old, was president of Lord & Thomas in 1913. Then developed the Erwin & Wasey organization. It can be said of him, as of other men that devote their lives to advertising, that many successful men owe their wealth to his intelligence and do not realize it.

CHEERFULNESS in Wall Street, Christmas dividends continuing in a way to make Jupiter with his golden rain seem stingy.

Yesterday 1,925,000 shares were sold, 2,000,000 the day before, and brokers ask hopefully, "is the public coming in to restore the happy 3,000,000 share days of yesterday?"

DON'T sell anything short in this country, not even products of our mers, not well enough organize control government as they might do. The country's merchandise exports for Novembe[illegible]ast in a year, amounted [illegible]y half a billion, in spite of a $[illegible],000 drop in cotton shipments.

We have the gold, water power, coal, oil, unlimited territory, developed and undeveloped, intelligent men and women and a government that doesn't interfere with business. What in heaven's name have we to worry about, except our own foolish fears? But don't gamble.

THE World Review asks two questions. How would you answer?

"1—What is the best thing that has happened this year (1926) for America or for Americans?

"2—What is the best thing that could possibly happen in America this coming year (1927)?"

1—The best happening of 1926 was sending the world court to join the dodo.

2—The best happening for 1927 would be the building of an adequate American air fleet. You can't expect Providence always to send an earthquake to Asia just as Asia is getting ready to send several earthquakes to us.

If You Hunt At All

You must know the game laws. Whether you hunt rabbits, birds, or mountain lions, you must learn when and where they may be shot or trapped, and how big a bag you are permitted.

To keep out of trouble you must know the legal provisions in every state covering licenses, seasons, possession, sale and export of game.

All of these points are covered in a 46-page booklet issued by the department of agriculture. Every sportsman should have a copy of this booklet so that he may keep within the laws.

This is a government publication and our Washington Information Bureau will secure a copy for any reader who fills out and mails the coupon below. Enclose four cents in stamps for return postage and handling and be sure to write your name and address clearly.

EARTH TREMOR THEN EXACTS HEAVY TOLL IN ISLAND CITY

Madeira Islands Scene of Disaster, Says Lisbon.

BOATS CAPSIZED

Portuguese Government Issues Instructions for Relief.

LISBON, Dec. 17.—A tidal wave, followed by an earthquake, has devastated Funchal, principal city of the Madeira Islands, according to advances received here today.

Heavy loss of life and poperty is reported in the meagre dispatches received here.

City is Flooded.

The disaster occurred yesterday when a huge tidal wave swept over the mole, partially destroying it, and flooded the lower portions of the city of Funchal.

The devastating effects of the tidal wave had not been counted before an earthquake shook the city and added the destruction. Houses were heavily damaged, business places were flooded and small boats in the harbor were washed ashore or capsized.

The loss of life is still indeterminable, but it is believed that it is heavy. Many are reported to have suffered severe injury.

Panic reigned among the population.

Radio and cable communications have been seriously interrupted.

Last Sunday a hurricane swept over Funchal, doing heavy damage, and causing a loss of life estimated at eight.

The Portuguese government had issued instructions for relief measures and it is anticipated that if necessary relief ships will be sent to Madeira from the Azores.

This is the second disaster in the islands off the African coast within six months. A tidal wave and earthquake recently caused great damage and considerable loss of life in Horta, the Azores.

MARX'S BERLIN CABINET FALLS

Government Defeated in Reichstag by Socialists.

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—The Marx government has fallen. The government was defeated in the reichstag on a no confidence motion sponsored by the socialists today.

The vote of no confidence was carried by 249 yeas to 171 nays.

The socialists announced their intention last week of bringing a motion of no confidence before the reichstag, but early this week efforts were made to patch up their differences with the government without avail

At present it seems likely that Dr. Scholz, of the German People's party, may head the next government.

Herr Stresemann is leader of this party and it is anticipated that he may continue as foreign minister in the next government.

Defer Arguments In Fall-Sinclair "Oil Scandal" Case

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—After waiting patiently for more than an hour, counsel for the government, and for H. F. Sinclair and Albert B. Fall this morning were advised that argument on the motion to quash the conspiracy indictment against the oil man and the former cabinet officer had been postponed until Tuesday.

The great number of persons waiting arraignment and sentence in the criminal branch of the District of Columbia supreme court caused Justice Jennings Bailey to make the change.

Bailey ordered, however that on Tuesday both defendants be present. This morning, Fall was not at the court house and Sinclair, after a brief appearance, left.

POLICE FIND NO SECRET KEY TO PUNCHBOARD

Exonerate Liberty Pool Room Owners in Statement.

INQUIRY MADE

Ten-day Suspension Based on Offer of Money Prizes.

Thomas McDonough and Jack McLaughlin, operators of the Liberty pool room, whose license was suspended for 10 days by Mayor Ralph Benedum last Saturday, were exonerated of a report that the punch-board confiscated in their place of business contained a secret key, in a statement issued today by Chief of Police McDermott.

The police chief's statement follows:

"After making an investigation I find that the boards seized at the Liberty pool room contained no secret key but were in violation of the law inasmuch as it was a game of chance.

"Representatives of a Chicago house were in East Liverpool recently endeavoring to place boards which contained a secret key but none were sold, I learned upon inquiry."

Operators of five other pool rooms in whose places punch-boards were seized in a raid about 10 days ago, were closed for periods of five days each. In explaining the difference in the suspension perods, Mayor Benedum today said that the Liberty room was operating the "California Gold Mine," commonly known as a money board, while the other places were operating merchandise boards.

The four pool rooms whose licenses were suspended for five days reopened for business at noon yesterday. The Liberty will re-open next Tuesday.

Six are Forced To Flee When Fire Sweeps Lisbon Home

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pappas and four children, living in Hephner hollow, near Lisbon, were forced to flee in night clothing to a neighbor's home at 5:30 o'clock this morning as flames destroyed their home and practically all their belongings. The loss is estimated at $1,500.

The fire originated from an overheated flue. The Lisbon fire department responded to a call, the blaze being beyond control when the firemen arrived.

TOKIO RULER SUCCUMBS IN PALACE, SAYS CENTRAL NEWS

Official Bulletin, However, Says He is Still Alive.

PULSE HIGHER

All High Japanese Officials Remain at Hayama.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Emperor Yoshihito, of Japan, is dead, according to a Central News dispatch from Tokio this afternoon.

Emperor Yoshihito was born on August 31, 1879. He succeeded his father Mutsuhito, on the Japanese throne on July 30, 1912, at the age of [illegible] years.

The late emperor had been in precarious health for more than five years. His indispositions had completely incapacitated him for his duties as emperor, and the reins of the Japanese government had been held during that period by his son, Crown Prince Hirohito, who ruled as prince regent.

Hirohito, who is 25 years old, is one of the most democratic of rulers. He will succeed his father on the throne as soon as the extensive formalities following Yoshihito's death have been dispensed with.

TOKIO, Dec. 17.—An official bulletin issued at 10:40 p. m. tonight declared that the Emperor of Japan was still alive.

The bulletin said the emperor's pulse and respiration were higher and that his fever remained about the same.

The statement revealed that salt water injections have failed to produce distinctive results.

All high Japanese officials are remaining at Hayama.

May Withhold News of Death.

The above official bulletin was issued at 8:40 a. m., New York time.

The news of the death of the emperor of Japan, in accordance with custom, may be withheld for many days after his death. No announcement of the death is made until all members of the family have been notified and arrangements for the succession are made. Furthermore the announcement of the death would probably be withheld until the body had been removed to the royal palace. Since an emperor must always die in his palace, so far as official records go, in the light of the aforegoing dispatch it would seem possible that Central News dispatch of the emperor's death is premature.

KANSAS CITY BANK BANDITS GET $79,600

Four Robbers Hold Up Messenger in Downtown Zone.

ESCAPE IN AUTO

Outlaws Execute Robbery With Almost Perfect Finesse.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 17—Four bandits held up a messenger for the Fidelity National bank here today and escaped with $79,600 in new currency being sent to the Fidelity bank from the federal reserve bank.

The hold-up occurred in the heart of the downtown section.

The money was being carried by one messenger, who was accompanied by a guard a short distance behind. The bandits pulled up to the curb in a motor car. While one of them stole up to the guard from behind and slugged him, others held up the messenger, seized the money and escaped in the car.

Three shots were fired at the fleeing bandits, but none took effect, it is believed.

With the streets thronged by crowds of noonday shoopers, the bandits executed the holdup with almost perfect finesse. With such swiftness was it accomplished that one man standing a few feet away, who saw it from beginning to end, said the bandits had taken the money and were gone before he had time even to shout an alarm. Other passersby were entirely unaware of what had happened until they heard shots fired at the fleeing bandits.

PROSECUTION WITNESS NAMES MAZER, RUDNER IN CANTON TESTIMONY

Thelma Harris, Called in McDermott's Trial for Murder of Don R. Mellett, Crusading Editor, Says Alleged Conspirators Met in Doll Carey's House on Night Before Slaying.

SHE ALSO TELLS JURORS THAT POLICEMAN WAS IN PARTY

By DAVID P. SENTNER.

CANTON, O., Dec. 17.—Thelma Harris, of Canton, testified today at the trial of Pat McDermott for the murder of Don R. Mellett, vice crusading publisher, that Louis Mazer and Ben Rudner, alleged conspirators with McDermott, had met in Doll Carey's house in Canton the night before the murder.

"When Mazer went out he had a gun," Miss Harris said.

The witness said Policeman Streitemberger also visited the Carey house with Mazer.

Stanley Baltzly, Massillon storekeeper, testified that Ben Rudner, a week or ten days before the Mellett crime, told him "there would be a big doings up in Canton."

Norman Clark, lawyer, under charge of liquor conspiracy, brought by Cleveland federal authorities, testified Louis Mazer had threatened his life. He was formerly Mazer's lawyer. The witness denied the quarrel with Mazer was over liquor matters.

Finish State's Case Today.

Prosecutor C. B. McClintock said during a recess that he had only five or six more witnesses to call and would finish the state's case today.

The prosecution in drawing its case to a close was emphasizing the testimony against Ben Rudner, wealthy Massillon hardware merchant, and Louis Mazer, of Canton, indicted with McDermott for murder.

The prosecution charges that Rudner hired McDermott to "get" Mellett for the latter's editorial attacks upon the bootlegging ring."

Mellett alleged the "ring" was corrupting the local police department.

Malcolm Klein, another witness, told on the stand of seeing Rudner and Mazer in a Chrysler automobile in Canton on the morning of the murder.

Danny Pfuff, of Cleveland, then testified. Praff related his acquaintanceship with McDermott after the murder when Pat was "hiding out" in Cleveland.

"What was your business when you were seeing McDermott and Ben Nadel in Cleveland?" Pfaff was asked.

"Bootlegging," the witness answered smilingly.

Policeman Reported Ill.

After a luncheon recess was declared, Prosecutor McClintock announced that he was preparing to send an ambulance for J. A. McDonald, Canton policeman, wanted as a state witness. McDonald was reported too ill to appear.

O. E. Pfouts, Canton official, was recalled to the witness stand in the afternoon session. Defense counsel had an unnamed youth pose before him.

"Could this boy have been the one you saw with Ben Rudner in an automobile," the witness was asked.

"It might have been," Pfouts finally admitted.

The witness had previously testified to seeing Rudner and McDermott together in a Chrysler the Sunday before the murder.

NAPOLEON WAS NOT A MERCHANT

—but he showed that he knew a bit about other things than warfare and government organizations when he remarked: "A merchant does not make money as a general wins battles—at a single blow". The Little Corporal was right. A merchant prospers only as he serves his public well over a period of time. There are no short cuts to success in storekeeping. It is the making of friends, not the mere selling of customers that builds a permanent and growing business.

Ogilvie's Christmas Store News

Clothing for children of all ages from kindergarten to college. Outer and under garments. Smartest styles.

EAST LIVERPOOL, OHIO, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1926. EDITION 35.

It is Wonderful—the Joy of the Children, the Bright Enthusiasms of the Parents, the Spread of the Christmas Spirit Over Everything

NAPOLEON WAS NOT A MERCHANT

—but he showed that he knew a bit about other things than warfare and government organizations when he remarked: "A merchant does not make money as a general wins battles—at a single blow". The Little Corporal was right. A merchant prospers only as he serves his public well over a period of time. There are no short cuts to success in storekeeping. It is the making of friends, not the mere selling of customers that builds a permanent and growing business.

FIRE MARSHAL ISSUES WARNING

C. L. Topping, state fire marshal, in a sfatement just issued calls attention to the "needless and shocking" loss of life due to fires, particularly during this season of the year.

The most distressing feature of the reports reaching his office, Topping says, are those relating to the lives of children.

His statement in part follows:

For November, so far as our records are completed, the toll was 15 deaths and 23 injured, a total of 38 casualties. In a number of instances the injured ones were not expected to recover when the reports were made to this department. In several other instances the victims will bear the scars of the flames for life.

In nearly a third of these casualties unscreened, open fires in homes, viz: fireplaces, gas stoves and grates, were responsible. A small outlay for screens, preferably the ones used to some extent to keep the baby away from the fire, would have prevented this terrible sacrifice of life and the intense suffering of those who barely escaped death.

Property losses from fire in West Virginia is a pressing problem, but that condition is of little weight when put in the balance with the problem of safeguarding life from the same cause."

HUGUS PREDICTS BUSY SESSION

Considerable interest has been stirred locally over the coming sessions of the West Virginia State Legislature. Early activities have been quiet. It is the opinion of Senator Wright Hugus that the coming session will be one of the most important in the history of the state.

Among the important issues that will take a great deal of time will be the water power project and the proposed issuance of from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 in bonds for the completion of the state road building project. Taxation problems also loom before the two legislative bodies.

The color of the legislature as far as party control is composed remains the same as during the past two years, the Republicans still remain in control of the senate and house.

Corn Borer Quarantine.

Section of Hancock, Brooke and Ohio counties may be placed under the corn borer quarantine ban next summer, according to reports from the agricultural department at Washington. Traces of the borer was discovered during the fall by federal bureau officials.

Gridders Practicing.

Football practice is being held by players of plants 4 and 6 of the Homer Laughlin China company who will clash on the gridiron on Christmas morning. These games were an annual feature several years ago.

Lodgemen to Meet.

Members of Clark lodge No. 447, I. O. O. F. will meet this evening in the Aaron building, Fifth street. Routine business will be transacted.

No Special Program.

There will be no special closing programs in the Newell school when sessions are suspended for the Christmas holidays on Thursday, December 23. Many of the pupils are rehearsing for entertainments to be held in the various churches of the city.

Christmas Safety Thinking

The National Safety Council, which is dedicated to the prevention of accidents on the streets and highways, in other public places, at home, on the sea and throughout industrial establishments, emphasizes in a bulletin just issued that the Yuletide season has certain hazards not found during other months of the year.

As a means of preventing holiday accidents in the homes, East Liverpool district people should remembers these "don'ts":

Don't use open candles on Christmas trees.

Don't place tree near open lights (candles, gas or oil lamps).

Don't set tree in poor or flimsy support.

Don't operate any toy electrical apparatus under a tree or near cotton, paper or other inflammable material.

Don't give dangerous toys (guns, knives, etc.) to children—it may mean someone's death.

Don't allow inflammable decorations to come into contact with hot electric light bulbs.

Don't use a rickety step-ladder in decorating trees, hanging wreaths and decorations. Many people die from falls.

Don't go close to fire in a Santa Claus costume—the whiskers, cotton trimmings, etc., are highly inflammable.

Don't permit any unsafe practices in any public Christmas celebrations in which you may be a participant.

Don't leave a lighted tree unwatched, especially if children are near.

Don't put cotton beneath the tree to make the carpet looke like snow-covered ground.

Don't celebrate by drinking questionable liquors which may contain wood alcohol.

Don't allow trees to remain in buildings after holidays. They dry up and become in flammable.

Don't spoil the day by an avoidable accident.

In other words, as the council suggests, do your Christmas safety thinking early.

Is or Are?

The Burlington publicity man wrote: "Along the right of way is a tremendous area in which is produced more than two-thirds of the oats and more than half the corn in the United States." And all was well until some official insisted that he should have written "Are produced more than two-thirds, etc." Then the brawl was on.

Professors and newspaper writers and business and professional men all added their opinions, and very thoroughly confused the issue by insisting that one or the other of the forms was right and one was wrong, when the simple fact was probably this: They were both right.

In such a case it is a question of what one has in his mind and is trying to put into words. It he is thinking of the oats and the corn as two separate things, of course he should use the plural verb, "are." If he is thinking of the mere quantity of grain made up of the oats and corn together, naturally he will use the singular form, "is."

We are always getting into the same sort of trouble about what grammarians call "collective nouns." Shall we say "the crowd was" or "the crowd were"? Here again it is merely a question of what we mean.

If we refer to the crowd as a unit, we naturally and properly say "is." If we think "distributively" of the many different persons in the crowd, we naturally and properly say "are."

In the United States we say correctly "the government is," because we emphasize its unity. In England they say just as correctly, "the government are," because they emphasize the individuals comprising it.

All of which seems perfectly clear and true. And yet undoubtedly somebody will come right back and say we are dead wrong. People are so fond of dogmatizing about words, instead of being grammatically tolerant, as Shakespeare and Homer were.

Houdini As Jonah

Of several compacts that Houdini, the magician, is said to have made, promising to communicate with the living after death if he could, perhaps the most interesting is the one he made with John Royal, an American theatre manager.

When Royal was running a Boston theatre in 1920, one of his stunts was to put on the stage a small whale that had been caught in Boston Bay. He sewed Houdini inside and challenged him to do a "Jonah." The juggler obliged, reappearing in about 10 minutes, with the usual lack of evidence as to how he accomplished the feat.

Royal suggested that he must have the help of spirits. Houdini smilingly denied the allegation. Then, as they discussed spiritualism, the two agreed that whichever of them died before the other should try to communicate with him within six weeks after death, by a message that would clearly identify the sender.

If Houdini died first, his message was to be: "Do you remember the fish you put me in in Boston?"

If Royal died first, his message was to be: "Do you remember how long the fish had been dead?"

Royal has been waiting patiently for that fish message—and a whale of a message it would be, in the annals of spiritualism! But it has never come. Jonah does not re-appear.

AN OUTRIGHT INVESTMENT.

Last year they were holding a benefit at one of the New York theatres to raise funds for a humane society making a specialty of caring for infirm work beasts and domestic animals, generally. The slogan of the campaign was "Be kind to dumb brutes" or words to that effect.

A gentleman prominent in theatrical circles was urged to purchase at least two tickets for the performance. The tickets were ten dollars each. He considered the proposition from various angles and then made this response:

"I don't believe I'd care to invest. Don't misunderstand me, my heart is with you in this noble work, and I've decided to do something for the cause. But I believe I can save money by buying a horse and being kind to it."

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Thoughts while strolling: An otherwise spruce old man with sox wrinkled over his shoes. Probably gone collegiate. Bill Guard of the Metropolitan. Handbags with tiny wrist watches set in the flaps. The actors in front of the Somerset.

The dead fish on ice in a window. Supposed to whip up hunger. A dancing academy—Gents 50 cents, ladies a dime. Shop clerks with the immobile look of movie heroes. Hoping to make good and go on the road—covering New Jersey. The shimmer of belief in street Salvationists' eyes.

Whatever became of the Imagists! The executives who sit at street window desks—like statues on horseback. The deep gulf between Fifth Avenue and Sixth. Shiny silk, a few steps—and shiny serge. Chauffeurs now wearing the raccoon coats.

Charlie Parmer, the writer. A horse falls and is shot. Theodore, the head waiter. Wonder what a Turkish bath rubber does on his day off—probably goes to swimming school. A jade toned cafe. With green table cloths. I'm always getting in the way of those surveying instruments.

A man about town tells a pathetic tale of why he quit night clubbing. He dropped into a place one night and the crowd at his table grew so big and convivial that when he went to settle the check he found it took all his cash which with a fifteen dollar tip for the waiter totaled $205. Living in a suburb and the hour being too late for trains he explained his predicament to the proprietor. He asked the privilege of cashing a check for $10. The proprietor chilled. He was sorry but the rule was not one to be broken. So the patron went to a hotel where he was known and was accommodated. "In the days of the tough saloon," he said, "if you spent all your money in a place you could be certain of getting carfare home."

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Christmas Trees.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 17.—Now is the season of the year when the discussion begins as to whether or not there is danger of the supply of Christmas trees being depleted. Many local civic clubs have protested against the use of Christmas trees, while professional foresters are almost unanimous in agreeing that they may be used in unlimited numbers.

Last year the United States Forest Service issued an official statement to the effect that there was little or no danger of the supply of Christmas trees becoming exhausted. This was broadcast by all the newspapers throughout the country, and although it was said to be on the whole a sane and proper attitude, there were in some instances more or less unfortunate results. A comprehensive study made of the situation throughout the entire country showed that in some sections there is still a great need for moderation and education in Christmas tree cutting.

The Forest Service advised that in cutting Christmas trees groups of crowded trees should be thinned out. Also it announced that trees might be obtained in the national forests for the cost of cutting and hauling. Many people, however, took no heed of such suggestions and in many cases every available tree was cut from roadsides, so that none was left to beautify the landscape, or to mature so that it might later be used as firewood or pulp.

The unscrupulous practice of cutting trees without the owner's permission, sometimes in large quantities for market purposes, was a problem. It is reported that in some sections of New York state owners resorted to spraying their trees in November with a mixture of lime and glue to make them unsalable if stolen. The spring rains washed off this mixture without injury to the trees.

Some time ago the suggestion was made that farmers plant unoccupied or unused land in nursery rows, and it is said that in the last few years numerous nurserymen and individuals have begun growing Norway Spruce. As this is one of the most rapid growing conifers it is probable that the idea may be taken up by many others. The State and National Forestry Departments, however, will advise anyone interested as to the best trees adapted to each section. A couple of years ago one man in Pennsylvania cleared over $7,000 during the holiday season from trees he had raised. It is said that these nurseries require very little attention and, as shown, may prove an excellent investment.

The Insurance Question.

P. L. Ricker, president of the National Wild Flower Preservation Society, says in a recent article that "several states have endeavored to encourage such plantations on unoccupied land by passing laws freeing the trees from taxation for a definite period of years, or until sales have actually been made.

"And at present a government commission is making a study of such laws," he says, "with a view of recommending a satisfactory model law to encourage tree planting.

"In Massachusetts the town forest movement is receiving excellent support, and where local land is available for the purpose, it offers opportunity for obtaining not only a constant Christmas tree supply, but for netting the town an excellent profit either for improvements for reduction of taxes. Town forests should in a few years be self-supporting. In many places, particularly in Europe where the movement has long been in practice, they have resulted in freeing the town from debt or taxes, or both."

While the Christmas tree problem does not appear to be such a serious one, warnings have been issued against the ruthless and needless cutting of Christmas greens, such as holly, laurel and crow-foot. Mountain laurel has always been a wild material much used for decorations at all seasons of the year. It has been so abundant in many sections of the east that farmers often regarded it as a pest. Bushes cut back nearly to the ground often put out several three-foot shoots within a year.

Now it is said that it has become rare in most parts of northern New England, although it rapidly increases in abundance towards the south. Many thousands of acres of it are injured

Christmas Safety Thinking

The National Safety Council, which is dedicated to the prevention of accidents on the streets and highways, in other public places, at home, on the sea and throughout industrial establishments, emphasizes in a bulletin just issued that the Yuletide season has certain hazards not found during other months of the year.

As a means of preventing holiday accidents in the homes, East Liverpool district people should remembers these "don'ts":

Don't use open candles on Christmas trees.

Don't place tree near open lights (candles, gas or oil lamps).

Don't set tree in poor or flimsy support.

Don't operate any toy electrical apparatus under a tree or near cotton, paper or other inflammable material.

Don't give dangerous toys (guns, knives, etc.) to children—it may mean someone's death.

Don't allow inflammable decorations to come into contact with hot electric light bulbs.

Don't use a rickety step-ladder in decorating trees, hanging wreaths and decorations. Many people die from falls.

Don't go close to fire in a Santa Claus costume—the whiskers, cotton trimmings, etc., are highly inflammable.

Don't permit any unsafe practices in any public Christmas celebrations in which you may be a participant.

Don't leave a lighted tree unwatched, especially if children are near.

Don't put cotton beneath the tree to make the carpet looke like snow-covered ground.

Don't celebrate by drinking questionable liquors which may contain wood alcohol.

Don't allow trees to remain in buildings after holidays. They dry up and become in flammable.

Don't spoil the day by an avoidable accident.

In other words, as the council suggests, do your Christmas safety thinking early.

, Is or Are?

The Burlington publicity man wrote: "Along the right of way is a tremendous area in which is produced more than two-thirds of the oats and more than half the corn in the United States." And all was well until some official insisted that he should have written "Are produced more than two-thirds, etc." Then the brawl was on.

CALLES REGIME IS ASSAILED BY GOLDSTEIN

Lecturer Says Present Mexican Government is Bolshevik.

300 AT MEET

Former Socialist Speaks at Rally in High School.

"The present government of Mexico is Bolshevik and is a peril to the democratic ideals and institutions of the United States," David Goldstein, of Boston, convert from Socialism to Christianity, declared in a lecture under auspices of Carroll council, No. 509, Knights of Columbus, in the high school auditorium last night.

Approximately 300 persons, including several clergymen, heard the address in which the lecturer assailed Socialism and Sovietism, and warned that communism is spreading.

Mayor Ralph C. Benedum introduced Goldstein.

Goldstein charged that the Calles government is a military autocracy allied with Soviet leaders and devoted to spreading Communism on this continent. The attacks of the Mexican government on the Catholic church are not merely attacks on the Catholic church as such, but are part of the government's campaign against all religion, declared Goldstein. The lecturer pointed out that the decrees of the Mexican government denied, or abrogated, all of the ordinary rights of man recognized by civilized governments and guaranteed by the American Constitution. Goldstein said, in part:

"The fight in Mexico is not a fight of one religion against another, it is rather a fight against the moral standards that God Himself has set up in the very nature of the human race, against those underlying principles that support American institutions.

"If any one wants proof that the Calles regime is a menace to America he should find it in the unanimous support given to it by all the Socialist groups in our country. 'Hands off Mexico,' cries the Socialist party. No, we will not fight 'for piety or for petroleum.' Neither would they fight for America during the World War. Then, with its St. Louis program, they attempted to do what the Bolsheviks in Russia succeeded in doing, and they happily failed. It is only for the Socialist state that the Socialist party will 'mount the barricades and fight like tigers.'

"The Socialist Labor party leaves the heroics and descends to the vulgar. It fulminates against the Knights of Columbus campaign in the interest of things American.

"The Proletarian party clearly sees Calles marching forward towards the Socialist revolution.

"Shall any one doubt that the Socialists know their own? Or shall any one doubt that in this matter it is his duty as an American to support America? We went to war to make the world safe for democracy, is it not now our duty to protect the democracy of our country against the rising power of sovietism across the Rio Grande? Happily for our America the Knights of Columbus stands unitedly against red-redism, and it is doing an inestimable service in making plain that there is danger in the union of the Socialists here with those across our southern border. The Calles regime in Mexico is a plague spot that endangers the well-being of those European countries that border upon Russia."

The lecture was given as a part of the Knights of Columbus for the education of the American people against the Red influences.

Goldstein, who arrived here at noon yesterday from Dover, where he spoke Wednesday evening, remained in the city over night. He will spend the day here, and tonight will speak at a meeting of Boy Scout Troop, No. 7, in the Knights of Columbus hall in the Ingram building.

Goldstein will go to Ashtabula tomorrow.

AVONDALE JOB IS COMPLETED

West Side Open; Remove Other Barrier on Christmas.

Contractor George B. Patterson, Wellsville, has completed the improvement of Avondale street between Bank and North streets. The west side of the thoroughfare is now open to traffic and the other side will be opened on Christmas Day.

Patterson started the job during the latter part of October, and, considering the adverse weather conditions, completed it in good time. Engineer Clapsaddle said. Patterson is now replacing cement sidewalks in front of the George Stewart, John Manor, James McCully, William McKeever and John McConnell properties which were torn out when the curbs were set back to bring the street to a uniform width.

Patterson will not begin the resurfacing of St. Clair avenue until next spring. This thoroughfare is to be improved with amesite.

The proposed improvement of Fourth street between Broadway and Monroe streets, contract for which was awarded Patterson in the fall, is held up by court action. Solicitor Frank Hoover has filed a motion for a new trial in the injunction proceedings brought by Frank Swaney, taxpayer.

CALLES REGIME IS ASSAILED BY GOLDSTEIN

Lecturer Says Present Mexican Government is Bolshevik.

300 AT MEET

Former Socialist Speaks at Rally in High School.

"The present government of Mexico is Bolshevik and is a peril to the democratic ideals and institutions of the United States," David Goldstein, of Boston, convert from Socialism to Christianity, declared in a lecture under auspices of Carroll council, No. 509, Knights of Columbus, in the high school auditorium last night.

Approximately 300 persons, including several clergymen, heard the address in which the lecturer assailed Socialism and Sovietism, and warned that communism is spreading.

Mayor Ralph C. Benedum introduced Goldstein.

Goldstein charged that the Calles government is a military autocracy allied with Soviet leaders and devoted to spreading Communism on this continent. The attacks of the Mexican government on the Catholic church are not merely attacks on the Catholic church as such, but are part of the government's campaign against all religion, declared Goldstein. The lecturer pointed out that the decrees of the Mexican government denied, or abrogated, all of the ordinary rights of man recognized by civilized governments and guaranteed by the American Constitution. Goldstein said, in part:

"The fight in Mexico is not a fight of one religion against another, it is rather a fight against the moral standards that God Himself has set up in the very nature of the human race, against those underlying principles that support American institutions.

"If any one wants proof that the Calles regime is a menace to America he should find it in the unanimous support given to it by all the Socialist groups in our country. 'Hands off Mexico,' cries the Socialist party. No, we will not fight 'for piety or for petroleum.' Neither would they fight for America during the World War. Then, with its St. Louis program, they attempted to do what the Bolsheviks in Russia succeeded in doing, and they happily failed. It is only for the Socialist state that the Socialist party will 'mount the barricades and fight like tigers.'

"The Socialist Labor party leaves the heroics and descends to the vulgar. It fulminates against the Knights of Columbus campaign in the interest of things American.

"The Proletarian party clearly sees Calles marching forward towards the Socialist revolution.

"Shall any one doubt that the Socialists know their own? Or shall any one doubt that in this matter it is his duty as an American to support America? We went to war to make the world safe for democracy, is it not now our duty to protect the democracy of our country against the rising power of sovietism across the Rio Grande? Happily for our America the Knights of Columbus stands unitedly against red-redism, and it is doing an inestimable service in making plain that there is danger in the union of the Socialists here with those across our southern border. The Calles regime in Mexico is a plague spot that endangers the well-being of those European countries that border upon Russia."

The lecture was given as a part of the Knights of Columbus for the education of the American people against the Red influences.

Goldstein, who arrived here at noon yesterday from Dover, where he spoke Wednesday evening, remained in the city over night. He will spend the day here, and tonight will speak at a meeting of Boy Scout Troop, No. 7, in the Knights of Columbus hall in the Ingram building.

Goldstein will go to Ashtabula tomorrow.

AVONDALE JOB IS COMPLETED

West Side Open; Remove Other Barrier on Christmas.

Contractor George B. Patterson, Wellsville, has completed the improvement of Avondale street between Bank and North streets. The west side of the thoroughfare is now open to traffic and the other side will be opened on Christmas Day.

Patterson started the job during the latter part of October, and, considering the adverse weather conditions, completed it in good time. Engineer Clapsaddle said. Patterson is now replacing cement sidewalks in front of the George Stewart, John Manor, James McCully, William McKeever and John McConnell properties which were torn out when the curbs were set back to bring the street to a uniform width.

Patterson will not begin the resurfacing of St. Clair avenue until next spring. This thoroughfare is to be improved with amesite.

The proposed improvement of Fourth street between Broadway and Monroe streets, contract for which was awarded Patterson in the fall, is held up by court action. Solicitor Frank Hoover has filed a motion for a new trial in the injunction proceedings brought by Frank Swaney, taxpayer.

U. S. MINISTER'S FAMILY FIRED UPON BY BEDOUINS

CULBERTSON AND HIS KIN NOW IN PETRA

Envoy to Roumania Was Lost in Trans-Jordania.

FACED DANGERS

Driver Strayed From Beaten Track in Deserts.

JERUSALEM, Dec. 17.—Lost in the deserts of Trans-Jordania, subjected to the rifle fire of roving bands of Bedouins, and inconvenienced by short supplies of food and water, William Culbertson, United States minister to Roumania, and his family have undergone a dangerous and exciting adventure.

The Culbertson family has now arrived safely in Petra, Trans-Jordania, apparently none the worse for their adventure.

The Culbertsons, who were touring Trans-Jordania, set out for Petra by automobile. Their two children, Junia, aged 14, and Jane, aged 12, accompanied them. When well on their way their driver lost his way in the desert trails and apparently strayed from the beaten track.

While the driver was plunging about in the desert striving to find the main trail again the motor stalled. The party were marooned in the desert for many hours.

Bedouins passing by spotted the stalled motor-car and believed them to be smugglers and opened fire on the party. Motions were made to strive to indicate to the Bedouins that the party was friendly and eventually the Bedouins approached for a parley. The American diplomat had great difficulty in convincing the Bedouins that his party was actually lost and furthermore stalled and it took considerable persuasion to calm the hostility of the Arabs. Eventually, Culbertson's diplomatic persuasion won and the Bedouins gave assistance to the stranded Americans.

After many hours of adventure and considerable apprehension the Culbertson family made its way back to the main trail and reached Petra. They will leave for Roumania on Thursday.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Dec. 17. — The stock market was swept off its feet in early trading today by the enormous influx of buying orders for United States Steel stock. The 40 per cent stock dividend, announcement of which was made after the close of Thursday's market, though confidently expected in some quarters, proved to be a veritable bomb shell for the shorts, and the stock jumped five points, simultaneous trading in the new stock was inaugurated on the New York club, where stock sold at 116 to 115 in good volume. About 250,000 shares changed hands in the first half hour, the bulk of transactions being in blocks of from 500 to 25 000 shares.

Price gains of 1 to 3¼ points were scored by a number of the active railroad and industrial stocks in a miniature "bear panic" in which professionals scrambled to cover their short committments. Atchison let the rails, with a gain of 3⅝ at 162¾; Allied Chemical jumped 4½ to 144¼; DuPont, Baldwin and other speculative leaders gained 1 to 3 points in the first period and the tone of the market as a whole was buoyant.

The divident rails forged to the front in the second hour, under the lead of New York Central and Atchison Motor stocks and oils were freely sold in this period and slight declines were recorded in prices of representative stocks.

LAD EXPELLED FROM COLLEGE TAKES POISON

Suicide Follows Reprimand for Giving Fag to Co-ed.

INDIANA TRAGEDY

Girl, Too, Suspended From North Manchester School.

NORTH MANCHESTER, Ind., Dec. 17.—Since the death of Joseph Tillman, 19-year-old sophomore at Manchester college, who swallowed poison following his expulsion from school for giving cigarettes to a co-ed friend, is a clear case of suicide, there will be no inquest, authorities declared here today.

The girl, Dorothy Papenhausen, 18, and Tillman were both suspended by college president, Otto Winger, last Friday for smoking cigarettes together. The youth is said to have admitted giving the cigarettes to Miss Pepenhausen.

One other charge, that of riding in a student's automobile without her parents' authority, was also preferred against the co-ed.

On his way home from school, young Tilman stopped at a drug store, purchased ten bichloride of mercury tablets and swallowed them. He collapsed on reaching his home.

"Joe and I were just good friends," said Miss Pepenhausen when told of young Tillman's death. "I was never so shocked by anything in my life."

Tillman's mother said she believed "Joe committed suicide because his suspension followed another, even greater disappointment—his failure to pass an examination for West Point several months ago."

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Representative Jimmie Gallivan of Massachusetts looks like the logical successor to John Philip Hill of Maryland as leader of the wet bloc in the lower house of the next—the 70th—congress.

J. A. GALLIVAN

Representative L. C. Crampton of Michigan is as good a bet as anybody for the dry leadership, replacing Willie Upshaw, of Georgia.

Hill gambled away his seat in the house of representatives in an effort to take the Maryland Republican senatorial nomination away from Senator O. E. Weller. Weller was beaten in the election by the Democratic candidate, Millard E. Tydings, but he defeated Hill in the primary.

Upshaw was euchred out of a Democratic renomination for representative in the 5th Georgia district—where a Democratic nomination is equivalent to an election—by Leslie J. Steele.

So Hill and Upshaw both are on the last lap of their respective terms, and after March 4 both will go, for at least two years, into retirement.

IT'S impossible to conceive of anybody politically wetter than Gallivan. Hill is very wet but he does have some other legislative interests—national defense, notably. Gallivan's sole object in public life seems to be to smash prohibition.

Even wets generally shrink from the nullification stigma. They say they favor enforcing the dry law while it remains a law. Not so Gallivan. He urges cutting off financial supplies and letting the prohibition unit starve to death.

Crampton has a long record as a campaigner for stricter enforcement legislation and unlimited funds for making it 100 per cent effective. He isn't as vocal as Upshaw but he's uncompromising as the Washington monument.

OF course Gallivan isn't the only good wet among the representatives.

Congresswoman Florence P. Kahn of California has been suggested for the bloc's leadership, but the wet-and-dry fight in the 70th congress promises to be a knock-down-and-drag-out affair and the point's made that it's apt to be too strenuous for a woman.

Representative George Holden Tinkham of Massachusetts is perhaps as wet as Gallivan, but he lacks Gallivan's fervor in saying so.

Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York and Fred Britten of Illinois are as wet as need be but they don't concentrate their entire attention on it. They simply are wet among other things.

BESIDES Crampton, drys also are numerous.

Representative O. J. Kvale of Minnesota is so dry that he beat Andrew J. Volstead, on the ground that he was dryer than Volstead, but he's an independent and it's better for the leader to belong to one of the big parties.

Representative Tom Blanton of Texas is bone dry but has too many irons in the congressional fire to give his whole time to any one of them. Representative Gale H. Stalker of New York is always trying to strengthen the enforcement laws. Steele, who beat Upshaw, is dry, too, but he's inexperienced in Washington.

GALLIVAN and Crampton, in short, are the outstanding candidates for those two leaderships.

If Gallivan succeeds Hill it will be a Democrat succeeding a Republican. If Crampton succeeds Upshaw it will be a Republican succeeding a Democrat.

However, questions of Republicanism and Democracy don't count when the prohibition issue's raised. As wets, Democratic Mr. Gallivan's and Republican Mr. Tinkham's souls have but a single thought. As drys, Republican Mr. Crampton's and Democratic Mr. Blanton's hearts beat as one.

FIRE DESTROYS LOGAN SCHOOL AT INDUSTRY

Blaze of Undetermined Origin Discovered Early Today.

$6,000 DAMAGE

Neighbors, Forming Bucket Brigade, Save Outbuildings.

The Logan school, on the Beaver-East Liverpool road, about one mile east of Industry, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin, which broke out at 2:30 o'clock this morning. More than 60 children in the Industry school district were excused from classes as a result of the fire. The loss is estimated at $6,000, partially covered by insurance.

The blaze was discovered by Thomas George, millwright for the Crucible Steel company, Midland, who lives near the school house. Noticing a glow in the sky as he was leaving his work at the mill, he hurried to the scene in an automobile.

One half of the building was in flames when he arrived. He awakened neighbors who formed a bucket brigade, but realizing that it would be impossible to save the school, a two-room structure, they turned their efforts toward a coal shed and outbuildings. The smaller buildings were saved.

The fire, it is believed, originated in a corner of the older part of the building, which is heated by a furnace. The school until last summer was a one-room structure, but a second room was added before the fall term opened. The furnace was banked by the janitor, Arch Montgomery, when he left the building last night. No other fires were burning.

Teachers at the school were Robert McClure, Beaver, and Miss Emma Bennington, Vanport. Eight grades were taught at the building.

The school will be rebuilt, probably on the same site.

No Move Is Made To Litt Dollar Embargo On France

Officials Read With Interest, But No Apparent Sympathy, Letters Advocating Abandonment of Policy.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Renewed agitation for lifting the American dollar embargo on France fell upon deaf ears in Washington today.

Officials read with interest—but no apparent sympathy—the letter written to vice President Dawes by Irving T. Bush, New York financier, advocating abandonment of the present policy of prohibiting loans to France until she ratifies the war debt agreeement. Bush said "the present situation is critical and our position should be reconsidered." He said a loan at the time would "restore the last sick currency among the great nations of Europe."

Vice President Dawes declined to comment on Bush's letter, but treasury officials were not so reticient. They declared there is no cogent reason why the dollar-embargo against France should be lifted at this time, and they particularly deplored a renewal of pro-French agitation at a time when the French chamber is meeting with the Mellon-Berenger agreement before it.

"Incidents of this kind," said the treasury spokesman, "merely serve to delay the ultimate adjustment. They encourage the cancelationists in France to further efforts to defeat the agreements and raise entirely unjustifiable hopes on the part of the French public.

"Such incidents are to be deplored."

U. S. MINISTER'S FAMILY FIRED UPON BY BEDOUINS

CULBERTSON AND HIS KIN NOW IN PETRA

Envoy to Roumania Was Lost in Trans-Jordania.

FACED DANGERS

Driver Strayed From Beaten Track in Deserts.

JERUSALEM, Dec. 17.—Lost in the deserts of Trans-Jordania, subjected to the rifle fire of roving bands of Bedouins, and inconvenienced by short supplies of food and water, William Culbertson, United States minister to Roumania, and his family have undergone a dangerous and exciting adventure.

The Culbertson family has now arrived safely in Petra, Trans-Jordania, apparently none the worse for their adventure.

The Culbertsons, who were touring Trans-Jordania, set out for Petra by automobile. Their two children, Junia, aged 14, and Jane, aged 12, accompanied them. When well on their way their driver lost his way in the desert trails and apparently strayed from the beaten track.

While the driver was plunging about in the desert striving to find the main trail again the motor stalled. The party were marooned in the desert for many hours.

Bedouins passing by spotted the stalled motor-car and believed them to be smugglers and opened fire on the party. Motions were made to strive to indicate to the Bedouins that the party was friendly and eventually the Bedouins approached for a parley. The American diplomat had great difficulty in convincing the Bedouins that his party was actually lost and furthermore stalled and it took considerable persuasion to calm the hostility of the Arabs. Eventually, Culbertson's diplomatic persuasion won and the Bedouins gave assistance to the stranded Americans.

After many hours of adventure and considerable apprehension the Culbertson family made its way back to the main trail and reached Petra. They will leave for Roumania on Thursday.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Dec. 17. — The stock market was swept off its feet in early trading today by the enormous influx of buying orders for United States Steel stock. The 40 per cent stock dividend, announcement of which was made after the close of Thursday's market, though confidently expected in some quarters, proved to be a veritable bomb shell for the shorts, and the stock jumped five points, simultaneous trading in the new stock was inaugurated on the New York club, where stock sold at 116 to 115 in good volume. About 250,000 shares changed hands in the first half hour, the bulk of transactions being in blocks of from 500 to 25 000 shares.

Price gains of 1 to 3¼ points were scored by a number of the active railroad and industrial stocks in a miniature "bear panic" in which professionals scrambled to cover their short committments. Atchison let the rails, with a gain of 3⅜ at 162⅜; Allied Chemical jumped 4½ to 144¼; DuPont, Baldwin and other speculative leaders gained 1 to 3 points in the first period and the tone of the market as a whole was buoyant.

The divident rails forged to the front in the second hour, under the lead of New York Central and Atchison Motor stocks and oils were freely sold in this period and slight declines were recorded in prices of representative stocks.

More than 60 children in the Industry school district were excused from classes as a result of the fire. The loss is estimated at $6,000, partially covered by insurance.

The blaze was discovered by Thomas George, millwright for the Crucible Steel company, Midland, who lives near the school house. Noticing a glow in the sky as he was leaving his work at the mill, he hurried to the scene in an automobile.

One half of the building was in flames when he arrived. He awakened neighbors who formed a bucket brigade, but realizing that it would be impossible to save the school, a two-room structure, they turned their efforts toward a coal shed and outbuildings. The smaller buildings were saved.

The fire, it is believed, originated in a corner of the older part of the building, which is heated by a furnace. The school until last summer was a one-room structure, but a second room was added before the fall term opened. The furnace was banked by the janitor, Arch Montgomery, when he left the building last night. No other fires were burning.

Teachers at the school were Robert McClure, Beaver, and Miss Emma Bennington, Vanport. Eight grades were taught at the building.

The school will be rebuilt, probably on the same site.

No Move Is Made To Litt Dollar Embargo On France

Officials Read With Interest, But No Apparent Sympathy, Letters Advocating Abandonment of Policy.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Renewed agitation for lifting the American dollar embargo on France fell upon deaf ears in Washington today.

Officials read with interest—but no apparent sympathy—the letter written to vice President Dawes by Irving T. Bush, New York financier, advocating abandonment of the present policy of prohibiting loans to France until she ratifies the war debt agreement. Bush said "the present situation is critical and our position should be reconsidered." He said a loan at the time would "restore the last sick currency among the great nations of Europe."

Vice President Dawes declined to comment on Bush's letter, but treasury officials were not so reticient. They declared there is no cogent reason why the dollar-embargo against France should be lifted at this time, and they particularly deplored a renewal of pro-French agitation at a time when the French chamber is meeting with the Mellon-Berenger agreement before it.

"Incidents of this kind," said the treasury spokesman, "merely serve to delay the ultimate adjustment. They encourage the cancelationists in France to further efforts to defeat the agreements and raise entirely unjustifiable hopes on the part of the French public.

"Such incidents are to be deplored."

TWO SLAYERS ELECTROCUTED

EDDYVILLE, Ky., Dec. 17.—Two men paid on the electric chair today the penalty for murder.

Roger Brannon, 22, of Hamilton, O., convicted of slaying William Nelson Fant during a poker game hold-up, went to his death with a smile.

Sam Harris, Christian count Negro, followed Brannon to the chair for slaying his wife.

SCHOOL HEADS ARE GUESTS AT CLASS DINNER

Purchase of Readers is Authorized at Business Session.

Members of the board of education, together with Superintendent of Schools Charles S. McVay and E. J. Gaston, clerk-treasurer of the board, were guests of the domestic science department of the high school at a chicken dinner served in the school building last evening. Places were laid for eight persons.

The dinner was served under the direction of Miss Gladys Robinette, domestic science teacher, assisted by Misses Esther Moninger, Idella Karn, Ruth Seacrist and Lucille Goodwin, high school students.

At a meeting of the board following the dinner, Superintendent McVay was authorized to purchase, through the supply committee, supplementary readers for use in the first, fourth, fifth and upper elementary grades. The books will be distributed among the schools at the beginning of the second semester.

WELLSVILLE AWAITS OPINION IN FULTZ FIGHT

DEFER ACTION ON APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT

Solicitor Luccock Uncertain as to Next Move.

CHIEF WINNER

Date for Second Trial to be Set Tuesday.

Decision of the city of Wellsville in respect to future steps in the initial removal case against Chief John Fultz will be delayed until receipt of the written opinion of the appellate court which yesterday sustained former Common Pleas Court Judge W. H. Spence in his decision re-instating Fultz.

This was the announcement today by City Solicitor S. C. Luccock as municipal officers temporarily marked time.

Action must be delayed, of necessity, the solicitor points out, until the court's opinion is officially in the hands of the legal department. Then, he said, the city will decide on the possibility of carrying the case to the state supreme court.

In the meantime, Fultz faces another fight as a result of charges upon which Mayor Fogo suspended the officer last week.

According to members of the civil service commission, a date for a hearing on Fultz's appeal will be set at a meeting of the commission next Tuesday night.

In this manner, Rev. Ustick points out, a clearing house may be established for relief work plans and a systematic procedure adopted in the distribution of baskets of food, clothing, etc.

The Salvation Army campaign, it was announced today also, will be launched next week for the purpose of establishing a branch of the army in this city.

The advisory board in charge of the campaign includes Rev. R. W. Ustick, Rev. F. H. Magill, C. W. Arbold, J. A. Forbes, George Patterson, F. L. Wells, Frank Saltsman, C. J. Vogel, E. S. Alton, William Lowary, Dr. G. W. McMillan, Rev. W. S. Rowe and H. M. Russell.

WHITE GIFTS SERVICE TO BE HELD SUNDAY

Arrange Special Program at Christian Church.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

Yule Pageant to be Presented Sunday, Dec. 26.

Annual white gifts service will be held on Sunday morning in the main auditorium of the First Christian church, according to announcement today by Rev. L. E. Lee, pastor. The observance is scheduled to follow the combined service of worship and teaching, which begins at 9:45 o'clock.

Each department will contribute to the program by singing a Christmas carol as a processional and also by having one selected from each group to read a portion of the Christmas story from the New Testament.

Gifts of money will be accepted to be used in maintaining the numerous homes which the church has in various parts of the United States for children and aged. The church in Wellsville is especially interested in the children's home in Cleveland.

Large numbers of material gifts will be brought to the church on Sunday morning, Rev. Lee announces. Several bushels of potatoes will be given by the Loyal Brotherhood. The Loyal Women and Delta Alphas will bring a large supply of jellies and jams while the young people will supply candies and doughnuts. The juniors are scheduled to offer apples and oranges and the beginners and primary members small, new toys.

These offerings will be taken to the children's home in Cleveland on Monday or Tuesday by C. D. Henthorne and Rev. Lee.

On Monday, December 20, the various departments of the church school will have their Christmas parties.

Mrs. L. E. Lee and assisting teachers will have charge of the first two of these, one for the cradle roll and beginners at 2 p. m., and the other for the primary children at 3:30. A treat will be given to the children. Games will be a feature. Mothers will be welcome with their children.

Beginning at 6 p. m. the same day Mrs. D. T. O'Hara and the teachers of the juniors will have their party in the junior assembly in the annex.

At 7:30 the young people of the department in charge of T. C. McClelland will meet with the superintendent and teachers to make candy and fry doughnuts.

"When the Star Shone," a pageant, will be presented on Sunday, December 26, at 8 p. m. Twenty-five adults and a number of children will make up the cast.

The pageant is being prepared under direction of Mrs. L. E. Lee, wife of the pastor, who has had considerable training and experience in this line of work.

The pageant, Rev. Lee announces, is a presentation of Bethlehem at the time of the nativity. The music is interpretative and makes vivid and real in a reverent and effective manner the events in that great crisis in history as it must have inspired the people of Bethlehem.

Steubenville Mayor Fight May be Taken To Supreme Court

As the first mayor in Ohio to be removed under the ouster act, which was today held constitutional by the district court of appeals, John S. Patton, of Steubenville, announced today that he will seek to have his case reviewed by the state supreme court in an effort to regain his office.

Today's decision is regarded as one of state-wide importance, this being the first test of the law under which a magistrate can be called to account for his acts in a trial court by 5 per cent of the electorate.

In Patton's case, petitions bearing signatures of 425 electors were filed in court by the Steubenville Ministerial association, charging the mayor and Blaine Carter, chief of police, with gross neglect of duty, wilful refusal to enforce the law with reference to prohibition, vice and gambling and with misconduct in office.

The defense attacked the constitutionality of the law, the sufficiency and genuineness of the signatures and offered no testimony to refute the charges.

Judge Louis Farr, who rendered today's decision, announced that the court was unanimous in affirming the lower court, which removed Patton from office, except for that section which provides for hearing of charges within thirty days after legal service.

The court held this to be an invasion of the judiciary, but not affecting the merits of the case or judgment against Patton.

Judge Farr declared the weight of evidence was ample to convict Patton of malfeasance—misfeasance and non-feasance in office—that Patton had first-hand information of the existence of vice dens, liquor "fortresses" and gambling houses and that he had no excuse for not enforcing the law other than that he "did not know."

"Patton took office with promise of being a good mayor, but the evidence shows the wolves of society clung to his heels, tore him from his throne and made him a subservient slave," Judge Farr said.

"There was not a word of defense from the accused mayor. It was his right and privilege to speak in his own defense.

"He left unanswered the charges of Steubenville's citizens."

WELLSVILLE AWAITS OPINION IN FULTZ FIGHT

DEFER ACTION ON APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT

Solicitor Luccock Uncertain as to Next Move.

CHIEF WINNER

Date for Second Trial to be Set Tuesday.

Decision of the city of Wellsville in respect to future steps in the initial removal case against Chief John Fultz will be delayed until receipt of the written opinion of the appellate court which yesterday sustained former Common Pleas Court Judge W. H. Spence in his decision re-instating Fultz.

This was the announcement today by City Solicitor S. C. Luccock as municipal officers temporarily marked time.

Action must be delayed, of necessity, the solicitor points out, until the court's opinion is officially in the hands of the legal department. Then, he said, the city will decide on the possibility of carrying the case to the state supreme court.

In the meantime, Fultz faces another fight as a result of charges upon which Mayor Fogo suspended the officer last week.

According to members of the civil service commission, a date for a hearing on Fultz's appeal will be set at a meeting of the commission next Tuesday night.

Each department will contribute to the program by singing a Christmas carol as a processional and also by having one selected from each group to read a portion of the Christmas story from the New Testament.

Gifts of money will be accepted to be used in maintaining the numerous homes which the church has in various parts of the United States for children and aged. The church in Wellsville is especially interested in the children's home in Cleveland.

Large numbers of material gifts will be brought to the church on Sunday morning, Rev. Lee announces. Several bushels of potatoes will be given by the Loyal Brotherhood. The Loyal Women and Delta Alphas will bring a large supply of jellies and jams while the young people will supply candies and doughnuts. The pageant is being prepared under direction of Mrs. L. E. Lee, wife of the pastor, who has had considerable traihing and experience in this line of work.

COAL OUTPUT IS INCREASING

Production in First 11 Months Placed at High Figure.

The estimated production of bituminous coal in West Virginia from last January 1 up to November 30 was 134,400,000 tons, according to word from the United States bureau of mines to R. M. Lambie, chief of the state department of mines. Based on this estimate, the year's production would run probably to 145,000,000 tons. These figures, however, varies from unofficial estimates made locally, which indicate that the 1926 production will run between 138,000,000 and 140,000,000.

Last year West Virginia's bituminous production was 123,061,000 and in Pennsylvania last year, the bituminous production was 136,928,019 tons.

Coal men of this state anticipate that West Virginia this year will run ahead of Pennsylvania.

In connection with this year's probable production, it is pointed out that in the 20 years since 1906, West Virginia's coal output has increased by approximately 100,000,000 tons. In that year the production was 41,891,100.

This gain is looked on by mining men as being something tremendous which is not given serious consideration by persons unfamiliar with actual mining conditions.

While much progress has been made in improving safety methods in the mines for the protection of the lives and limbs of the workers, such improvements have not kept pace with the increasing production.

For the vast production in the state now there are only 25 inspectors employed in the state mining department to look after the safety of the workers.

In furtherance of his plans to bring about great safety measures and standards, Mr. Lambie within the last several days has undertaken the matter of requesting all coal operators associations in the state to appoint safety committees of five men each, whose duty it would be to look into and investigate every mine accident. The reports of the investigations would be turned over to a general safety committee which would in turn give the information as contained to every mine in the state. In this way miners and owners, would be educated in methods and ways to prevent accidents of every kind, and check the hazards faced by the underground workers.

STATE INSURANCE RATES BOOSTED

Insurance companies doing business in West Virginia yesterday filed with the state insurance department new rates to be effective January 3. The increases vary from 10 to 25 percent in unprotected terms areas, depending on the class of buildings and of stock carried by merchants and from 10 to 20 percent in protected areas. A few changes were made from the tentative schedules previously filed, the principal one being a 20 percent instead of 25 percent decrease in the school rate.

Last year West Virginia's bituminous production was 123,061,000 and in Pennsylvania last year, the bituminous production was 136,928,019 tons.

Coal men of this state anticipate that West Virginia this year will run ahead of Pennsylvania.

In connection with this year's probable production, it is pointed out that in the 20 years since 1906, West Virginia's coal output has increased by approximately 100,000,000 tons. In that year the production was 41,891,100.

This gain is looked on by mining men as being something tremendous which is not given serious consideration by persons unfamiliar with actual mining conditions.

While much progress has been made in improving safety methods in the mines for the protection of the lives and limbs of the workers, such improvements have not kept pace with the increasing production.

For the vast production in the state now there are only 25 inspectors employed in the state mining department to look after the safety of the workers.

In furtherance of his plans to bring about great safety measures and standards, Mr. Lambie within the last several days has undertaken the matter of requesting all coal operators associations in the state to appoint safety committees of five men each, whose duty it would be to look into and investigate every mine accident. The reports of the investigations would be turned over to a general safety committee which would in turn give the information as contained to every mine in the state. In this way miners and owners, would be educated in methods and ways to prevent accidents of every kind, and check the hazards faced by the underground workers.

STATE INSURANCE RATES BOOSTED

Insurance companies doing business in West Virginia yesterday filed with the state insurance department new rates to be effective January 3. The increases vary from 10 to 25 percent in unprotected terms areas, depending on the class of buildings and of stock carried by merchants and from 10 to 20 percent in protected areas. A few changes were made from the tentative schedules previously filed, the principal one being a 20 percent instead of 25 percent decrease in the school rate.

Elks Set For County Cage League Opener With Paragons

Will Battle Strong East Palestine Five At High Gym Tonight

Lodge Squad Strengthened by Addition of Ray Wilde, Chester High School Coach and All-Around Athlete; Smith Anderson, Ex-Princeton Star, Will Captain Team.

EAST LIVERPOOL Elks will take their first plunge into amateur basketball circles tonight at the high school gymnasium when Coach "Bill" Powell's speedy looking cage squad tackles the East Palestine Paragons in the game that opens the Columbiana County Basketball league season here.

The contest will be staged in collaboration with what should be a fast preliminary between the Acmes and the Buckeyes, two local independent fives.

Although the lodge squad already shapes up as one of the best looking aggregations, either amateur or semi-pro, since the days of the old league here, Coach Powell added further strength to the outfit yesterday by the acquisition of Ray Wilde, Chester high school athletic coach and himself an all-around athlete.

Although Wilde is a busy individual, he consented to lend his services to the Elks' squad and he will be a welcome addition to the team. In all likelihood he will be used at center. His marksmanship and speed, together with his experience obtained at Geneva college, and condition, should make him a valuable asset. Wilde has not been working with the squad but is expected to report tonight for the East Palestine contest. With a few practice sessions he should be able to fit right in.

The preliminary will start at 7:15 and the main attraction an hour later. Bill Watkins will handle the whistle.

Probably only one or two factors may prove handicaps against the Elks in tonight's game, and they may be small enough to be negligible, providing the Paragons do not spring any sensations.

These may be pointed out as just a little roughness in team play and slight lack of condition, occasioned by the fact that the entire squad, few of whom have ever before played on the same floor on the same team, was picked up by Coach Powell and whipped into a basketball squad within the short space of a week or 10 days. A couple of more weeks and a vast improvement should be seen, at the rate the youngsters are going now.

But whatever may be the deficiency, however small, in these or other departments, there is none in spirit and enthusiasm.

Without compensation, inasmuch as the league caters strictly to the amateur sport, the dozen or more youths who have been banded together have been working out every single day since the formation of the club, reporting regularly and faithfully to Coach Powell in an effort to give the lodge a possible championship outfit. This will count a lot.

Smith Anderson, former figure in collegiate court circles while a student and athlete at Princeton college, will captain the Purple and White quint in tonight's and succeeding games. Anderson's age, experience and obvious ability were considered by Powell in the selection.

Anderson is one of a set of good guards, of which there appears to be no scarcity. Others of the defense set who will appear on the floor tonight are "Chuck" McConville, Earl Reese, Paul Hamilton, "Bus" Crawford, Ted Hogue and George Salsbury.

Wilde, Canne and Howard should provide good material from which Powell can select a center, and the quartet consisting of Wain, Wilson, Clark and McDevitt ought to provide some good shots.

The Elks last night were given skull practice for an hour or more during which a number of plays were figured out and memorized. After that the boys were given a "feed" at the Elks' temple, West Fifth street.

The Salem five, playing its first game, defeated the Salineville squad, 44 to 23, last night at Salem.

Roll 754 for Single Game Against Smith News.

Business Men's duckpin league record for single game team score was toppled last night when Turk-Nash, in winning two out of three from Smith News and tying the News five for second place, established a mark of 754 and erased the previous mark of 750, held by Smith News.

Oliver, of Turk Nash, broke into the charmed "500" circle in last night's appearance, one of the quintet that share the honor. Oliver rolled a 505. Other "500" bowlers include Green, 563; Howell, 527; Alcock, 514, and Welch, 510.

Lee Perssohn set a new ten pin mark for holiday competition by shooting 253 yesterday, topping Nate Simms' previous mark of 245. Perssohn's ten-pine record is one pin better than the duckpin score recently set by Fred Adams.

East Liverpool Lad's Guarding Features Team Play.

ALLIANCE, O., Dec. 17.—The Mount Union cagers received their first real test of the season Wednesday night when they were forced to come from behind in the final minutes to defeat the veteran Ashland team. Even harder opposition is expected next Saturday when the Mount team meets the Goodyear Tire & Rubber quintet at Akron.

The Mount team displayed at Ashland that same fight which for the last three years has won for Mount Union the Ohio conference championship. During that time Mount has won many games by a one point margin after trailing for the better part of the game.

At Akron Mount meets another experienced team on a strange floor. In the lineup of the Goodyear team is "Lefty" Miller, twice an All-Ohio center, captain of Mount's second Ohio conference championship team, and member of all three. Lefty will meet two of his old teammates, Orin, a forward, and Bromby, a guard, on the Mount team.

So far the work of Orin at the forward position, and the guarding of Bromby has been two of the outstanding features of this season's games. The game at Akron will go far towards determining the regulars who will start on the Mount team at the opening of the conference schedule now less than three weeks distant.

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 17.—Edwin J. "Toad" Crofoot, quarterback on the University of Wisconsin grid team for the past two years, will captain the Badger squad in 1927. He was elected at the annual banquet here last night. Crofoot hails from rival territory, his home being at Mason City, Iowa.

SENIORS WIN OPENER AT 'Y'

Gym Class Five Defeats Y-Indus Club, 28-20.

Y. M. C. A. Seniors basketballers were victorious in the opening game of the "Y" basketball league last night, sending the Y-Indus down to defeat by the score of 28 to 20. The game was a good article of the cage sport the Seniors leading all the way. The Seniors had a commanding margin at the end of the first period, 10 to 3. In the second period they went on further being on the big end of a 21 to 7 score at the end of the half.

In the third period the Y-Indus outplayed their opponents and cut down their lead, the count being 24 to 16, when the third period was over. During the final quarter the Y-Indus continued to outclass their opponents and came within four points of tieing the score but two field goals by McGraw in the last few minutes of play cinched the game for the Seniors. Hancock, Whitman and McGraw were in the limelight for the Seniors, while Todd, Pittinger, and Rose were the leading performers for the Y-Indus. Bill Watkins refereed in his usual capable manner.

Pusey May Go With Highs To Cleveland

Star Guard Injured as Result of Fall Yesterday Afternoon at High School; Severe Bruise is Result; Condition Doubtful.

TOM PUSEY, star guard on Coach N. F. Lorah's high school quint, who, it was feared yesterday afternoon, might be lost to the team as a result of a fall at high school, was scheduled to accompany the Blue and White squad today on its trip to Cleveland for games with John Marshall and Rocky River.

Pusey slipped and fell on steps at the high school following assembly and for a time it was believed that he had broken a leg, but a subsequent examination by Dr. R. J. Marshall revealed that the leg had been severely bruised.

The accident, following closely upon a rousing send-off for the team, cast a pall of gloom over the school for a few hours until it was learned that the injury was not as serious as indications first pointed.

Pusey, following the accident, was immediately placed in the care of Bill Cox, of the faculty, who bathed the injured leg for several hours in an effort to overcome the evil effects of the bruise.

With the team badly crippled already Pusey's loss would have been a hard blow. Whether he will be able to play tonight is problematical and depends on how the leg feels before game time.

The Blue quint will tackle the Marshall passers tonight and tomorrow will go out to Rocky River, a Cleveland suburb. Were the squad in top shape, there is hardly any question that Coach Lorah and his lads would come home with a double victory, but conditions indicate a pair of tough battles.

One of the kind of men you seldom meet is one who owes you 10 bucks.—Fostoria Times.

Cleveland's Pro Court Squad Wins Ninth Straight

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 17.—Cleveland's professional basketball club, undefeated this season, won its ninth straight game in a bitterly fought contest with the Rochester team here last night. The score was 36 to 33. The first half closed with the visitors on the long end of a 19 to 14 count. Marty Barry, Rochester, forward and captain, played an excellent game though charged with frequent fouls. Hickey starred for the locals.

SEEVERS VICTOR OVER EISMAN

Playing in top form Bart Seevers defeated G. Eisman, 100 to 42, in last night's tournament match at the American Billiard parlors.

McDowell and Osborn will tangle in the American pocket billiard tourney tonight.

Dundee-Stein Clash.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Ruby Stein, of Brooklyn, and Mike Dundee, popular Rock Island featherweight, will clash in the feature event at Ashland auditorium tonight. They will box ten rounds to a decision and will weigh 130 pounds. Although Stein is a fast and clever fighter, Dundee, by virtue of his superior punching power, is favored by local fans to win. Irish Mickey Gill and Tommy Milton will box the semi-windup, ten rounds at 114 pounds.

McDowell and Osborn will tangle in the American pocket billiard tourney tonight.

Dundee-Stein Clash.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Ruby Stein, of Brooklyn, and Mike Dundee, popular Rock Island featherweight, will clash in the feature event at Ashland auditorium tonight. They will box ten rounds to a decision and will weigh 130 pounds. Although Stein is a fast and clever fighter, Dundee, by virtue of his superior punching power, is favored by local fans to win. Irish Mickey Gill and Tommy Milton will box the semi-windup, ten rounds at 114 pounds.

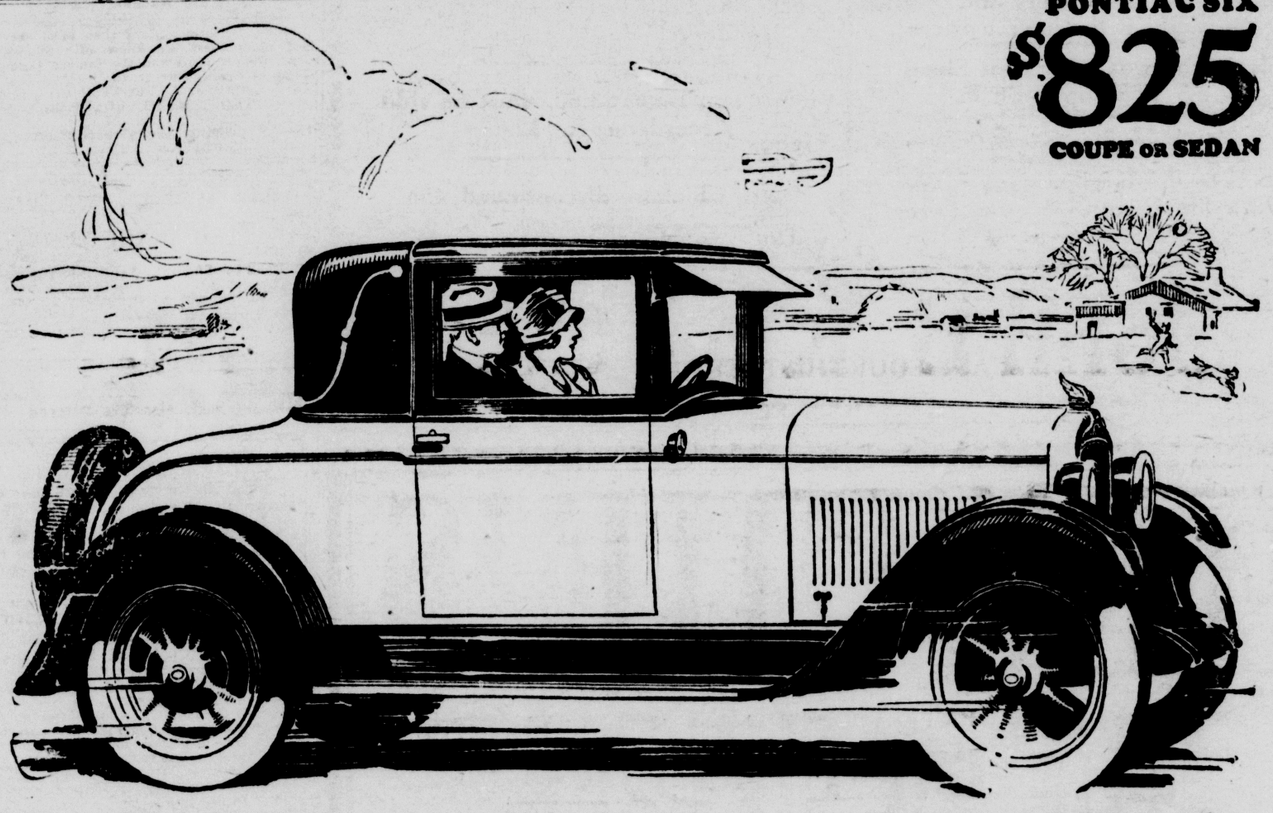
PONTIAC SIX
$825
COUPE OR SEDAN



Qualities You cannot find in any other Low-Priced Six

The spectacular success of the Pontiac Six is based on a simple set of conditions:

Thanks to the type of car it is, to the years that were spent in its development, and to the gigantic resources of General Motors employed in its manufacture—

—Pontiac Six provides certain definite, desirable qualities, at a price unequalled elsewhere in the industry!

Search where you will and as long as you like—and you cannot duplicate Pontiac power, speed, stamina and comfort at Pontiac prices. Nor does any other six in its field provide the beauty, distinction and staunchness of Bodies by Fisher—for Pontiac Six is the lowest priced Six offering bodies of Fisher design and construction.

That is why the number of Pontiac Sixes you see on the road is increasing with incredible speed—

—why the number built in the past ten months more than doubles the full year record ever established by any other new make of car.

Pontiac Six Landau Sedan, $895, DeLuxe Coupe, $895, DeLuxe Landau Sedan, $975. Oakland Six, $1025 to $1295. All prices at factory. Easy to pay on the liberal General Motors Time Payment Plan.

WILLIAM McKEE HONORED AT PITT

William McKee, son of Rev. and Mrs. William T. McKee, has been selected as student football manager at the University of Pittsburgh for the season of 1927, according to an announcement from the office of Graduate Manager of Athletics K. E. Davis, today.

The honor is conferred on a competitive basis, and the competition was keen during the past season, all the apprentices doing good work for the squad.

McKee is a junior in the school of business administration, and will succeed John McCrady of Edgewood. McKee prepped for Pitt at Sisterville high school, his family later moving to Chester.

He has been very active in student affairs at the university, being president of the Druids, vice president of the Sophomore class last year, chairman of the Junior Prom, sporting editor of the Owl, sporting editor of the Freshman handbook, a student member of the Athletic council, and an officer in the Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

The ENTERTAINING ANGEL

By SAMUEL MERWIN — Copyright by Samuel Merwin Released Through Central Press Assn

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT.

"Things seem to be happening to me pretty fast lately." Hester was speaking plainly enough, out of one of those dark moods that fitted illy her charm and her calling. These Yankees didn't often put their emotions into words. Not once before in all their enforced intimacy had she referred to Joe or to this curious new tension in her life. She had seemed really to think she could keep her private affairs to hrself. But now a little of it had to come out. And that little was enough to give the shrewd Sadie a pretty complete picture of the bitter depths of feeling that underlay the gaunt words. It was sobering. . . . . "After all, if you've put in twenty-seven years holding yourself down, and it just doesn't work out . . if you've got nowhere . . . maybe it's sensible to try something else." Her hands fell limply at her side. Her face, the mouth drooping, the soft eyes staring out at nothing, exhibited something so near misery in her soul, that Sadie had to turn away and busy herself over a costume. In a few moments the poor little thing would be on the stage drawing the hundreds of dumb-bells out front within the gentle circle of her skill, making them laugh, charming them . . . . Maybe it's sensible." Hester was whispering. "I don't know. I just don't know."

"I've started more than I meant to," thought Sadie, crying a little. "She isn't going on that party. I'll manage it somehow. I'll do something. She's not going. Not if I see her first."

It was to be, on the whole, an emotional evening for Sadie. How confusingly emotional she didn't yet know. That check began it. The wholly savage impulse to flirt a little with Joe—or, as she now put it to herself, rather grimly, to make a monkey out of him—followed naturally enough. And now, finally, in some self-abasement, she found herself with Julian. He was sitting on the ground behind Murray Watt's tent, under one of the spreading live oaks, a lonely figure. She tiptoed over. Out front, the audience was laughing in delighted chorus. She heard Joe's ringing voice, then Hester's. He heard them too, of course.

"For Heaven's sake, get up!" said she abruptly.

But he merely raised his eyes.

"Get up!" She stamped a foot; then caught his arm.

Rather bewildered by her manner, he did rise to his feet.

"Now stand there a minute." She ran off, and returned in a moment with a blanket, which she spread on

"Oh, Julian, I know, I know who you are!"

the ground. "We'll be digging woodticks out of you with a can-opener the first thing you know. Now sit down."

"Oh!" He contrived an unreal little laugh. "I didn't know about those."

"It's one of the things you learn about in California."

She dropped down beside him.

"What did Murry say about the play, Julian?"

He sat motionless for a long moment, then listlessly spread his hands and let them fall.

"He didn't like it?"

"He said it hadn't any guts. Told me how to write a play."

Sadie's face puckered. He wasn't looking at her, and there wasn't much light.

"He seems to know a good deal about plays."

Sadie considered the situation. "Oh, he does. He ought to, you know. It's his line.

"Yes, it's his line."

Her arm slipped about his shoulders. "Tell me what he said. Exactly."

Julian nerved himself, and did so. After all, it was a relief to talk the thing out.

"Where is the script?" she asked, when he had done.

"In the car. Over there on the driveway."

"I haven't had a chance to read it yet, you know."

"Why bother?"

"Oh, but I want to, dear."

"I don't care."

"May I get it?"

"Of course."

"Where's the key?"

"Where is the script?" she asked, when he had done.

"In the car. Over there on the driveway."

"I haven't had a chance to read it yet, you know."

"Why bother?"

"I don't care."

"May I get it?"

My powders, used by movie stars

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I am a stage star and a movie star. All my friends are stars. I know these public beauties as few do.

We are extravagant. Supreme beauty means so much to us that nothing else can matter. I long paid for powders $5 per box, to secure the very best.

Now, by grace of the makers, I supply those powders at very modest price. The very super-powders for which I paid their price. All toilet counters now supply them at 50c and $1 under the name of Edna Wallace Hopper.

There are two types, but of this superlative grade. One a cold cream powder which clings and stays. I always use that. But many prefer a light fluffy powder. So I supply both styles. Both come in three shades—white, flesh and brunette.

Let me bring you a new conception of fine powder. Send the coupon for a sample with my Beauty Book. You will be delighted. Learn what we fastidious people use. Clip coupon now.

My powders, used by movie stars

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I am a stage star and a movie star. All my friends are stars. I know these public beauties as few do.

We are extravagant. Supreme beauty means so much to us that nothing else can matter. I long paid for powders $5 per box, to secure the very best.

Now, by grace of the makers, I supply those powders at very modest price. The very super-powders for which I paid their price. All toilet counters now supply them at 50c and $1 under the name of Edna Wallace Hopper.

There are two types, but of this superlative grade. One a cold cream powder which clings and stays. I always use that. But many prefer a light fluffy powder. So I supply both styles. Both come in three shades—white, flesh and brunette.

Let me bring you a new conception of fine powder. Send the coupon for a sample with my Beauty Book. You will be delighted. Learn what we fastidious people use. Clip coupon now.

Holly Is Disappearing.

For a number of years it has been realized that holly, which has always to the American represented Christmas, is in serious danger of disappearing.

The native holly is largely a coastal plant and ranges from Massachusetts to Florida and eastern Texas. Although many places in the east have their own supply of holly, many other localities are dependent upon shipments from outside sources. Large shipments are made from Delaware and the eastern shore of Maryland. In 1924 the state of Delaware shipped 13,979 cases of holly branches and wreaths over one railroad alone. Each case contained 200 wreaths. Undoubtedly as many more cases were shipped by boat, and an equal amount from eastern Virginia, North and South Carolina, Texas, and Georgia.

It has also been said that the present rapid clearing of woodlands for building purposes is perhaps more largely responsible for the decrease in the supply of holly than the cutting of it for decorative purposes. It is now found in large quantities only in sparsely settled sections.

Ground pine or crowfoot is in great danger of extermination, since it does not yield readily to cultivation. Part of this danger would be eliminated if when the plant is gathered only the leafy branches were cut instead of the entire root being pulled up. The bright spot in this situation, however, is that this material may be preserved so that it may be used indefinitely, and more and more of this preserved product is appearing on the markets each year.

Mistletoe—that boon of the shy maiden and the bashful beau of another day—does not come within the group of those plants for which protection is urged. It is in disgrace, having been declared by the Department of Agriculture to be a dangerous parasite which is menacing the forests of the country. And it would appear that its only useful purpose is a thing of the past since the modern youth seems able to get along nicely without such artificial means of breaking the ice!

But even if mistletoe at some distant day becomes merely a legend, and if Christmas greens and decorations become in a large measure cultivated, preserved, or artificial, it does not seem that the Christmas tree will ever become extinct. Certainly not, if reasonable precautions are taken.

Second Brother Found Guilty of Killing Policeman

CHILLICOTHE, Dec. 17.—Montrose Hickman, the second of two Columbus brothers to be tried for the murder of policeman Dan Garrett, was under conviction of second degree murder today, following a jury verdict last night. His brother, John, was found guilty of first degree murder, with recommendation for mercy. The pair will be sentenced later.

THIEVES ALMOST RUIN ANNUAL TREAT OF NEW YEAR'S "HOT DOGS" IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Mass. — Distribution of "hot dogs" among the youngsters of North End which has become a custom on New Year's Day through the kind heartedness and charitable generosity of Axel Bjorklund, will not be omitted this New Year's Day despite the fact that the fates and some of the meanest thieves have been exceedingly inconsiderate of the benefactor of late.

Through Axel the free "dogs" has become almost a tradition among the children who gathered at the corner of Blackstone and Hanover streets each New Year's Day.

The aged Bjorklund was the victim of a pickpocket, who robbed him of $50, representing the total of his savings with which he planned to purchase the New Year's "weinies." Shortly afterward a pair of thieves carried away his brand-new boiler for preparing the "dogs."

Still cheerful in the face of his losses, Axel said: "But it makes no difference, the youngsters didn't have anything to do with my losses, and they are not going to suffer. On New Year's Day I shall be, God willing, at Blackstone and Hanover streets, and every youngster will have his "wienie."

While no public appeal has ever been made by Axel it is quite probable that some charitable persons or society will extend aid this year, in helping him to provide the necessary 2,500 "dogs" for the feast of New Year's.

Soviet Workers Will Be Placed on New Factory Regulations

MOSCOW—Soviet workers accustomed to abuse the "worker control" of factories, have come to the end of their rope. The Commissariat of Labor publishes a schedule of punishments for workmen who appear late, slack on the job, or commit any of a number of hitherto popular misdemeanors.

According to the Commissariat's project, a workman appearing late the first time will be reprimanded, the second time he will be reprimanded and warned, and the third time he will be dismissed. The same fate awaits those who idle during working hours, occupy themselves with other than their assigned labor, read newspapers when they should be working, behave rudely to visitors, waste office or factory material, or, being in a position of authority, practice nepotism.

"We are leaving the iron age," and, quite obviously, entering upon the age of brass.—Youngstown Vindicator.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Erie Man Gives Account Of His Experience With Redwood's Medicine.

One grateful experience after another is sent to Redwood by people who have been relieved of their sufferings by his splendid root, bark and herb medicine which is known as "Tepee Herb Tonic."

Redwood, Whose Root, Bark and Herb Medicine is Relieving Thousands.

Among many interesting cases recently related is that of Clarence Airey, 1239 W. 31st St., Erie, Penna. He writes: "For six long years I suffered with my stomach and back. I felt especially bad at night. I was discouraged because I had tried so many remedies and nothing had helped me.

"Finally I tried Tepee Herb Tonic and am now convinced that what people say about it is not half strong enough. My stomach is all right and my back is so much better that I can do a big day's work without getting unusually tired."

If you don't feel good try Tepee Herb Tonic. It has helped others and it will also help you. You may depend upon it. Sold and recommended by Carnahan's Drug Store in East Liverpool, and by other well stocked drug stores everywhere.

RIN-TIN-TIN IN THRILLER

"While London Sleeps" is Screen Play At American

Limehouse, which gave the public that popular song, "Limehouse Blues," and brought success and fame to Thomas Burke for his "Limehouse Nights," gave Rin-Tin-Tin an exciting and thrilling locale for his latest Warner Bros. production. "While London Sleeps," which opened yesterday at the American theatre, takes Rinty from the mountain wilds and the snow country, into the crooked, shadowy streets of London's underworld where crime and daring keep Scotland Yard harrassed and busy.

"While London Sleeps," written and directed by Walter Morosco, is the melodramatic story of a master-criminal, his dog, his beast-like assistant, the girl they kidnap, and the man whom she loves. In breath-taking sequence, you are rushed from the mansions of the mighty to the dens of the lowly; from the hands of justice to the dives of those who evade it; and all the time Rinty fights and loves with intense devotion and loyalty.

Helen Costello plays the girl who is kidnaped and Walter Merill, a newcomer to the screen, her sweetheart; both giving excellent portrayals of young love and high courage. John Patrick is perfect as the crook, who "squeals" on the gang; and George Kotsonaros makes a terrifying apeman. As London Letter, the leader of the gang, Otto Mattiesen has an opportunity to do some powerful work, and makes the most of that opportunity. Dewitt Jennings is well occupied with the role of Inspector Burke of Scotland Yard.

"While London Sleeps," is one of the biggest thrillers of any recent screen production—and should not be missed.

"While London Sleeps" is Screen Play At American

Limehouse, which gave the public that popular song, "Limehouse Blues," and brought success and fame to Thomas Burke for his "Limehouse Nights," gave Rin-Tin-Tin an exciting and thrilling locale for his latest Warner Bros. production. "While London Sleeps," which opened yesterday at the American theatre, takes Rinty from the mountain wilds and the snow country, into the crooked, shadowy streets of London's underworld where crime and daring keep Scotland Yard harrassed and busy.

"While London Sleeps," written and directed by Walter Morosco, is the melodramatic story of a master-criminal, his dog, his beast-like assistant, the girl they kidnap, and the man whom she loves. In breath-taking sequence, you are rushed from the mansions of the mighty to the dens of the lowly; from the hands of justice to the dives of those who evade it; and all the time Rinty fights and loves with intense devotion and loyalty.

Helen Costello plays the girl who is kidnaped and Walter Merill, a newcomer to the screen, her sweetheart; both giving excellent portrayals of young love and high courage. John Patrick is perfect as the crook, who "squeals" on the gang; and George Kotsonaros makes a terrifying apeman. As London Letter, the leader of the gang, Otto Mattiesen has an opportunity to do some powerful work, and makes the most of that opportunity. Dewitt Jennings is well occupied with the role of Inspector Burke of Scotland Yard.

"While London Sleeps," is one of the biggest thrillers of any recent screen production—and should not be missed.

ENTERTAINING ANGEL

He smiled wanly. "I'm afraid it isn't locked. I threw the play in at the back. You'll find a torch in one of the door pockets."

"Aren't you the limit!" said she, and went for it.

She lighted the electric torch and opened the compartment; stood looking in there. Those packets of letters were scattered about. She fingered one of them. How important it looked! She turned the light full on it, and then stared in amazement. She picked up another packet, and then another. Her hands shook. The torch, still lighted, dropped from her relaxed fingers and lay shining among the letters. Slowly she closed the lid, trying to find some clear way among her bewildered thoughts. But she could find no way. And then, as every thought that had ever played a part in her scattered life had found its final level in emotion, so sheer emotion conquered her now. She ran back to the moody figure under the great dim oak, and stood before him, breathing very hard.

"You didn't bring the play," said he. "Couldn't you find it?"

She dropped to her knees, took up his hand and pressed it to her bosom. She was caught helplessly between laughter and tears.

"Oh, Julian, I know. . . . I know who you are!"

"Oh!" He appeared not to catch the force of it.

Her arms were around his neck now. She was kissing him, a slim lovely creature, all alive with frank passion. "Oh, Julian, it's wonderful! How could you ever . . . I can't understand . . . oh, I'm mad about you! Julian, dearest, don't you like me a little? I'm wild over you! I'd do anything! I don't care . . . I can't help it. I can't stop! I'll never let you get away! I'm going to make you! I am!"

But he didn't seem to sense the suddenly-personal nature of her crude emotion. He was only friendly, only kind. And not really there with her. The flame in her heart ignited no answering spark in his. And so, after a time, her excitement and the gust of passion it had formed into momentarily consuming power, passed, and she sat meekly beside him stroking his nearer hand. Sadie was, after all, sensible; and her balance little by little returned.

"Will you let me tell Hester?" she asked, still somewhat breathless. It was then, abruptly, that she felt force in him.

"Absolutely not," he said. "Absolutely not! Tell nobody! Not one word!"

"But, dear, it's so . . . ."

He turned on her. He didn't appear to be angry, but in his curious way he was, she knew now, greatly excited.

"Can't you see that I've got to fight it out . . . myself . . . my personal self!"

She was by no means certain that she did understand. He was altogether inarticulate. But whatever might lie back of his words was terribly real to himself. No doubt about that.

And she couldn't fathom his mood. He was every bit as difficult as Hester. He simply couldn't tell. So, after a bit, she left him. He let her go.

It was with a new sense of frustration that Sadie entered the tent. No one else was in there. The play was not quite over. She dropped down by the table and for a moment sat limply there. Then she thought, "You're a damn fool, Sadie Hartnett, to let yourself get all worked up. But my word . . . my word! . . . .

She couldn't be bitter. But she could be reckless. She drew out the check from her bosom and looked thoughtfully at it. Her thoughts began to assume definite shapes, and to reform into plans. "Some party it's going to be! Some quaint little party! And there won't be many Hesters around to die on your hands. Not so many! Nor Graces, either. Maybe there's just one little act that you can put over, old dear, that ought to do more good than harm." She lifted the hand mirror and studied her own pretty face. "Not so bad, you burglar! There's a little life still there." She gave herself a demure smile. Then a touch of merry wickedness crept into the blue eyes. "Hmm! I rather guess she hasn't forgotten how to work for her supper. Hmm!"

ENTERTAINING ANGEL

He smiled wanly. "I'm afraid it isn't locked. I threw the play in at the back. You'll find a torch in one of the door pockets."

"Aren't you the limit!" said she, and went for it.

She lighted the electric torch and opened the compartment; stood looking in there. Those packets of letters were scattered about. She fingered one of them. How important it looked! She turned the light full on it, and then stared in amazement. She picked up another packet, and then another. Her hands shook. The torch, still lighted, dropped from her relaxed fingers and lay shining among the letters. Slowly she closed the lid, trying to find some clear way among her bewildered thoughts. But she could find no way. And then, as every thought that had ever played a part in her scattered life had found its final level in emotion, so sheer emotion conquered her now. She ran back to the moody figure under the great dim oak, and stood before him, breathing very hard.

"You didn't bring the play," said he. "Couldn't you find it?"

She dropped to her knees, took up his hand and pressed it to her bosom. She was caught helplessly between laughter and tears.

"Oh, Julian, I know. . . . I know who you are!"

"Oh!" He appeared not to catch the force of it.

Her arms were around his neck now. She was kissing him, a slim lovely creature, all alive with frank passion. "Oh, Julian, it's wonderful! How could you ever . . . I can't understand . . . oh, I'm mad about you! Julian, dearest, don't you like me a little? I'm wild over you! I'd do anything! I don't care . . . I can't help it. I can't stop! I'll never let you get away! I'm going to make you! I am!"

But he didn't seem to sense the suddenly-personal nature of her crude emotion. He was only friendly, only kind. And not really there with her. The flame in her heart ignited no answering spark in his. And so, after a time, her excitement and the gust of passion it had formed into momentarily consuming power, passed, and she sat meekly beside him stroking his nearer hand. Sadie was, after all, sensible; and her balance little by little returned.

"Will you let me tell Hester?" she asked, still somewhat breathless. It was then, abruptly, that she felt force in him.

"Absolutely not," he said. "Absolutely not! Tell nobody! Not one word!"

"But, dear, it's so . . . ."

He turned on her. He didn't appear to be angry, but in his curious way he was, she knew now, greatly excited.

"Can't you see that I've got to fight it out . . . myself . . . my personal self!"

She was by no means certain that she did understand. He was altogether inarticulate. But whatever might lie back of his words was terribly real to himself. No doubt about that.

And she couldn't fathom his mood. He was every bit as difficult as Hester. He simply couldn't tell. So, after a bit, she left him. He let her go.

It was with a new sense of frustration that Sadie entered the tent. No one else was in there. The play was not quite over. She dropped down by the table and for a moment sat limply there. Then she thought, "You're a damn fool, Sadie Hartnett, to let yourself get all worked up. But my word . . . my word! . . . ."

She couldn't be bitter. But she could be reckless. She drew out the check from her bosom and looked thoughtfully at it. Her thoughts began to assume definite shapes, and to reform into plans. "Some party it's going to be! Some quaint little party! And there won't be many Hesters around to die on your hands. Not so many! Nor Graces, either. Maybe there's just one little act that you can put over, old dear, that ought to do more good than harm." She lifted the hand mirror and studied her own pretty face. "Not so bad, you burglar! There's a little life still there." She gave herself a demure smile. Then a touch of merry wickedness crept into the blue eyes. "Hmm! I rather gueess she hasn't forgotten how to work for her supper. Hmm!"

Buried Cities in India May Reveal Existence Of New Civilization

LONDON—The discovery of buried cities and of inscriptions and monuments has altered all previous conceptions of Indian history, and may reveal the existence of a new cradle of civilization, according to experts recently conducting archaeological work there.

Excavations have been made in Sina, the Punjab, and Baluchistan under the direction of Sir John Marshall, Director-General of Archaeology to the Government of India, and traces were found of a pre-Abrahamite river civilization.

The buried cities so far uncovered reveal that in this district 2,500 years ago there was a mighty empire, and a culture long since forgotten, but connected with Persia and Indo-China, and possibly the whole of Asia.

"BUNDLE DAY" TO BE OBSERVED HERE SATURDAY

Salvation Army Will Collect Clothing and Toys.

SCOUTS ON JOB

Clearing House for Relief Work is Planned.

Old clothing and toys will be collected in East Liverpool tomorrow in a "Bundle Day" campaign for the Salvation Army.

Clothing for men, women and children and used toys of all kinds for distribution to the needy prior to Christmas will be sought. Boy Scouts will collect the bundles. Donors are requested to communicate with the Salvation Army citadel by calling Bell phone 1339.

At a meeting of representatives of the Salvation Army, Red Cross and Elks' lodge, held at the chamber of commerce rooms this week, arrangements were made for the establishment of a clearing house at the chamber's headquarters. Clubs, societies, church organizations and individuals engaged in welfare work are urged to report the names of applicants so that a check-up can be made.

Another session of the various organizations, taking part in relief work, will be held at the chamber of commerce headquarters next Tuesday evening.

Girls are using a lot of paint these days. Some of them even "make up" their minds and you will have to admit that that is unusual.—Ashland Times-Gazette.

GIANT AIRSHIP READY TO MAKE TRIP TO INDIA

Closely Guarded Secrets of Construction Shown Premiers.

FIVE ENGINES

New Type of Craft Plans Flight to Far Dominions.

LONDON.—The closely guarded secrets of what is claimed to be the most wonderful airship in the world were unfolded to the Dominion Premiers at the Imperial Conference recently when they visited the airship sheds at Cardington.

R-101, Britain's super-airship destined for the England-Egypt-India route, was shown to them in its partially completed state, while they were given access to the plans showing how the ship will look when she is completed.

Although details of this new airship have not been officially divulged, it is generally understood that the R-101 breaks completely away from the notions of Count Zeppelin, and that she differs in practically every detail from any predecessor.

Stainless steel is being employed throughout in her construction, and it has been found, that, strength for strength, it is lighter than duralumin-um.

Five Big Engines.

There will be five 600 horsepower engines, each housed in a car slung underneath the ship. Gasoline will not be used, heavy oil, which is stated to be very economical in use, taking its place. The propellors will be of steel in order to resist tropical conditions.

Other main features of the airship are:

Carry capacity: 100 passengers and their luggage, and ten tons of mail.

Sleeping cabins with two and four berths.

Lounges, smoking-rooms and dining rooms, capable of seating fifty people at a time.

Promenade decks on which passengers will be able to stretch their legs.

Fully equipped kitchens, making it possible to serve a five or six course dinner.

Shower baths.

Accommodation for dancing and games.

Probable facilities for radio entertainment and possibly ever for a daily newspaper.

An elevator.

The whole of the passenger accommodation of the R-101 will be contained in the hull of the airship. The accomodation is amidship, divided into upper and lower decks. On the upper decks will be the lounges and the main sleeping accomodation, while running along each side of the airship will be two promenades.

Elevator to Dining Room.

On the lower deck will be the smoking-room, kitchen—with an elevator to the dining-room—crew's quarters, and the remainder of the passenger's sleeping accomodation.

Both R-101 and her sister ship R-100—which is being built later at Howden—will have a minimum speed of seventy miles an hour at an altitude of 5,000 feet, with a cruising speed with an ordinary load of about four thousand miles.

When completed they will have trial flights in England, and will then be further tested in cruises to Egypt and India.

The airships will save ten days on a trip between England and Bombay, 18 days between England and Melbourne, and 13½ days between England and Africa.

R-101 will be 730 fet in length, with a maximum diameter of 130 feet. Her load lift will be 150 tons, half of which will be reserved for fuel.

Some of these silver statues for radiator caps are as beautifully poised for flight as a spinster lady in a dentist's office.—Akron Beacon Journal.

GIANT AIRSHIP READY TO MAKE TRIP TO INDIA

Closely Guarded Secrets of Construction Shown Premiers.

FIVE ENGINES

New Type of Craft Plans Flight to Far Dominions.

LONDON.—The closely guarded secrets of what is claimed to be the most wonderful airship in the world were unfolded to the Dominion Premiers at the Imperial Conference recently when they visited the airship sheds at Cardington.

R-101, Britain's super-airship destined for the England-Egypt-India route, was shown to them in its partially completed state, while they were given access to the plans showing how the ship will look when she is completed.

Although details of this new airship have not been officially divulged, it is generally understood that the R-101 breaks completely away from the notions of Count Zeppelin, and that she differs in practically every detail from any predecessor.

Stainless steel is being employed throughout in her construction, and it has been found, that, strength for strength, it is lighter than duralumin.

Five Big Engines.

There will be five 600 horsepower engines, each housed in a car slung underneath the ship. Gasoline will not be used, heavy oil, which is stated to be very economical in use, taking its place. The propellors will be of steel in order to resist tropical conditions.

Other main features of the airship are:

Carry capacity: 100 passengers and their luggage, and ten tons of mail.

Sleeping cabins with two and four berths.

Lounges, smoking-rooms and dining rooms, capable of seating fifty people at a time.

Promenade decks on which passengers will be able to stretch their legs.

Fully equipped kitchens, making it possible to serve a five or six course dinner.

Shower baths.

Accommodation for dancing and games.

Probable facilities for radio entertainment and possibly ever for a daily newspaper.

An elevator.

The whole of the passenger accommodation of the R-101 will be contained in the hull of the airship. The accomodation is amidship, divided into upper and lower decks. On the upper decks will be the lounges and the main sleeping accomodation, while running along each side of the airship will be two promenades.

Elevator to Dining Room.

On the lower deck will be the smoking-room, kitchen—with an elevator to the dining-room—crew's quarters, and the remainder of the passenger's sleeping accomodation.

Both R-101 and her sister ship R-100—which is being built later at Howden—will have a minimum speed of seventy miles an hour at an altitude of 5,000 feet, with a cruising speed with an ordinary load of about four thousand miles.

When completed they will have trial flights in England, and will then be further tested in cruises to Egypt and India.

The airships will save ten days on a trip between England and Bombay, 18 days between England and Melbourne, and 13½ days between England and Africa.

R-101 will be 730 fet in length, with a maximum diameter of 130 feet. Her load lift will be 150 tons, half of which will be reserved for fuel.

Some of these silver statues for radiator caps are as beautifully poised for flight as a spinster lady in a dentist's office.—Akron Beacon Journal.

Lady Lauder Accompanies Sir Harry On His Tours

Singing Comedian and Wife, Who Have Never Been Separated During 400,000-Mile Jaunt, Coming to Ceramic.

When some one asked Lady Lauder, wife of Sir Harry Lauder, if she always traveled with her husband, she replied:

"We have never been separated. During the past 20 years we have averaged 20,000 miles a year—400,000 miles—equal to 16 times around the world.

Lady Lauder frankly admits that, despite the fact that she enjoys her home at Dunoon, Scotland, on the banks of the Clyde, at the rare periods when she is there, she is no "stay-at-home," and enjoys the excitement of travel and the many changes of scenery and environment which their wanderings bring them in contact with. In her travels with her noted husband Lady Lauder has visited India, China, South Africa, the Transvaal, Abyssinia, South Africa, Spain, the Straits Settlements, Australia, New South Wales, New Zealand, Tasmania and other far countries. Their latest world tour covered a period of three years. The Lauder tours of the United States and Canada are periodical events.

"I travel with Sir Harry not only because I enjoy it, but also because he needs me—just as every proper husband needs his wife. I look after his wardrobe in these days of fame and prosperity just as I did in the early days of struggle and disappointment, and always" (oh, budding flapper listen to this) "I knit his socks, just as I did when he was a miner, and every bit of silver counted for something."

Lady Lauder, who will be with her distinguished husband when he comes to the Ceramic theatre next Wednesday, has kept her eyes open during the many tours that she and Sir Harry have taken together. She is a keen student of human nature, and has a mind well-stored with interesting incidents of their travels. Like Sir Harry, she is frequently the guest of honor at social functions, and can speak pleasantly and entertainingly in public.

"I have never, however, desired to be in the public eye," she told a friend, recently—"I am quite content to live in the reflected glory of my husband."

POOR TO QUIT STATE PLACE

Utilities Commissioner Expects to Practice Law.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 17.—Announcement of his intention to resign about January 1, next, as a Republican member of the state utilities commission was made yesterday by Attorney George T. Poor, Cincinnati. Poor expects to practice law in Columbus.

The governor, it is understood, has asked former State Senator John T. Burke, Elyria, Republican, and former State Supreme Judge Oscar W. Newman, Columbus, Democrat, to accept appointment as members of the state utilities commission.

Ask $5,000 Damages As Aftermath of Auto Crash Here

A $5,000 damage action has been filed in common pleas court by Henry Johanning, representing his daughter, Dorothy, 6, of Fawcett street, for injuries alleged to have been received several weeks ago when struck by a truck owned by John McCoy, Second street grocer, and driven by Clark Kevan.

The child was crossing Bradshaw avenue near Oak street when run down by the truck. She suffered a fractured skull and, according to the petition, $350 was spent by her parents in medical attention.

The petition was filed by Attorney G. Jay Clark.

Children very frequently have spells of night coughing due to bronchial irritations or while suffering from colds. These coughing spells, if not quickly checked, are very injurious to the child's health, to say nothing of the annoyance to others.

In fact it is guaranteed to stop night coughs or sore throat within 15 minutes or money back. Contains no chloroform, dope or other harmful drugs, pleasant taste and safe. 35c., 60c and $1.00. TIDAL WAVE HITS FUNCHAL

Today

3 Below in Hot Chicago.
Charles R. Erwin.
Wall Street.
Two Best Things.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—In this active city, with the thermometer at three below zero, people walk so fast they don't feel it. For comfort they can look toward the northwest, 38 below zero in Minnesota.

Cold is good, for the young, but why do so many of the older people able to travel, risk their lives in the cold north, with California, Florida and warm Gulf states inviting them?

THE death of Charles R. Erwin deprives American business of an able, constructive adviser. Mr. Erwin, who leaves eight children, and dies too soon, only 67 years old, was president of Lord & Thomas in 1913. Then developed the Erwin & Wasey organization. It can be said of him, as of other men that devote their lives to advertising, that many successful men owe their wealth to his intelligence and do not realize it.

CHEERFULNESS in Wall Street, Christmas dividends continuing in a way to make Jupiter with his golden rain seem stingy.

Yesterday 1,925,000 shares were sold, 2,000,000 the day before, and brokers ask hopefully, "is the public coming in to restore the happy 3,000,000 share days of yesterday?"

DON'T sell anything short in this country, not even products of our mers, not well enough organize control government as they might do. The country's merchandise exports for Novembe[illegible]ast in a year, amounted [illegible]y unit a billion, in spite of a $[illegible],000 drop in cotton shipments.

We have the gold, water power, coal, oil, unlimited territory, developed and undeveloped, intelligent men and women and a government that doesn't interfere with business. What in heaven's name have we to worry about, except our own foolish fears? But don't gamble.

THE World Review asks two questions. How would you answer?

"1—What is the best thing that has happened this year (1926) for America or for Americans?

"2—What is the best thing that could possibly happen in America this coming year (1927)?"

1—The best happening of 1926 was sending the world court to join the dodo.

2—The best happening for 1927 would be the building of an adequate American air fleet. You can't expect Providence always to send an earthquake to Asia just as Asia is getting ready to send several earthquakes to us.

If You Hunt At All

You must know the game laws. Whether you hunt rabbits, birds, or mountain lions, you must learn when and where they may be shot or trapped, and how big a bag you are permitted.

To keep out of trouble you must know the legal provisions in every state covering licenses, seasons, possession, sale and export of game.

All of these points are covered in a 46-page booklet issued by the department of agriculture. Every sportsman should have a copy of this booklet so that he may keep within the laws.

This is a government publication and our Washington Information Bureau will secure a copy for any reader who fills out and mails the coupon below. Enclose four cents in stamps for return postage and handling and be sure to write your name and address clearly.

I enclose herewith four cents in stamps for a copy of the GAME LAWS BOOKLET.

EARTH TREMOR THEN EXACTS HEAVY TOLL IN ISLAND CITY

Madeira Islands Scene of Disaster, Says Lisbon.

BOATS CAPSIZED

Portuguese Government Issues Instructions for Relief.

LISBON, Dec. 17.—A tidal wave, followed by an earthquake, has devastated Funchal, principal city of the Madeira Islands, according to advances received here today.

Heavy loss of life and poperty is reported in the meagre dispatches received here.

City is Flooded.

The disaster occurred yesterday when a huge tidal wave swept over the mole, partially destroying it, and flooded the lower portions of the city of Funchal.

The devastating effects of the tidal wave had not been counted before an earthquake shook the city and added the destruction. Houses were heavily damaged, business places were flooded and small boats in the harbor were washed ashore or capsized.

The loss of life is still indeterminable, but it is believed that it is heavy. Many are reported to have suffered severe injury.

Panic reigned among the population.

Radio and cable communications have been seriously interrupted.

Last Sunday a hurricane swept over Funchal, doing heavy damage, and causing a loss of life estimated at eight.

The Portuguese government had issued instructions for relief measures and it is anticipated that if necessary relief ships will be sent to Madeira from the Azores.

This is the second disaster in the islands off the African coast within six months. A tidal wave and earthquake recently caused great damage and considerable loss of life in Horta, the Azores.

MARX'S BERLIN CABINET FALLS

Government Defeated in Reichstag by Socialists.

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—The Marx government has fallen. The government was defeated in the reichstag on a no confidence motion sponsored by the socialists today.

The vote of no confidence was carried by 249 yeas to 171 nays.

The socialists announced their intention last week of bringing a motion of no confidence before the reichstag, but early this week efforts were made to patch up their differences with the government without avail

At present it seems likely that Dr. Scholz, of the German People's party, may head the next government.

Defer Arguments In Fall-Sinclair "Oil Scandal" Case

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—After waiting patiently for more than an hour, counsel for the government, and for H. F. Sinclair and Albert B. Fall this morning were advised that argument on the motion to quash the conspiracy indictment against the oil man and the former cabinet officer had been postponed until Tuesday.

The great number of persons waiting arraignment and sentence in the criminal branch of the District of Columbia supreme court caused Justice Jennings Bailey to make the change.

Bailey ordered, however that on Tuesday both defendants be present. This morning, Fall was not at the court house and Sinclair, after a brief appearance, left.

POLICE FIND NO SECRET KEY TO PUNCHBOARD

Exonerate Liberty Pool Room Owners in Statement.

INQUIRY MADE

Ten-day Suspension Based on Offer of Money Prizes.

Thomas McDonough and Jack McLaughlin, operators of the Liberty pool room, whose license was suspended for 10 days by Mayor Ralph Benedum last Saturday, were exonerated of a report that the punch-board confiscated in their place of business contained a secret key, in a statement issued today by Chief of Police McDermott.

The police chief's statement follows:

"After making an investigation I find that the boards seized at the Liberty pool room contained no secret key but were in violation of the law inasmuch as it was a game of chance.

"Representatives of a Chicago house were in East Liverpool recently endeavoring to place boards which contained a secret key but none were sold, I learned upon inquiry."

Operators of five other pool rooms in whose places punch-boards were seized in a raid about 10 days ago, were closed for periods of five days each. In explaining the difference in the suspension perods, Mayor Benedum today said that the Liberty room was operating the "California Gold Mine," commonly known as a money board, while the other places were operating merchandise boards.

The four pool rooms whose licenses were suspended for five days reopened for business at noon yesterday. The Liberty will re-open next Tuesday.

Six are Forced To Flee When Fire Sweeps Lisbon Home

The fire originated from an overheated flue. The Lisbon fire department responded to a call, the blaze being beyond control when the firemen arrived.

TOKIO RULER SUCCUMBS IN PALACE, SAYS CENTRAL NEWS

Official Bulletin, However, Says He is Still Alive.

PULSE HIGHER

All High Japanese Officials Remain at Hayama.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Emperor Yoshihito, of Japan, is dead, according to a Central News dispatch from Tokio this afternoon.

Emperor Yoshihito was born on August 31, 1879. He succeeded his father Mutsuhito, on the Japanese throne on July 30, 1912, at the age of 33 years.

The late emperor had been in precarious health for more than five years. His indispositions had completely incapacitated him for his duties as emperor, and the reins of the Japanese government had been held during that period by his son, Crown Prince Hirohito, who ruled as prince regent.

Hirohito, who is 25 years old, is one of the most democratic of rulers. He will succeed his father on the throne as soon as the extensive formalities following Yoshihito's death have been dispensed with.

TOKIO, Dec. 17.—An official bulletin issued at 10:40 p. m. tonight declared that the Emperor of Japan was still alive.

The bulletin said the emperor's pulse and respiration were higher and that his fever remained about the same.

The statement revealed that salt water injections have failed to produce distinctive results.

All high Japanese officials are remaining at Hayama.

May Withhold News of Death.

The above official bulletin was issued at 8:40 a. m., New York time.

The news of the death of the emperor of Japan, in accordance with custom, may be withheld for many days after his death. No announcement of the death is made until all members of the family have been notified and arrangements for the succession are made. Furthermore the announcement of the death would probably be withheld until the body had been removed to the royal palace. Since an emperor must always die in his palace, so far as official records go, in the light of the aforegoing dispatch it would seem possible that Central News dispatch of the emperor's death is premature.

POLAR FLYERS VOTED MEDALS

KANSAS CITY BANK BANDITS GET $79,600

Four Robbers Hold Up Messenger in Downtown Zone.

ESCAPE IN AUTO

Outlaws Execute Robbery With Almost Perfect Finesse.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 17—Four bandits held up a messenger for the Fidelity National bank here today and escaped with $79,600 in new currency being sent to the Fidelity bank from the federal reserve bank.

The hold-up occurred in the heart of the downtown section.

The money was being carried by one messenger, who was accompanied by a guard a short distance behind. The bandits pulled up to the curb in a motor car. While one of them stole up to the guard from behind and slugged him, others held up the messenger, seized the money and escaped in the car.

Three shots were fired at the fleeing bandits, but none took effect, it is believed.

With the streets thronged by crowds of noonday shoopers, the bandits executed the holdup with almost perfect finesse. With such swiftness was it accomplished that one man standing a few feet away, who saw it from beginning to end, said the bandits had taken the money and were gone before he had time even to shout an alarm. Other passersby were entirely unaware of what had happened until they heard shots fired at the fleeing bandits.

PROSECUTION WITNESS NAMES MAZER, RUDNER IN CANTON TESTIMONY

Thelma Harris, Called in McDermott's Trial for Murder of Don R. Mellett, Crusading Editor, Says Alleged Conspirators Met in Doll Carey's House on Night Before Slaying.

SHE ALSO TELLS JURORS THAT POLICEMAN WAS IN PARTY

By DAVID P. SENTNER.

CANTON, O., Dec. 17.—Thelma Harris, of Canton, testified today at the trial of Pat McDermott for the murder of Don R. Mellett, vice crusading publisher, that Louis Mazer and Ben Rudner, alleged conspirators with McDermott, had met in Doll Carey's house in Canton the night before the murder.

"When Mazer went out he had a gun," Miss Harris said.

The witness said Policeman Streitemberger also visited the Carey house with Mazer.

Stanley Baltzly, Massillon storekeeper, testified that Ben Rudner, a week or ten days before the Mellett crime, told him "there would be a big doings up in Canton."

Norman Clark, lawyer, under charge of liquor conspiracy, brought by Cleveland federal authorities, testified Louis Mazer had threatened his life. He was formerly Mazer's lawyer. The witness denied the quarrel with Maz[illegible] over liquor matters.

Finish State's Case Today.

Prosecutor C. B. McClintock said during a recess that he had only five or six mo[illegible]esses to call and would finish the state's case today.

The prosecution in drawing its case to a close was emphasizing the testimony against Ben Rudner, wealthy Massillon hardware merchant, and Louis Mazer, of Canton, indicted with McDermott for murder.

The prosecution charges that Rudner hired McDermott to "get" Mellett for the latter's editorial attacks upon the bootlegging ring."

Mellett alleged the "ring" was corrupting the local police department.

Malcolm Klein, another witness, told on the stand of seeing Rudner and Mazer in a Chrysler automobile in Canton on the morning of the murder.

Danny Pfuff, of Cleveland, then testified. Praff related his acquaintanceship with McDermott after the murder when Pat was "hiding out" in Cleveland.

"What was your business when you were seeing McDermott and Ben Nadel in Cleveland?" Pfaff was asked.

"Bootlegging," the witness answered smilingly.

Questioning of the witness concerning Nadel was barred by the court.

Policeman Reported Ill.

After a luncheon recess was declared, Prosecutor McClintock announced that he was preparing to send an ambulance for J. A. McDonald, Canton policeman, wanted as a state witness. McDonald was reported too ill to appear.

O. E. Pfouts, Canton official, was recalled to the witness stand in the afternoon session. Defense counsel had an unnamed youth pose before him.

"Could this boy have been the one you saw with Ben Rudner in an automobile," the witness was asked.

"It might have been," Pfouts finally admitted.

The witness had previously testified to seeing Rudner and McDermott together in a Chrysler the Sunday before the murder.

TRAFFIC COMMISSION RECOMMENDS OVERHEAD WALKS AT TWO RAILROAD CROSSINGS AND BRIDGES AT OTHER POINTS

Construction of overhead walks at the College street and Virginia avenue railroad crossings and overhead vehicular and pedestrian bridges at the foot of Broadway and also on Mulberry street were recommended to city council by members of the newly created traffic commission at last night's meeting of council.

The commissioners pointed out that "numerous accidents have occurred here recently and several lives have been lost." Council was urged to "take steps that are necessary to cause the materialization of the recommendations." Solons received the communication and "approved the recommendations."

Request of employes of the water works department, firemen and other city officials for wage increases were rejected after Councilman Thomas Farrall, chairman of the finance committee, reported that the municipality's finances precluded action. A statement setting forth the committee's reasons for opposing wage increases was submitted. Council approved the recommendation for the rejection of all wage increase requests without a dissenting vote. In this connection an ordinance increasing the salary of the solicitor's clerk was tabled.

An ordinance providing for the purchase of a three-way traffic light for installation at the corner of Mulberry street and Pennsylvania avenue was passed on three readings under suspension of the rules. Another ordinance providing for the regulation of taxicabs and establishing a license fee of $10 per car per year was passed on one reading and laid over two weeks for further consideration to give the ordinance committee an opportunity to investigate the proposal.

Councilman Otto Kommel, who qualified last night, objected to the removal of a shed over an outside stairway at the rear of the American theatre. He charged that "some one had a grude against the theatre" and submitted a motion that the matter be investigated by the street committee too. The motion was passed.

Service Director J. W. Moore advised the council that he had been "given instruction to enforce the ordinance" prohibiting the blocking of streets and alleys. He declared council had no authority in the matter inasmuch as steps had already been taken to remove the shed.

Kommel said that the stairway was used as an exit for performers when the theatre had a vaudeville act. Mayor Benedum declared that the door was always padlocked on the outside and that it was locked during the early part of the week when the theatre presented a vaudeville act.

Councilman Hughes said that alleys in the business district were blocked with parked automobiles and that steps should be taken to curb the practice.

A petition was received from Harvey avenue residents, asking that council stop the dumping of salt water on concrete pavements. The complaint was laid over for investigation.

Upon motion of Councilman Kommel, sewer assessment against a lot on Springdale street, owned by Joseph Davies, was reduced $170.68.

Attorney Ben L. Bennett appeared before council protesting against the removal of popular trees along Dresden and Woodlawn avenues and Grant streets. The street committee will investigate, reporting at the next meeting.

NAPOLEON WAS NOT A MERCHANT

—but he showed that he knew a bit about other things than warfare and government organizations when he remarked: "A merchant does not make money as a general wins battles—at a single blow". The Little Corporal was right. A merchant prospers only as he serves his public well over a period of time. There are no short cuts to success in storekeeping. It is the making of friends, not the mere selling of customers that builds a permanent and growing business.

FIRE MARSHAL ISSUES WARNING

C. L. Topping, state fire marshal, in a sfatement just issued calls attention to the "needless and shocking" loss of life due to fires, particularly during this season of the year.

The most distressing feature of the reports reaching his office, Topping says, are those relating to the lives of children.

His statement in part follows:

For November, so far as our records are completed, the toll was 15 deaths and 23 injured, a total of 38 casualties. In a number of instances the injured ones were not expected to recover when the reports were made to this department. In several other instances the victims will bear the scars of the flames for life.

In nearly a third of these casualties unscreened, open fires in homes, viz: fireplaces, gas stoves and grates, were responsible. A small outlay for screens, preferably the ones used to some extent to keep the baby away from the fire, would have prevented this terrible sacrifice of life and the intense suffering of those who barely escaped death.

Property losses from fire in West Virginia is a pressing problem, but that condition is of little weight when put in the balance with the problem of safeguarding life from the same cause."

HUGUS PREDICTS BUSY SESSION

Considerable interest has been stirred locally over the coming sessions of the West Virginia State Legislature. Early activities have been quiet. It is the opinion of Senator Wright Hugus that the coming session will be one of the most important in the history of the state.

Among the important issues that will take a great deal of time will be the water power project and the proposed issuance of from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 in bonds for the completion of the state road building project. Taxation problems also loom before the two legislative bodies.

The color of the legislature as far as party control is composed remains the same as during the past two years, the Republicans still remain in control of the senate and house.

Corn Borer Quarantine.

Section of Hancock, Brooke and Ohio counties may be placed under the corn borer quarantine ban next summer, according to reports from the agricultural department at Washington. Traces of the borer was discovered during the fall by federal bureau officials.

Gridders Practicing.

Football practice is being held by players of plants 4 and 6 of the Homer Laughlin China company who will clash on the gridiron on Christmas morning. These games were an annual feature several years ago.

Lodgemen to Meet.

Members of Clark lodge No. 447, I. O. O. F. will meet this evening in the Aaron building, Fifth street. Routine business will be transacted.

No Special Program.

There will be no special closing programs in the Newell school when sessions are suspended for the Christmas holidays on Thursday, December 23. Many of the pupils are rehearsing for entertainments to be held in the various churches of the city.

Christmas Safety Thinking

The National Safety Council, which is dedicated to the prevention of accidents on the streets and highways, in other public places, at home, on the sea and throughout industrial establishments, emphasizes in a bulletin just issued that the Yuletide season has certain hazards not found during other months of the year.

As a means of preventing holiday accidents in the homes, East Liverpool district people should remembers these "don'ts":

Don't use open candles on Christmas trees.

Don't place tree near open lights (candles, gas or oil lamps).

Don't set tree in poor or flimsy support.

Don't operate any toy electrical apparatus under a tree or near cotton, paper or other inflammable material.

Don't give dangerous toys (guns, knives, etc.) to children—it may mean someone's death.

Don't allow inflammable decorations to come into contact with hot electric light bulbs.

Don't use a rickety step-ladder in decorating trees, hanging wreaths and decorations. Many people die from falls.

Don't go close to fire in a Santa Claus costume—the whiskers, cotton trimmings, etc., are highly inflammable.

Don't permit any unsafe practices in any public Christmas celebrations in which you may be a participant.

Don't leave a lighted tree unwatched, especially if children are near.

Don't put cotton beneath the tree to make the carpet looke like snow-covered ground.

Don't celebrate by drinking questionable liquors which may contain wood alcohol.

Don't allow trees to remain in buildings after holidays. They dry up and become inflammable.

Don't spoil the day by an avoidable accident.

In other words, as the council suggests, do your Christmas safety thinking early.

Is or Are?

The Burlington publicity man wrote: "Along the right of way is a tremendous area in which is produced more than two-thirds of the oats and more than half the corn in the United States." And all was well until some official insisted that he should have written "Are produced more than two-thirds, etc." Then the brawl was on.

Professors and newspaper writers and business and professional men all added their opinions, and very thoroughly confused the issue by insisting that one or the other of the forms was right and one was wrong, when the simple fact was probably this: They were both right.

In such a case it is a question of what one has in his mind and is trying to put into words. It he is thinking of the oats and the corn as two separate things, of course he should use the plural verb, "are." If he is thinking of the mere quantity of grain made up of the oats and corn together, naturally he will use the singular form, "is."

We are always getting into the same sort of trouble about what grammarians call "collective nouns." Shall we say "the crowd was" or "the crowd were"? Here again it is merely a question of what we mean.

If we refer to the crowd as a unit, we naturally and properly say "is." If we think "distributively" of the many different persons in the crowd, we naturally and properly say "are."

In the United States we say correctly "the government is," because we emphasize its unity. In England they say just as correctly, "the government are," because they emphasize the individuals comprising it.

All of which seems perfectly clear and true. And yet undoubtedly somebody will come right back and say we are dead wrong. People are so fond of dogmatizing about words, instead of being grammatically tolerant, as Shakespeare and Homer were.

Houdini As Jonah

Of several compacts that Houdini, the magician, is said to have made, promising to communicate with the living after death if he could, perhaps the most interesting is the one he made with John Royal, an American theatre manager.

When Royal was running a Boston theatre in 1920, one of his stunts was to put on the stage a small whale that had been caught in Boston Bay. He sewed Houdini inside and challenged him to do a "Jonah." The juggler obliged, reappearing in about 10 minutes, with the usual lack of evidence as to how he accomplished the feat.

Royal suggested that he must have the help of spirits. Houdini smilingly denied the allegation. Then, as they discussed spiritualism, the two agreed that whichever of them died before the other should try to communicate with him within six weeks after death, by a message that would clearly identify the sender.

If Houdini died first, his message was to be: "Do you remember the fish you put me in in Boston?"

If Royal died first, his message was to be: "Do you remember how long the fish had been dead?"

Royal has been waiting patiently for that fish message—and a whale of a message it would be, in the annals of spiritualism! But it has never come. Jonah does not re-appear.

AN OUTRIGHT INVESTMENT.

Last year they were holding a benefit at one of the New York theatres to raise funds for a humane society making a specialty of caring for infirm work beasts and domestic animals, generally. The slogan of the campaign was "Be kind to dumb brutes" or words to that effect.

A gentleman prominent in theatrical circles was urged to purchase at least two tickets for the performance. The tickets were ten dollars each. He considered the proposition from various angles and then made this response:

"I don't believe I'd care to invest. Don't misunderstand me, my heart is with you in this noble work, and I've decided to do something for the cause. But I believe I can save money by buying a horse and being kind to it."

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Thoughts while strolling: An otherwise spruce old man with sox wrinkled over his shoes. Probably gone collegiate. Bill Guard of the Metropolitan. Handbags with tiny wrist watches set in the flaps. The actors in front of the Somerset.

The dead fish on ice in a window. Supposed to whip up hunger. A dancing academy—Gents 50 cents, ladies a dime. Shop clerks with the immobile look of movie heroes. Hoping to make good and go on the road—covering New Jersey. The shimmer of belief in street Salvationists' eyes.

Whatever became of the Imagists! The executives who sit at street window desks—like statues on horseback. The deep gulf between Fifth Avenue and Sixth. Shiny silk, a few steps—and shiny serge. Chauffeurs now wearing the raccoon coats.

Charlie Parmer, the writer. A horse falls and is shot. Theodore, the head waiter. Wonder what a Turkish bath rubber does on his day off—probably goes to swimming school. A jade toned cafe. With green table cloths. I'm always getting in the way of those surveying instruments.

Flip ladies with eyes cast down. A professional Turk dancer. Wonder if he ever eats in an Armenian restaurant. The youngsters who fish through subway gratings. With chewing gum on sticks. The first St. Bernard dog I ever saw in New York.

A fellow trying to sell passersby tracts on etiquette in this town. He must be twins—one man couldn't be so stupid. William Fox. Those electric signs that spray letters on the sidewalk. There's something trusting about gray silk gloves. And snap case watches.

The flood of bank branches from down town. With their warnings of thrift and collegiate looking clerks. Roasted chestnuts. A crate of quacking ducks. Their despairing sort of cry depresses. Flo Ziegfeld's new black mustache.

In a musical play there is a woman character with a masklike face that never changes expression. It is the comic idea that her face has been lifted and stetched so often she can show no emotion. So her trained butler does the emoting for her all through the performance. It may come to that yet in real life.

A man about town tells a pathetic tale of why he quit night clubbing. He dropped into a place one night and the crowd at his table grew so big and convivial that when he went to settle the check he found it took all his cash which with a fifteen dollar tip for the waiter totaled $205. Living in a suburb and the hour being too late for trains he explained his predicament to the proprietor. He asked the privilege of cashing a check for $10. The proprietor chilled. He was sorry but the rule was not one to be broken. So the patron went to a hotel where he was known and was accommodated. "In the days of the tough saloon," he said, "if you spent all your money in a place you could be certain of getting carfare home."

Greenwich Village mourns the loss of a single tree. A lone elm that stood sentinel-like in Sheridan Square was recently blown down in a gale. It was the sole survivor in the small park that shamefully neglects its trees. The chief beauty of Paris is in its spreading trees. One may violate about all the laws in Paris but mutilate a tree and you strain your consomme through heavy steel bars from now on.

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Christmas Trees.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 17.—Now is the season of the year when the discussion begins as to whether or not there is danger of the supply of Christmas trees being depleted. Many local civic clubs have protested against the use of Christmas trees, while professional foresters are almost unanimous in agreeing that they may be used in unlimited numbers.

Last year the United States Forest Service issued an official statement to the effect that there was little or no danger of the supply of Christmas trees becoming exhausted. This was broadcast by all the newspapers throughout the country, and although it was said to be on the whole a sane and proper attitude, there were in some instances more or less unfortunate results. A comprehensive study made of the situation throughout the entire country showed that in some sections there is still a great need for moderation and education in Christmas tree cutting.

The Forest Service advised that in cutting Christmas trees groups of crowded trees should be thinned out. Also it announced that trees might be obtained in the national forests for the cost of cutting and hauling. Many people, however, took no heed of such suggestions and in many cases every available tree was cut from roadsides, so that none was left to beautify the landscape, or to mature so that it might later be used as firewood or pulp.

The unscrupulous practice of cutting trees without the owner's permission, sometimes in large quantities for market purposes, was a problem. It is reported that in some sections of New York state owners resorted to spraying their trees in November with a mixture of lime and glue to make them unsalable if stolen. The spring rains washed off this mixture without injury to the trees.

Some time ago the suggestion was made that farmers plant unoccupied or unused land in nursery rows, and it is said that in the last few years numerous nurserymen and individuals have begun growing Norway Spruce. As this is one of the most rapid growing conifers it is probable that the idea may be taken up by many others. The State and National Forestry Departments, however, will advise anyone interested as to the best trees adapted to each section. A couple of years ago one man in Pennsylvania cleared over $7,000 during the holiday season from trees he had raised. It is said that these nurseries require very little attention and, as shown, may prove an excellent investment.

The Insurance Question.

P. L. Ricker, president of the National Wild Flower Preservation Society, says in a recent article that "several states have endeavored to encourage such plantations on unoccupied land by passing laws freeing the trees from taxation for a definite period of years, or until sales have actually been made.

"And at present a government commission is making a study of such laws," he says, "with a view of recommending a satisfactory model law to encourage tree planting.

"In Massachusetts the town forest movement is receiving excellent support, and where local land is available for the purpose, it offers opportunity for obtaining not only a constant Christmas tree supply, but for netting the town an excellent profit either for improvements for reduction of taxes. Town forests should in a few years be self-supporting. In many places, particularly in Europe where the movement has long been in practice, they have resulted in freeing the town from debt or taxes, or both."

While the Christmas tree problem does not appear to be such a serious one, warnings have been issued against the ruthless and needless cutting of Christmas greens, such as holly, laurel and crow-foot. Mountain laurel has always been a wild material much used for decorations at all seasons of the year. It has been so abundant in many sections of the east that farmers often regarded it as a pest. Bushes cut back nearly to the ground often put out several three-foot shoots within a year.

Now it is said that it has become rare in most parts of northern New England, although it rapidly increases in abundance towards the south. Many thousands of acres of it are injured

CALLES REGIME IS ASSAILED BY GOLDSTEIN

Lecturer Says Present Mexican Government is Bolshevik.

300 AT MEET

Former Socialist Speaks at Rally in High School.

"The present government of Mexico is Bolshevik and is a peril to the democratic ideals and institutions of the United States," David Goldstein, of Boston, convert from Socialism to Christianity, declared in a lecture under auspices of Carroll council, No. 509, Knights of Columbus, in the high school auditorium last night.

Approximately 300 persons, including several clergymen, heard the address in which the lecturer assailed Socialism and Sovietism, and warned that communism is spreading.

Mayor Ralph C. Benedum introduced Goldstein.

Goldstein charged that the Calles government is a military autocracy allied with Soviet leaders and devoted to spreading Communism on this continent. The attacks of the Mexican government on the Catholic church are not merely attacks on the Catholic church as such, but are part of the government's campaign against all religion, declared Goldstein. The lecturer pointed out that the decrees of the Mexican government denied, or abrogated, all of the ordinary rights of man recognized by civilized governments and guaranteed by the American Constitution. Goldstein said, in part:

"The fight in Mexico is not a fight of one religion against another, it is rather a fight against the moral standards that God Himself has set up in the very nature of the human race, against those underlying principles that support American institutions.

"If any one wants proof that the Calles regime is a menace to America he should find it in the unanimous support given to it by all the Socialist groups in our country. 'Hands off Mexico,' cries the Socialist party. No, we will not fight 'for piety or for petroleum.' Neither would they fight for America during the World War. Then, with its St. Louis program, they attempted to do what the Bolsheviks in Russia succeeded in doing, and they happily failed. It is only for the Socialist state that the Socialist party will 'mount the barricades and fight like tigers.'

"The Socialist Labor party leaves the heroics and descends to the vulgar. It fulminates against the Knights of Columbus campaign in the interest of things American.

"The Proletarian party clearly sees Calles marching forward towards the Socialist revolution.

"Shall any one doubt that the Socialists know their own? Or shall any one doubt that in this matter it is his duty as an American to support America? We went to war to make the world safe for democracy, is it not now our duty to protect the democracy of our country against the rising power of sovietism across the Rio Grande? Happily for our America the Knights of Columbus stands unitedly against red-redism, and it is doing an inestimable service in making plain that there is danger in the union of the Socialists here with those across our southern border. The Calles regime in Mexico is a plague spot that endangers the well-being of those European countries that border upon Russia."

The lecture was given as a part of the Knights of Columbus for the education of the American people against the Red influences.

Goldstein, who arrived here at noon yesterday from Dover, where he spoke Wednesday evening, remained in the city over night. He will spend the day here, and tonight will speak at a meeting of Boy Scout Troop, No. 7, in the Knights of Columbus hall in the Ingram building.

Goldstein will go to Ashtabula tomorrow.

AVONDALE JOB IS COMPLETED

West Side Open; Remove Other Barrier on Christmas.

Contractor George B. Patterson, Wellsville, has completed the improvement of Avondale street between Bank and North streets. The west side of the thoroughfare is now open to traffic and the other side will be opened on Christmas Day.

Patterson started the job during the latter part of October, and, considering the adverse weather conditions, completed it in good time. Engineer Clapsaddle said. Patterson is now replacing cement sidewalks in front of the George Stewart, John Manor, James McCully, William McKeever and John McConnell properties which were torn out when the curbs were set back to bring the street to a uniform width.

Patterson will not begin the resurfacing of St. Clair avenue until next spring. This thoroughfare is to be improved with amesite.

The proposed improvement of Fourth street between Broadway and Monroe streets, contract for which was awarded Patterson in the fall, is held up by court action. Solicitor Frank Hoover has filed a motion for a new trial in the injunction proceedings brought by Frank Swaney, tax payer.

It is related in the petition that because of the phraseology of this paragraph, the executor is unable to interpret the intent of the instrument, now in process of administration.

U. S. MINISTER'S FAMILY FIRED UPON BY BEDOUINS

CULBERTSON AND HIS KIN NOW IN PETRA

Envoy to Roumania Was Lost in Trans-Jordania.

FACED DANGERS

Driver Strayed From Beaten Track in Deserts.

JERUSALEM, Dec. 17.—Lost in the deserts of Trans-Jordania, subjected to the rifle fire of roving bands of Bedouins, and inconvenienced by short supplies of food and water, William Culbertson, United States minister to Roumania, and his family have undergone a dangerous and exciting adventure.

The Culbertson family has now arrived safely in Petra, Trans-Jordania, apparently none the worse for their adventure.

The Culbertsons, who were touring Trans-Jordania, set out for Petra by automobile. Their two children, Junia, aged 14, and Jane, aged 12, accompanied them. When well on their way their driver lost his way in the desert trails and apparently strayed from the beaten track.

While the driver was plunging about in the desert striving to find the main trail again the motor stalled. The party were marooned in the desert for many hours.

Bedouins passing by spotted the stalled motor-car and believed them to be smugglers and opened fire on the party. Motions were made to strive to indicate to the Bedouins that the party was friendly and eventually the Bedouins approached for a parley. The American diplomat had great difficulty in convincing the Bedouins that his party was actually lost and furthermore stalled and it took considerable persuasion to calm the hostility of the Arabs. Eventually, Culbertson's diplomatic persuasion won and the Bedouins gave assistance to the stranded Americans.

After many hours of adventure and considerable apprehension the Culbertson family made its way back to the main trail and reached Petra. They will leave for Roumania on Thursday.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Dec. 17. — The stock market was swept off its feet in early trading today by the enormous influx of buying orders for United States Steel stock. The 40 per cent stock dividend, announcement of which was made after the close of Thursday's market, though confidently expected in some quarters, proved to be a veritable bomb shell for the shorts, and the stock jumped five points, simultaneous trading in the new stock was inaugurated on the New York club, where stock sold at 116 to 115 in good volume. About 250,000 shares changed hands in the first half hour, the bulk of transactions being in blocks of from 500 to 25 000 shares.

Price gains of 1 to 3¼ points were scored by a number of the active railroad and industrial stocks in a miniature "bear panic" in which professionals scrambled to cover their short committments. Atchison let the rails, with a gain of 3⅜ at 162⅜; Allied Chemical jumped 4½ to 144¾; DuPont, Baldwin and other speculative leaders gained 1 to 3 points in the first period and the tone of the market as a whole was buoyant.

The divident rails forged to the front in the second hour, under the lead of New York Central and Atchison. Motor stocks and oils were freely sold in this period and slight declines were recorded in prices of representative stocks.

LAD EXPELLED FROM COLLEGE TAKES POISON

Suicide Follows Reprimand for Giving Fag to Co-ed.

INDIANA TRAGEDY

Girl, Too, Suspended From North Manchester School.

NORTH MANCHESTER, Ind., Dec. 17.—Since the death of Joseph Tillman, 19-year-old sophomore at Manchester college, who swallowed poison following his expulsion from school for giving cigarettes to a co-ed friend, is a clear case of suicide, there will be no inquest, authorities declared here today.

The girl, Dorothy Papenhausen, 18, and Tillman were both suspended by college president, Otto Winger, last Friday for smoking cigarettes together. The youth is said to have admitted giving the cigarettes to Miss Pepenhausen.

One other charge, that of riding in a student's automobile without her parents' authority, was also preferred against the co-ed.

On his way home from school, young Tilman stopped at a drug store, purchased ten bichloride of mercury tablets and swallowed them. He collapsed on reaching his home.

"Joe and I were just good friends," said Miss Pepenhausen when told of young Tillman's death. "I was never so shocked by anything in my life."

Tillman's mother said she believed "Joe committed suicide because his suspension followed another, even greater disappointment—his failure to pass an examination for West Point several months ago."

ANOTHER frustrated attempt to kill De Rivera, the Spanish dictator, and King Alphonso, who leans upon him.

De Rivera was to be shot from a closed car, parked before his office, the king to be disposed of with hand grenades, when he attended De Rivera's funeral.

The one safe country for kings seems to be Great Britain, where they have all died peacefully since Charles I. The lesson they learned from Cromwell is remembered. They allow free speech and popular government. Britain being nearer to a real republic than any other nation.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Representative Jimmie Gallivan of Massachusetts looks like the logical successor to John Philip Hill of Maryland as leader of the wet bloc in the lower house of the next—the 70th—congress.

J. A. GALLIVAN

Representative L. C. Crampton of Michigan is as good a bet as anybody for the dry leadership, replacing Willie Upshaw, of Georgia.

Hill gambled away his seat in the house of representatives in an effort to take the Maryland Republican senatorial nomination away from Senator O. E. Weller. Weller was beaten in the election by the Democratic candidate, Millard E. Tydings, but he defeated Hill in the primary.

Upshaw was euchred out of a Democratic renomination for representative in the 5th Georgia district—where a Democratic nomination is equivalent to an election—by Leslie J. Steele.

So Hill and Upshaw both are on the last lap of their respective terms, and after March 4 both will go, for at least two years, into retirement.

IT'S impossible to conceive of anybody politically wetter than Gallivan. Hill is very wet but he does have some other legislative interests—national defense, notably. Gallivan's sole object in public life seems to be to smash prohibition.

Even wets generally shrink from the nullification stigma. They say they favor enforcing the dry law while it remains a law. Not so Gallivan. He urges cutting off financial supplies and letting the prohibition unit starve to death.

Crampton has a long record as a campaigner for stricter enforcement legislation and unlimited funds for making it 100 per cent effective. He isn't as vocal as Upshaw but he's uncompromising as the Washington monument.

OF course Gallivan isn't the only good wet among the representatives.

Congresswoman Florence P. Kahn of California has been suggested for the bloc's leadership, but the wet-and-dry fight in the 70th congress promises to be a knock-down-and-drag-out affair and the point's made that it's apt to be too strenuous for a woman.

Representative George Holden Tinkham of Massachusetts is perhaps as wet as Gallivan, but he lacks Gallivan's fervor in saying so.

Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York and Fred Britten of Illinois are as wet as need be but they don't concentrate their entire attention on it. They simply are wet among other things.

BESIDES Crampton, drys also are numerous.

Representative O. J. Kvale of Minnesota is so dry that he beat Andrew J. Volstead, on the ground that he was dryer than Volstead, but he's an independent and it's better for the leader to belong to one of the big parties.

Representative Tom Blanton of Texas is bone dry but has too many irons in the congressional fire to give his whole time to any one of them. Representative Gale H. Stalker of New York is always trying to strengthen the enforcement laws. Steele, who beat Upshaw, is dry, too, but he's inexperienced in Washington.

GALLIVAN and Crampton, in short, are the outstanding candidates for those two leaderships.

If Gallivan succeeds Hill it will be a Democrat succeeding a Republican. If Crampton succeeds Upshaw it will be a Republican succeeding a Democrat.

However, questions of Republicanism and Democracy don't count when the prohibition issue's raised. As wets, Democratic Mr. Gallivan's and Republican Mr. Tinkham's souls have but a single thought. As drys, Republican Mr. Crampton's and Democratic Mr. Blanton's hearts beat as one.

FIRE DESTROYS LOGAN SCHOOL AT INDUSTRY

Blaze of Undetermined Origin Discovered Early Today.

Neighbors, Forming Bucket Brigade, Save Outbuildings.

The Logan school, on the Beaver-East Liverpool road, about one mile east of Industry, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin, which broke out at 2:30 o'clock this morning. More than 60 children in the Industry school district were excused from classes as a result of the fire. The loss is estimated at $6,000, partially covered by insurance.

The blaze was discovered by Thomas George, millwright for the Crucible Steel company, Midland, who lives near the school house. Noticing a glow in the sky as he was leaving his work at the mill, he hurried to the scene in an automobile.

One half of the building was in flames when he arrived. He awakened neighbors who formed a bucket brigade, but realizing that it would be impossible to save the school, a two-room structure, they turned their efforts toward a coal shed and outbuildings. The smaller buildings were saved.

The fire, it is believed, originated in a corner of the older part of the building, which is heated by a furnace. The school until last summer was a one-room structure, but a second room was added before the fall term opened. The furnace was banked by the janitor, Arch Montgomery, when he left the building last night. No other fires were burning.

Teachers at the school were Robert McClure, Beaver, and Miss Emma Bennington, Vanport. Eight grades were taught at the building.

The school will be rebuilt, probably on the same site.

No Move Is Made To Litt Dollar Embargo On France

Officials Read With Interest, But No Apparent Sympathy, Letters Advocating Abandonment of Policy.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Renewed agitation for lifting the American dollar embargo on France fell upon deaf ears in Washington today.

Officials read with interest—but no apparent sympathy—the letter written to vice President Dawes by Irving T. Bush, New York financier, advocating abandonment of the present policy of prohibiting loans to France until she ratifies the war debt agreement. Bush said "the present situation is critical and our position should be reconsidered." He said a loan at the time would "restore the last sick currency among the great nations of Europe."

Vice President Dawes declined to comment on Bush's letter, but treasury officials were not so reticient. They declared there is no cogent reason why the dollar-embargo against France should be lifted at this time, and they particularly deplored a renewal of pro-French agitation at a time when the French chamber is meeting with the Mellon-Berenger agreement before it.

"Incidents of this kind," said the treasury spokesman, "merely serve to delay the ultimate adjustment. They encourage the cancelationists in France to further efforts to defeat the agreements and raise entirely unjustifiable hopes on the part of the French public.

"Such incidents are to be deplored."

WELLSVILLE AWAITS OPINION IN FULTZ FIGHT

DEFER ACTION ON APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT

Solicitor Luccock Uncertain as to Next Move.

CHIEF WINNER

Date for Second Trial to be Set Tuesday.

Decision of the city of Wellsville in respect to future steps in the initial removal case against Chief John Fultz will be delayed until receipt of the written opinion of the appellate court which yesterday sustained former Common Pleas Court Judge W. H. Spence in his decision re-instating Fultz.

This was the announcement today by City Solicitor S. C. Luccock as municipal officers temporarily marked time.

Action must be delayed, of necessity, the solicitor points out, until the court's opinion is officially in the hands of the legal department. Then, he said, the city will decide on the possibility of carrying the case to the state supreme court.

In the meantime, Fultz faces another fight as a result of charges upon which Mayor Fogo suspended the officer last week.

According to members of the civil service commission, a date for a hearing on Fultz's appeal will be set at a meeting of the commission next Tuesday night.

REPORT NEEDY CASES TO ARMY

Will Avoid Duplications in Relief Work Here.

Through Rev. R. J. Ustick, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church and chairman of the Red Cross, the mercy organization and others associated in plans for Christmas relief work here, today urged organizations and individuals to report their prpoosed relief cases to Major Joseph Hughes, of the Salvation Army, in order that duplications will be avoided, thereby extending efforts farther than ordinarily.

In this manner, Rev. Ustick points out, a clearing house may be established for relief work plans and a systematic procedure adopted in the distribution of baskets of food, clothing, etc.

The Salvation Army campaign, it was announced today also, will be launched next week for the purpose of establishing a branch of the army in this city.

The advisory board in charge of the campaign includes Rev. R. W. Ustick, Rev. F. H. Magill, C. W. Arbold, J. A. Forbes, George Patterson, F. L. Wells, Frank Saltsman, C. J. Vogel, E. S. Aiton, William Lowary, Dr. G. W. McMillan, Rev. W. S. Rowe and H. M. Russell.

WHITE GIFTS SERVICE TO BE HELD SUNDAY

Arrange Special Program at Christian Church.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

Yule Pageant to be Presented Sunday, Dec. 26.

Annual white gifts service will be held on Sunday morning in the main auditorium of the First Christian church, according to announcement today by Rev. L. E. Lee, pastor. The observance is scheduled to follow the combined service of worship and teaching, which begins at 9:45 o'clock.

Each department will contribute to the program by singing a Christmas carol as a processional and also by having one selected from each group to read a portion of the Christmas story from the New Testament.

Gifts of money will be accepted to be used in maintaining the numerous homes which the church has in various parts of the United States for children and aged. The church in Wellsville is especially interested in the children's home in Cleveland.

Large numbers of material gifts will be brought to the church on Sunday morning, Rev. Lee announces. Several bushels of potatoes will be given by the Loyal Brotherhood. The Loyal Women and Delta Alphas will bring a large supply of jellies and jams while the young people will supply candies and doughnuts. The juniors are scheduled to offer apples and oranges and the beginners and primary members small, new toys.

These offerings will be taken to the children's home in Cleveland on Monday or Tuesday by C. D. Henthorne and Rev. Lee.

On Monday, December 20, the various departments of the church school will have their Christmas parties.

Mrs. L. E. Lee and assisting teachers will have charge of the first two of these, one for the cradle roll and beginners at 2 p. m., and the other for the primary children at 3:30. A treat will be given to the children. Games will be a feature. Mothers will be welcome with their children.

Beginning at 6 p. m. the same day Mrs. D. T. O'Hara and the teachers of the juniors will have their party in the junior assembly in the annex.

At 7:30 the young people of the department in charge of T. C. McClelland will meet with the superintendent and teachers to make candy and fry doughnuts.

"When the Star Shone," a pageant, will be presented on Sunday, December 26, at 8 p. m. Twenty-five adults and a number of children will make up the cast.

The pageant is being prepared under direction of Mrs. L. E. Lee, wife of the pastor, who has had considerable training and experience in this line of work.

The pageant, Rev. Lee announces, is a presentation of Bethlehem at the time of the nativity. The music is interpretative and makes vivid and real in a reverent and effective manner the events in that great crisis in history as it must have inspired the people of Bethlehem.

Steubenville Mayor Fight May be Taken To Supreme Court

As the first mayor in Ohio to be removed under the ouster act, which was today held constitutional by the district court of appeals, John S. Patton, of Steubenville, announced today that he will seek to have his case reviewed by the state supreme court in an effort to regain his office.

Today's decision is regarded as one of state-wide importance, this being the first test of the law under which a magistrate can be called to account for his acts in a trial court by 5 per cent of the electorate.

In Patton's case, petitions bearing signatures of 425 electors were filed in court by the Steubenville Ministerial association, charging the mayor and Blaine Carter, chief of police, with gross neglect of duty, wilful refusal to enforce the law with reference to prohibition, vice and gambling and with misconduct in office.

The defense attacked the constitutionality of the law, the sufficiency and genuineness of the signatures and offered no testimony to refute the charges.

Judge Louis Farr, who rendered today's decision, announced that the court was unanimous in affirming the lower court, which removed Patton from office, except for that section which provides for hearing of charges within thirty days after legal service.

The court held this to be an invasion of the judiciary, but not affecting the merits of the case or judgment against Patton.

Judge Farr declared the weight of evidence was ample to convict Patton of malfeasance—misfeasance and non-feasance in office—that Patton had first-hand information of the existence of vice dens, liquor "fortresses" and gambling houses and that he had no excuse for not enforcing the law other than that he "did not know."

"Patton took office with promise of being a good mayor, but the evidence shows the wolves of society clung to his heels, tore him from his throne and made him a subservient slave," Judge Farr said.

"There was not a word of defense from the accused mayor. It was his right and privilege to speak in his own defense.

"He left unanswered the charges of Steubenville's citizens."

WOMEN'S CLASS IS ENTERTAINED

Members of the Loyal Women's class of the First Christian church were entertained last evening at the home of Mrs. C. J. Robb, Broadway. A social hour followed the business session. Luncheon was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Beymer Hostess.

Mrs. Richard Beymer will be hostess to the Delta Alpha Sunday school class of the First Christian church tonight at her home in Tenth street.

KLINCK PICKS SCHOOL CAGERS FOR OPENER

Highs Play Rochester Passers Here Tonight.

12 ON SQUAD

Will Tackle Alumni Quint Next Tuesday.

Twelve high school basketball players will be in uniform for tonight's contest with Rochester high at the local school gymnasium.

The game will be the opening ...t of the 1926-27 campaign for the Orange and Black and the squad is confident of making a good showing against the Pennsylvania passers.

Calhoun, captain, will jump center. Forwards will be selected from five candidates, including Carey, Fogo, Snowden, Buckley and Householder. The guards will be chosen among Dickey, Provost, Wyper, Foley, Brown, Eschbacher.

The local squad has been able to get in approximately eight practice sessions to date and team work, as a whole, is a little unfinished at this early stage of the season, but this game, and the contest with the Alumni, together with additional workouts should suffice to put the team in top form for the main section of the schedule, beginning January 7.

The contest with the graduates is carded for Tuesday, December 21, with both boys' and girls' teams in action.

Tonight's engagement will start at 7:30 o'clock, with no preliminary, in order to give the visitors sufficient time to make rail connections back home.

MRS. D. A. FORBES CLUB HOSTESS

Mrs. D. A. Forbes was hostess to members of the Fortnightly club last evening at her home in Broadway.

COAL OUTPUT IS INCREASING

Production in First 11 Months Placed at High Figure.

The estimated production of bituminous coal in West Virginia from last January 1 up to November 30 was 134,400,000 tons, according to word from the United States bureau of mines to R. M. Lambie, chief of the state department of mines. Based on this estimate, the year's production would run probably to 145,000,000 tons. These figures, however, varies from unofficial estimates made locally, which indicate that the 1926 production will run between 138,000,000 and 140,000,000.

Last year West Virginia's bituminous production was 123,061,000 and in Pennsylvania last year, the bituminous production was 136,928,019 tons.

Coal men of this state anticipate that West Virginia this year will run ahead of Pennsylvania.

In connection with this year's probable production, it is pointed out that in the 20 years since 1906, West Virginia's coal output has increased by approximately 100,000,000 tons. In that year the production was 41,891,100.

This gain is looked on by mining men as being something tremendous which is not given serious consideration by persons unfamiliar with actual mining conditions.

While much progress has been made in improving safety methods in the mines for the protection of the lives and limbs of the workers, such improvements have not kept pace with the increasing production.

For the vast production in the state now there are only 25 inspectors employed in the state mining department to look after the safety of the workers.

In furtherance of his plans to bring about great safety measures and standards, Mr. Lambie within the last several days has undertaken the matter of requesting all coal operators associations in the state to appoint safety committees of five men each, whose duty it would be to look into and investigate every mine accident. The reports of the investigations would be turned over to a general safety committee which would in turn give the information as contained to every mine in the state. In this way miners and owners, would be educated in methods and ways to prevent accidents of every kind, and check the hazards faced by the underground workers.

STATE INSURANCE RATES BOOSTED

Insurance companies doing business in West Virginia yesterday filed with the state insurance department new rates to be effective January 3. The increases vary from 10 to 25 percent in unprotected terms areas, depending on the class of buildings and of stock carried by merchants and from 10 to 20 percent in protected areas. A few changes were made from the tentative schedules previously filed, the principal one being a 20 percent instead of 25 percent decrease in the school rate.

Bazaar Arranged.

Ladies Aid society of Bethel Methodist Episcopal church will hold a bazaar tomorrow afternoon in the Kimble grocery store, Fifth street and Carolina avenue.

Many Attend Meetings.

Another large crowd attended revival services last night in the Stewart building, Third street and Carolina avenue. The meetings are being conducted by Rev. R. B. Ward, former pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

Elks Set For County Cage League Opener With Paragons

Lodge Squad Strengthened by Addition of Ray Wilde, Chester High School Coach and All-Around Athlete; Smith Anderson, Ex-Princeton Star, Will Captain Team.

EAST LIVERPOOL Elks will take their first plunge into amateur basketball circles tonight at the high school gymnasium when Coach "Bill" Powell's speedy looking cage squad tackles the East Palestine Paragons in the game that opens the Columbiana County Basketball league season here.

The contest will be staged in collaboration with what should be a fast preliminary between the Acmes and the Buckeyes, two local independent fives.

Although the lodge squad already shapes up as one of the best looking aggregations, either amateur or semi-pro, since the days of the old league here, Coach Powell added further strength to the outfit yesterday by the acquisition of Ray Wilde, Chester high school athletic coach and himself an all-around athlete.

Although Wilde is a busy individual, he consented to lend his services to the Elks' squad and he will be a welcome addition to the team. In all likelihood he will be used at center. His marksmanship and speed, together with his experience obtained at Geneva college, and condition, should make him a valuable asset. Wilde has not been working with the squad but is expected to report tonight for the East Palestine contest. With a few practice sessions he should be able to fit right in.

The preliminary will start at 7:15 and the main attraction an hour later. Bill Watkins will handle the whistle.

Probably only one or two factors may prove handicaps against the Elks in tonight's game, and they may be small enough to be negligible, providing the Paragons do not spring any sensations.

These may be pointed out as just a little roughness in team play and slight lack of condition, occasioned by the fact that the entire squad, few of whom have ever before played on the same floor on the same team, was picked up by Coach Powell and whipped into a basketball squad within the short space of a week or 10 days. A couple of more weeks and a vast improvement should be seen, at the rate the youngsters are going now.

But whatever may be the deficiency, however small, in these or other departments, there is none in spirit and enthusiasm.

Without compensation, inasmuch as the league caters strictly to the amateur sport, the dozen or more youths who have been banded together have been working out every single day since the formation of the club, reporting regularly and faithfully to Coach Powell in an effort to give the lodge a possible championship outfit. This will count a lot.

Smith Anderson, former figure in collegiate court circles while a student and athlete at Princeton college, will captain the Purple and White quint in tonight's and succeeding games. Anderson's age, experience and obvious ability were considered by Powell in the selection.

Anderson is one of a set of good guards, of which there appears to be no scarcity. Others of the defense set who will appear on the floor tonight are "Chuck" McConville, Earl Reese, Paul Hamilton, "Bus" Crawford, Ted Hogue and George Salsbury.

Wilde, Canne and Howard should provide good material from which Powell can select a center, and the quartet consisting of Wain, Wilson, Clark and McDevitt ought to provide some good shots.

The Elks last night were given skull practice for an hour or more during which a number of plays were figured out and memorized. After that the boys were given a "feed" at the Elks' temple, West Fifth street.

The Salem five, playing its first game, defeated the Salineville squad, 44 to 23, last night at Salem.

MOTORS SET NEW PIN MARK

Roll 754 for Single Game Against Smith News.

Business Men's duckpin league record for single game team score was toppled last night when Turk-Nash, in winning two out of three from Smith News and tying the News five for second place, established a mark of 754 and erased the previous mark of 750, held by Smith News.

Oliver, of Turk Nash, broke into the charmed "500" circle in last night's appearance, one of the quintet that share the honor. Oliver rolled a 505. Other "500" bowlers include Green, 563; Howell, 527; Alcock, 514, and Welch, 510.

Lee Perssohn set a new ten pin mark for holiday competition by shooting 253 yesterday, topping Nate Simms' previous mark of 245. Perssohn's ten-pine record is one pin better than the duckpin score recently set by Fred Adams.

East Liverpool Lad's Guarding Features Team Play.

ALLIANCE, O., Dec. 17.—The Mount Union cagers received their first real test of the season Wednesday night when they were forced to come from behind in the final minutes to defeat the veteran Ashland team. Even harder opposition is expected next Saturday when the Mount team meets the Goodyear Tire & Rubber quintet at Akron.

The Mount team displayed at Ashland that same fight which for the last three years has won for Mount Union the Ohio conference championship. During that time Mount has won many games by a one point margin after trailing for the better part of the game.

At Akron Mount meets another experienced team on a strange floor. In the lineup of the Goodyear team is "Lefty" Miller, twice an All-Ohio center, captain of Mount's second Ohio conference championship team, and member of all three. Lefty will meet two of his old teammates, Orin, a forward, and Bromby, a guard, on the Mount team.

So far the work of Orin at the forward position, and the guarding of Bromby has been two of the outstanding features of this season's games. The game at Akron will go far towards determining the regulars who will start on the Mount team at the opening of the conference schedule now less than three weeks distant.

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 17.—Edwin J. "Toad" Crofoot, quarterback on the University of Wisconsin grid team for the past two years, will captain the Badger squad in 1927. He was elected at the annual banquet here last night. Crofoot hails from rival territory, his home being at Mason City, Iowa.

SENIORS WIN OPENER AT 'Y'

Gym Class Five Defeats Y-Indus Club, 28-20.

Y. M. C. A. Seniors basketballers were victorious in the opening game of the "Y" basketball league last night, sending the Y-Indus down to defeat by the score of 28 to 20. The game was a good article of the cage sport the Seniors leading all the way. The Seniors had a commanding margin at the end of the first period, 10 to 3. In the second period they went on further being on the big end of a 21 to 7 score at the end of the half.

In the third period the Y-Indus outplayed their opponents and cut down their lead, the count being 24 to 16, when the third period was over. During the final quarter the Y-Indus continued to outclass their opponents and came within four points of tieing the score but two field goals by McGraw in the last few minutes of play cinched the game for the Seniors. Hancock, Whitman and McGraw were in the limelight for the Seniors, while Todd, Pittinger, and Rose were the leading performers for the Y-Indus. Bill Watkins refereed in his usual capable manner.

Y-Indus		Seniors

Substitutions—F. McCoy for P. Bailey, Boyd for Pittinger, George for Boyd.

Pusey May Go With Highs To Cleveland

Star Guard Injured as Result of Fall Yesterday Afternoon at High School; Severe Bruise is Result; Condition Doubtful.

TOM PUSEY, star guard on Coach N. F. Lorah's high school quint, who, it was feared yesterday afternoon, might be lost to the team as a result of a fall at high school, was scheduled to accompany the Blue and White squad today on its trip to Cleveland for games with John Marshall and Rocky River.

Pusey slipped and fell on steps at the high school following assembly and for a time it was believed that he had broken a leg, but a subsequent examination by Dr. R. J. Marshall revealed that the leg had been severely bruised.

The accident, following closely upon a rousing send-off for the team, cast a pall of gloom over the school for a few hours until it was learned that the injury was not as serious as indications first pointed.

Pusey, following the accident, was immediately placed in the care of Bill Cox, of the faculty, who bathed the injured leg for several hours in an effort to overcome the evil effects of the bruise.

With the team badly crippled already Pusey's loss would have been a hard blow. Whether he will be able to play tonight is problematical and depends on how the leg feels before game time.

The Blue quint will tackle the Marshall passers tonight and tomorrow will go out to Rocky River, a Cleveland suburb. Were the squad in top shape, there is hardly any question that Coach Lorah and his lads would come home with a double victory, but conditions indicate a pair of tough battles.

One of the kind of men you seldom meet is one who owes you 10 bucks.—Fostoria Times.

Cleveland's Pro Court Squad Wins Ninth Straight

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 17.—Cleveland's professional basketball club, undefeated this season, won its ninth straight game in a bitterly fought contest with the Rochester team here last night. The score was 36 to 33. The first half closed with the visitors on the long end of a 19 to 14 count. Marty Barry, Rochester, forward and captain, played an excellent game though charged with frequent fouls. Hickey starred for the locals.

SEEVERS VICTOR OVER EISMAN

Playing in top form Bart Seevers defeated G. Eisman, 100 to 42, in last night's tournament match at the American Billiard parlors.

McDowell and Osborn will tangle in the American pocket billiard tourney tonight.

Dundee-Stein Clash.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Ruby Stein, of Brooklyn, and Mike Dundee, popular Rock Island featherweight, will clash in the feature event at Ashland auditorium tonight. They will box ten rounds to a decision and will weigh 130 pounds. Although Stein is a fast and clever fighter, Dundee, by virtue of his superior punching power, is favored by local fans to win. Irish Mickey Gill and Tommy Milton will box the semi-windup, ten rounds at 114 pounds.

The ENTERTAINING ANGEL

By SAMUEL MERWIN

By Samuel Merwin Released Through Central Press Assn

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT.

"Things seem to be happening to me pretty fast lately." Hester was speaking plainly enough, out of one of those dark moods that fitted illy her charm and her calling. These Yankees didn't often put their emotions into words. Not once before in all their enforced intimacy had she referred to Joe or to this curious new tension in her life. She had seemed really to think she could keep her private affairs to hrself. But now a little of it had to come out. And that little was enough to give the shrewd Sadie a pretty complete picture of the bitter depths of feeling that underlay the gaunt words. It was sobering. . . . . "After all, if you've put in twenty-seven years holding yourself down, and it just doesn't work out . . if you've got nowhere . . . maybe it's sensible to try something else." Her hands fell limply at her side. Her face, the mouth drooping, the soft eyes staring out at nothing, exhibited something so near misery in her soul, that Sadie had to turn away and busy herself over a costume. In a few moments the poor little thing would be on the stage drawing the hundreds of dumb-bells out front within the gentle circle of her skill, making them laugh, charming them . . . . Maybe it's sensible." Hester was whispering. "I don't know. I just don't know."

"I've started more than I meant to," thought Sadie, crying a little. "She isn't going on that party. I'll manage it somehow. I'll do something. She's not going. Not if I see her first."

It was to be, on the whole, an emotional evening for Sadie. How confusingly emotional she didn't yet know. That check began it. The wholly savage impulse to flirt a little with Joe—or, as she now put it to herself, rather grimly, to make a monkey out of him—followed naturally enough. And now, finally, in some self-abasement, she found herself with Julian. He was sitting on the ground behind Murray Watt's tent, under one of the spreading live oaks, a lonely figure. She tiptoed over. Out front, the audience was laughing in delighted chorus. She heard Joe's ringing voice, then Hester's. He heard them too, of course.

"For Heaven's sake, get up!" said she abruptly.

But he merely raised his eyes.

"Get up!" She stamped a foot; then caught his arm.

Rather bewildered by her manner, he did rise to his feet.

"Now stand there a minute." She ran off, and returned in a moment with a blanket, which she spread on

"Oh, Julian, I know, I know who you are!"

the ground. "We'll be digging woodticks out of you with a can-opener the first thing you know. Now sit down."

"Oh!" He contrived an unreal little laugh. "I didn't know about those."

"It's one of the things you learn about in California."

She dropped down beside him.

"What did Murry say about the play, Julian?"

He sat motionless for a long moment, then listlessly spread his hands and let them fall.

"He didn't like it?"

"He said it hadn't any guts. Told me how to write a play."

Sadie's face puckered. He wasn't looking at her, and there wasn't much light.

"He seems to know a good deal about plays."

Sadie considered the situation. "Oh, he does. He ought to, you know. It's his line.

"Yes, it's his line."

Her arm slipped about his shoulders. "Tell me what he said. Exactly."

Julian nerved himself, and did so. After all, it was a relief to talk the thing out.

"Where is the script?" she asked, when he had done.

"In the car. Over there on the driveway."

"I haven't had a chance to read it yet, you know."

"Why bother?"

"Oh, but I want to, dear."

"I don't care."

"May I get it?"

"Of course."

"Where's the key?"

Try Mine

My powders, used by movie stars

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I am a stage star and a movie star. All my friends are stars. I know these public beauties as few do.

We are extravagant. Supreme beauty means so much to us that nothing else can matter. I long paid for powders $5 per box, to secure the very best.

Now, by grace of the makers, I supply those powders at very modest price. The very super-powders for which I paid their price. All toilet counters now supply them at 50c and $1 under the name of Edna Wallace Hopper.

There are two types, but of this superlative grade. One a cold cream powder which clings and stays. I always use that. But many prefer a light fluffy powder. So I supply both styles. Both come in three shades—white, flesh and brunette.

Let me bring you a new conception of fine powder. Send the coupon for a sample with my Beauty Book. You will be delighted. Learn what we fastidious people use. Clip coupon now.

and destroyed every year by fire. The New York market alone uses about a thousand tons a year. Owners are now urged to divide their holdings into four or five parts and allow only one section to be cut over each year.

Holly Is Disappearing.

For a number of years it has been realized that holly, which has always to the American represented Christmas, is in serious danger of disappearing.

The native holly is largely a coastal plant and ranges from Massachusetts to Florida and eastern Texas. Although many places in the east have their own supply of holly, many other localities are dependent upon shipments from outside sources. Large shipments are made from Delaware and the eastern shore of Maryland. In 1924 the state of Delaware shipped 13,979 cases of holly branches and wreaths over one railroad alone. Each case contained 200 wreaths. Undoubtedly as many more cases were shipped by boat, and an equal amount from eastern Virginia, North and South Carolina, Texas, and Georgia.

It has also been said that the present rapid clearing of woodlands for building purposes is perhaps more largely responsible for the decrease in the supply of holly than the cutting of it for decorative purposes. It is now found in large quantities only in sparsely settled sections.

Ground pine or crowfoot is in great danger of extermination, since it does not yield readily to cultivation. Part of this danger would be eliminated if when the plant is gathered only the leafy branches were cut instead of the entire root being pulled up. The bright spot in this situation, however, is that this material may be preserved so that it may be used indefinitely, and more and more of this preserved product is appearing on the markets each year.

Mistletoe—that boon of the shy maiden and the bashful beau of another day—does not come within the group of those plants for which protection is urged. It is in disgrace, having been declared by the Department of Agriculture to be a dangerous parasite which is menacing the forests of the country. And it would appear that its only useful purpose is a thing of the past since the modern youth seems able to get along nicely without such artificial means of breaking the ice!

But even if mistletoe at some distant day becomes merely a legend, and if Christmas greens and decorations become in a large measure cultivated, preserved, or artificial, it does not seem that the Christmas tree will ever become extinct. Certainly not, if reasonable precautions are taken.

Second Brother Found Guilty of Killing Policeman

CHILLICOTHE, Dec. 17.—Montrose Hickman, the second of two Columbus brothers to be tried for the murder of policeman Dan Garrett, was under conviction of second degree murder today, following a jury verdict last night. His brother, John, was found guilty of first degree murder, with recommendation for mercy. The pair will be sentenced later.

THIEVES ALMOST RUIN ANNUAL TREAT OF NEW YEAR'S "HOT DOGS" IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Mass. — Distribution of "hot dogs"—among the youngsters of North End which has become a custom on New Year's Day through the kind heartedness and charitable generosity of Axel Bjorklund, will not be omitted this New Year's Day despite the fact that the fates and some of the meanest thieves have been exceedingly inconsiderate of the benefactor of late.

Through Axel the free "dogs" has become almost a tradition among the children who gathe,ed at the corner of Blackstone and Hanover streets each New Year's Day.

The aged Bjorklund was the victim of a pickpocket, who robbed him of $50, representing the total of his savings with which he planned to purchase the New Year's "weinies." Shortly afterward a pair of thieves carried away his brand-new boiler for preparing the "dogs."

Still cheerful in the face of his losses, Axel said: "But it makes no difference, the youngsters didn't have anything to do with my losses, and they are not going to suffer. On New Year's Day I shall be, God willing, at Blackstone and Hanover streets, and every youngster will have his "wienie."

While no public appeal has ever been made by Axel it is quite probable that some charitable persons or society will extend aid this year, in helping him to provide the necessary 2,500 "dogs" for the feast of New Year's.

Soviet Workers Will Be Placed on New Factory Regulations

MOSCOW—Soviet workers accustomed to abuse the "worker control" of factories, have come to the end of their rope. The Commissariat of Labor publishes a schedule of punishments for workmen who appear late, slack on the job, or commit any of a number of hitherto popular misdemeanors.

According to the Commissariat's project, a workman appearing late the first time will be reprimanded, the second time he will be reprimanded and warned, and the third time he will be dismissed. The same fate awaits those who idle during working hours, occupy themselves with other than their assigned labor, read newspapers when they should be working, behave rudely to visitors, waste office or factory material, or, being in a position of authority, practice nepotism.

"We are leaving the iron age," and, quite obviously, entering upon the age of brass.—Youngstown Vindicator.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Married Nov. 12, Then Beaten, She Says; Asks Divorce

Married Nov. 12, last, beaten over the head by her husband, she charges on the following day, and then the filing of a petition on Dec. 15, seeking a divorce on the grounds of extreme cruelty, is the 33-day marital experience of Christine Douglas, of East Liverpool, who, through her counsel, Crawford and Cochran, has named her husband, Howard C. Douglas, kilndrawer, defendant in a common pleas court action at Lisbon.

Mrs. Douglas, who asks restoration to her maiden name, Christine Edwards, alleges her husband blackened her eyes.

Erie Man Gives Account Of His Experience With Redwood's Medicine.

One grateful experience after another is sent to Redwood by people who have been relieved of their sufferings by his splendid root, bark and herb medicine which is known as "Tepee Herb Tonic."

Redwood, Whose Root, Bark and Herb Medicine is Relieving Thousands.

Among many interesting cases recently related is that of Clarence Airey, 1239 W. 31st St., Erie, Penna. He writes: "For six long years I suffered with my stomach and back. I felt especially bad at night. I was discouraged because I had tried so many remedies and nothing had helped me.

"Finally I tried Tepee Herb Tonic and am now convinced that what people say about it is not half strong enough. My stomach is all right and my back is so much better that I can do a big day's work without getting unusually tired."

If you don't feel good try Tepee Herb Tonic. It has helped others and it will also help you. You may depend upon it. Sold and recommended by Carnahan's Drug Store in East Liverpool, and by other well stocked drug stores everywhere.

RIN-TIN-TIN IN THRILLER

"While London Sleeps" is Screen Play At American

Limehouse, which gave the public that popular song, "Limehouse Blues," and brought success and fame to Thomas Burke for his "Limehouse Nights," gave Rin-Tin-Tin an exciting and thrilling locale for his latest Warner Bros. production. "While London Sleeps," which opened yesterday at the American theatre, takes Rinty from the mountain wilds and the snow country, into the crooked, shadowy streets of London's underworld where crime and daring keep Scotland Yard harrassed and busy.

"While London Sleeps," written and directed by Walter Morosco, is the melodramatic story of a master-criminal, his dog, his beast-like assistant, the girl they kidnap, and the man whom she loves. In breath-taking sequence, you are rushed from the mansions of the mighty to the dens of the lowly; from the hands of justice to the dives of those who evade it; and all the time Rinty fights and loves with intense devotion and loyalty.

Helen Costello plays the girl who is kidnaped and Walter Merill, a newcomer to the screen, her sweetheart; both giving excellent portrayals of young love and high courage. John Patrick is perfect as the crook, who "squeals" on the gang; and George Kotsonaros makes a terrifying apeman. As London Letter, the leader of the gang, Otto Mattiesen has an opportunity to do some powerful work, and makes the most of that opportunity. Dewitt Jennings is well occupied with the role of Inspector Burke of Scotland Yard.

"While London Sleeps," is one of the biggest thrillers of any recent screen production—and should not be missed.

SAMUEL MERWIN

He smiled wanly. "I'm afraid it isn't locked. I threw the play in at the back. You'll find a torch in one of the door pockets."

"Aren't you the limit!" said she, and went for it.

She lighted the electric torch and opened the compartment; stood looking in there. Those packets of letters were scattered about. She fingered one of them. How important it looked! She turned the light full on it, and then stared in amazement. She picked up another packet, and then another. Her hands shook. The torch, still lighted, dropped from her relaxed fingers and lay shining among the letters. Slowly she closed the lid, trying to find some clear way among her bewildered thoughts. But she could find no way. And then, as every thought that had ever played a part in her scattered life had found its final level in emotion, so sheer emotion conquered her now. She ran back to the moody figure under the great dim oak, and stood before him, breathing very hard.

"You didn't bring the play," said he. "Couldn't you find it?"

She dropped to her knees, took up his hand and pressed it to her bosom. She was caught helplessly between laughter and tears.

"Oh, Julian, I know. . . . I know who you are!"

"Oh!" He appeared not to catch the force of it.

Her arms were around his neck now. She was kissing him, a slim lovely creature, all alive with frank passion. "Oh, Julian, it's wonderful! How could you ever . . . I can't understand . . . oh, I'm mad about you! Julian, dearest, don't you like me a little? I'm wild over you! I'd do anything! I don't care . . . I can't help it. I can't stop! I'll never let you get away! I'm going to make you! I am!"

But he didn't seem to sense the suddenly-personal nature of her crude emotion. He was only friendly, only kind. And not really there with her. The flame in her heart ignited no answering spark in his. And so, after a time, her excitement and the gust of passion it had formed into momentarily consuming power, passed, and she sat meekly beside him stroking his nearer hand. Sadie was, after all, sensible; and her balance little by little returned.

"Will you let me tell Hester?" she asked, still somewhat breathless. It was then, abruptly, that she felt force in him.

"Absolutely not," he said. "Absolutely not! Tell nobody! Not one word!"

"But, dear, it's so . . . ."

He turned on her. He didn't appear to be angry, but in his curious way he was, she knew now, greatly excited.

"Can't you see that I've got to fight it out . . . myself . . . my personal self!"

She was by no means certain that she did understand. He was altogether inarticulate. But whatever might lie back of his words was terribly real to himself. No doubt about that.

And she couldn't fathom his mood. He was every bit as difficult as Hester. He simply couldn't tell. So, after a bit, she left him. He let her go.

It was with a new sense of frustration that Sadie entered the tent. No one else was in there. The play was not quite over. She dropped down by the table and for a moment sat limply there. Then she thought, "You're a damn fool, Sadie Hartnett, to let yourself get all worked up. But my word . . . my word! . . . ."

She couldn't be bitter. But she could be reckless. She drew out the check from her bosom and looked thoughtfully at it. Her thoughts began to assume definite shapes, and to reform into plans. "Some party it's going to be! Some quaint little party! And there won't be many Hesters around to die on your hands. Not so many! Nor Graces, either. Maybe there's just one little act that you can put over, old dear, that ought to do more good than harm." She lifted the hand mirror and studied her own pretty face. "Not so bad, you burglar! There's a little life still there." She gave herself a demure smile. Then a touch of merry wickedness crept into the blue eyes. "Hmm! I rather guess she hasn't forgotten how to work for her supper. Hmm!"

Buried Cities in India May Reveal Existence Of New Civilization

LONDON—The discovery of buried cities and of inscriptions and monuments has altered all previous conceptions of Indian history, and may reveal the existence of a new cradle of civilization, according to experts recently conducting archaeological work there.

Excavations have been made in Sina, the Punjab, and Baluchistan under the direction of Sir John Marshall, Director-General of Archaeology to the Government of India, and traces were found of a pre-Abrahamite river civilization.

The buried cities so far uncovered reveal that in this district 2,500 years ago there was a mighty empire, and a culture long since forgotten, but connected with Persia and Indo-China, and possibly the whole of Asia.

Salvation Army Will Collect Clothing and Toys.

SCOUTS ON JOB

Clearing House for Relief Work is Planned.

Old clothing and toys will be collected in East Liverpool tomorrow in a "Bundle Day" campaign for the Salvation Army.

Clothing for men, women and children and used toys of all kinds for distribution to the needy prior to Christmas will be sought. Boy Scouts will collect the bundles. Donors are requested to communicate with the Salvation Army citadel by calling Bell phone 1339.

At a meeting of representatives of the Salvation Army, Red Cross and Elks' lodge, held at the chamber of commerce rooms this week, arrangements were made for the establishment of a clearing house at the chamber's headquarters. Clubs, societies, church organizations and individuals engaged in welfare work are urged to report the names of applicants so that a check-up can be made.

Another session of the various organizations, taking part in relief work, will be held at the chamber of commerce headquarters next Tuesday evening.

Girls are using a lot of paint these days. Some of them even "make up" their minds and you will have to admit that that is unusual.—Ashland Times-Gazette.

GIANT AIRSHIP READY TO MAKE TRIP TO INDIA

Closely Guarded Secrets of Construction Shown Premiers.

FIVE ENGINES

New Type of Craft Plans Flight to Far Dominions.

LONDON.—The closely guarded secrets of what is claimed to be the most wonderful airship in the world were unfolded to the Dominion Premiers at the Imperial Conference recently when they visited the airship sheds at Cardington.

R-101, Britain's super-airship destined for the England-Egypt-India route, was shown to them in its partially completed state, while they were given access to the plans showing how the ship will look when she is completed.

Although details of this new airship have not been officially divulged, it is generally understood that the R-101 breaks completely away from the notions of Count Zeppelin, and that she differs in practically every detail from any predecessor.

Stainless steel is being employed throughout in her construction, and it has been found, that, strength for strength, it is lighter than duralumin-um.

Five Big Engines.

There will be five 600 horsepower engines, each housed in a car slung underneath the ship. Gasoline will not be used, heavy oil, which is stated to be very economical in use, taking its place. The propellors will be of steel in order to resist tropical conditions.

Other main features of the airship are:

Carry capacity: 100 passengers and their luggage, and ten tons of mail.

Sleeping cabins with two and four berths.

Lounges, smoking-rooms and dining rooms, capable of seating fifty people at a time.

Promenade decks on which passengers will be able to stretch their legs.

Fully equipped kitchens, making it possible to serve a five or six course dinner.

Shower baths.

Accommodation for dancing and games.

Probable facilities for radio entertainment and possibly ever for a daily newspaper.

An elevator.

The whole of the passenger accommodation of the R-101 will be contained in the hull of the airship. The accomodation is amidship, divided into upper and lower decks. On the upper decks will be the lounges and the main sleeping accomodation, while running along each side of the airship will be two promenades.

Elevator to Dining Room.

On the lower deck will be the smoking-room, kitchen—with an elevator to the dining-room—crew's quarters, and the remainder of the passenger's sleeping accomodation.

Both R-101 and her sister ship R-100—which is being built later at Howden—will have a minimum speed of seventy miles an hour at an altitude of 5,000 feet, with a cruising speed with an ordinary load of about four thousand miles.

When completed they will have trial flights in England, and will then be further tested in cruises to Egypt and India.

The airships will save ten days on a trip between England and Bombay, 18 days between England and Melbourne, and 13½ days between England and Africa.

R-101 will be 730 fet in length, with a maximum diameter of 130 feet. Her load lift will be 150 tons, half of which will be reserved for fuel.

Some of these silver statues for radiator caps are as beautifully poised for flight as a spinster lady in a dentist's office.—Akron Beacon Journal.

GIANT AIRSHIP READY TO MAKE TRIP TO INDIA

Closely Guarded Secrets of Construction Shown Premiers.

FIVE ENGINES

New Type of Craft Plans Flight to Far Dominions.

LONDON.—The closely guarded secrets of what is claimed to be the most wonderful airship in the world were unfolded to the Dominion Premiers at the Imperial Conference recently when they visited the airship sheds at Cardington.

R-101, Britain's super-airship destined for the England-Egypt-India route, was shown to them in its partially completed state, while they were given access to the plans showing how the ship will look when she is completed.

Although details of this new airship have not been officially divulged, it is generally understood that the R-101 breaks completely away from the notions of Count Zeppelin, and that she differs in practically every detail from any predecessor.

Stainless steel is being employed throughout in her construction, and it has been found, that, strength for strength, it is lighter than duraluminum.

Five Big Engines.

There will be five 600 horsepower engines, each housed in a car slung underneath the ship. Gasoline will not be used, heavy oil, which is stated to be very economical in use, taking its place. The propellors will be of steel in order to resist tropical conditions.

Other main features of the airship are:

Carry capacity: 100 passengers and their luggage, and ten tons of mail.

Sleeping cabins with two and four berths.

Lounges, smoking-rooms and dining rooms, capable of seating fifty people at a time.

Promenade decks on which passengers will be able to stretch their legs.

Fully equipped kitchens, making it possible to serve a five or six course dinner.

Shower baths.

Accommodation for dancing and games.

Probable facilities for radio entertainment and possibly ever for a daily newspaper.

An elevator.

The whole of the passenger accommodation of the R-101 will be contained in the hull of the airship. The accomodation is amidship, divided into upper and lower decks. On the upper decks will be the lounges and the main sleeping accomodation, while running along each side of the airship will be two promenades.

Elevator to Dining Room.

On the lower deck will be the smoking-room, kitchen—with an elevator to the dining-room—crew's quarters, and the remainder of the passenger's sleeping accomodation.

Both R-101 and her sister ship R-100—which is being built later at Howden—will have a minimum speed of seventy miles an hour at an altitude of 5,000 feet, with a cruising speed with an ordinary load of about four thousand miles.

When completed they will have trial flights in England, and will then be further tested in cruises to Egypt and India.

The airships will save ten days on a trip between England and Bombay, 18 days between England and Melbourne, and 13½ days between England and Africa.

R-101 will be 730 fet in length, with a maximum diameter of 130 feet. Her load lift will be 150 tons, half of which will be reserved for fuel.

Lady Lauder Accompanies Sir Harry On His Tours

Singing Comedian and Wife, Who Have Never Been Separated During 400,000-Mile Jaunt, Coming to Ceramic.

When some one asked Lady Lauder, wife of Sir Harry Lauder, if she always traveled with her husband, she replied:

"We have never been separated. During the past 20 years we have averaged 20,000 miles a year—400,000 miles—equal to 16 times around the world.

Lady Lauder frankly admits that, despite the fact that she enjoys her home at Dunoon, Scotland, on the banks of the Clyde, at the rare periods when she is there, she is no "stay-at-home," and enjoys the excitement of travel and the many changes of scenery and environment which their wanderings bring them in contact with. In her travels with her noted husband Lady Lauder has visited India, China, South Africa, the Transvaal, Abyssinia, South Africa, Spain, the Straits Settlements, Australia, New South Wales, New Zealand, Tasmania and other far countries. Their latest world tour covered a period of three years. The Lauder tours of the United States and Canada are periodical events.

"I travel with Sir Harry not only because I enjoy it, but also because he needs me—just as every proper husband needs his wife. I look after his wardrobe in these days of fame and prosperity just as I did in the early days of struggle and disappointment, and always" (oh, budding flapper listen to this) "I knit his socks, just as I did when he was a miner, and every bit of silver counted for something."

Lady Lauder, who will be with her distinguished husband when he comes to the Ceramic theatre next Wednesday, has kept her eyes open during the many tours that she and Sir Harry have taken together. She is a keen student of human nature, and has a mind well-stored with interesting incidents of their travels. Like Sir Harry, she is frequently the guest of honor at social functions, and can speak pleasantly and entertainingly in public.

"I have never, however, desired to be in the public eye," she told a friend, recently—"I am quite content to live in the reflected glory of my husband."

The party will return about May 1.

POOR TO QUIT STATE PLACE

Utilities Commissioner Expects to Practice Law.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 17.—Announcement of his intention to resign about January 1, next, as a Republican member of the state utilities commission was made yesterday by Attorney George T. Poor, Cincinnati. Poor expects to practice law in Columbus.

Governor Vic Donahey is expected to ask the Ohio senate here this winter to confirm his selection of three new members of this commission, to succeed Poor, Frank T. Vallur, Chillicothe, Republican, and Charles C. Marshal, Sidney, Democrat.

The governor, it is understood, has asked former State Senator John T. Burke, Elyria, Republican, and former State Supreme Judge Oscar W. Newman, Columbus, Democrat, to accept appointment as members of the state utilities commission.

Ask $5,000 Damages As Aftermath of Auto Crash Here

A $5,000 damage action has been filed in common pleas court by Henry Johanning, representing his daughter, Dorothy, 6, of Fawcett street, for injuries alleged to have been received several weeks ago when struck by a truck owned by John McCoy, Second street grocer, and driven by Clark Kevan.

The child was crossing Bradshaw avenue near Oak street when run down by the truck. She suffered a fractured skull and, according to the petition, $350 was spent by her parents in medical attention.

The petition was filed by Attorney G. Jay Clark.

Children's Night Coughs

Stopped Almost Instantly.

Children very frequently have spells of night coughing due to bronchial irritations or while suffering from colds. These coughing spells, if not quickly checked, are very injurious to the child's health, to say nothing of the annoyance to others.

A famous physician's prescription called Thoxine much better than patent medicines and cough syrups acts on a different principle, relieves the irritation and stops the cough in a few minutes. In fact it is guaranteed to stop night coughs or sore throat within 15 minutes or money back. Contains no chloroform, dope or other harmful drugs, pleasant taste and safe. 35c., 60c and $100. At all druggists.

Don't Spoil Christmas By Neglecting a Cold

If you let a cough get down into your bronchial tubes or lungs, it stops being merely a nuisance and becomes a real danger. A "head cold" is only a bother while it stays in your head. But once it gets down into the danger zone, serious trouble threatens.

Act promptly to check the cough; to keep the head cold from "going down." Sure and lasting relief is as near as the nearest drug store. Quickly and unfailingly Ayer's Cherry Pectoral goes straight to the seat of danger. Real medicine, reaching deep with its soothing, healing power, penetrating through and through the irritated membranes of your throat and bronchial tubes.

If you are catching cold; if you have a "head cold"; if your chest is tight; if you have a cough—even if bronchitis has developed—Ayer's Cherry Pectoral at once! Keep your cold from going down into the danger zone.

Cherry Pectoral is pleasant, safe and dependable—for children and grown people. At all druggists—60c; twice as much, $1.00. 1x34c

TIDAL WAVE HITS FUNCHAL

Today

3 Below in Hot Chicago.
Charles R. Erwin.
Wall Street.
Two Best Things.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—In this active city, with the thermometer at three below zero, people walk so fast they don't feel it. For comfort they can look toward the northwest, 38 below zero in Minnesota.

Cold is good, for the young, but why do so many of the older people able to travel, risk their lives in the cold north, with California, Florida and warm Gulf states inviting them?

THE death of Charles R. Erwin deprives American business of an able, constructive adviser. Mr. Erwin, who leaves eight children, and dies too soon, only 67 years old, was president of Lord & Thomas in 1913. Then developed the Erwin & Wasey organization. It can be said of him, as of other men that devote their lives to advertising, that many successful men owe their wealth to his intelligence and do not realize it.

CHEERFULNESS in Wall Street, Christmas dividends continuing in a way to make Jupiter with his golden rain seem stingy.

Yesterday 1,925,000 shares were sold, 2,000,000 the day before, and brokers ask hopefully, "is the public coming in to restore the happy 3,000,000 share days of yesterday?"

DON'T sell anything short in this country, not even products of our mers, not well enough organize control government as they might do. The country's merchandise exports for Novembe[r] [l]ast in a year, amounted [t]o y unit a billion, in spite of a $ [1],000 drop in cotton shipments.

We have the gold, water power, coal, oil, unlimited territory, developed and undeveloped, intelligent men and women and a government that doesn't interfere with business. What in heaven's name have we to worry about, except our own foolish fears? But don't gamble.

THE World Review asks two questions. How would you answer?

"1—What is the best thing that has happened this year (1926) for America or for Americans?

"2—What is the best thing that could possibly happen in America this coming year (1927)?"

1—The best happening of 1926 was sending the world court to join the dodo.

2—The best happening for 1927 would be the building of an adequate American air fleet. You can't expect Providence always to send an earthquake to Asia just as Asia is getting ready to send several earthquakes to us.

If You Hunt At All

You must know the game laws.

Whether you hunt rabbits, birds, or mountain lions, you must learn when and where they may be shot or trapped, and how big a bag you are permitted.

To keep out of trouble you must know the legal provisions in every state covering licenses, seasons, possession, sale and export of game.

All of these points are covered in a 46-page booklet issued by the department of agriculture. Every sportsman should have a copy of this booklet so that he may keep within the laws.

This is a government publication and our Washington Information Bureau will secure a copy for any reader who fills out and mails the coupon below. Enclose four cents in stamps for return postage and handling and be sure to write your name and address clearly.

Frederic J. Haskin, Director,
The East Liverpool Review-Tribune Information Bureau,

I enclose herewith four cents in stamps for a copy of the GAME LAWS BOOKLET.

Heavy loss of life and poperty is reported in the meagre dispatches received here.

City is Flooded.

The disaster occurred yesterday when a huge tidal wave swept over the mole, partially destroying it, and flooded the lower portions of the city of Funchal.

The devastating effects of the tidal wave had not been counted before an earthquake shook the city and added the destruction. Houses were heavily damaged, business places were flooded and small boats in the harbor were washed ashore or capsized.

The loss of life is still indeterminable, but it is believed that it is heavy. Many are reported to have suffered severe injury.

Panic reigned among the population.

Radio and cable communications have been seriously interrupted.

Last Sunday a hurricane swept over Funchal, doing heavy damage, and causing a loss of life estimated at eight.

The Portuguese government had issued instructions for relief measures and it is anticipated that if necessary relief ships will be sent to Madeira from the Azores.

This is the second disaster in the islands off the African coast within six months. A tidal wave and earthquake recently caused great damage and considerable loss of life in Horta, the Azores.

STATE READY TO REST PAT'S CASE

Defer Arguments In Fall-Sinclair "Oil Scandal" Case

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—After waiting patiently for more than an hour, counsel for the government, and for H. F. Sinclair and Albert B. Fall this morning were advised that argument on the motion to quash the conspiracy indictment against the oil man and the former cabinet officer had been postponed until Tuesday.

The great number of persons waiting arraignment and sentence in the criminal branch of the District of Columbia supreme court caused Justice Jennings Bailey to make the change.

Bailey ordered, however that on Tuesday both defendants be present. This morning, Fall was not at the court house and Sinclair, after a brief appearance, left.

POLICE FIND NO SECRET KEY TO PUNCHBOARD

Exonerate Liberty Pool Room Owners in Statement.

INQUIRY MADE

Ten-day Suspension Based on Offer of Money Prizes.

Thomas McDonough and Jack McLaughlin, operators of the Liberty pool room, whose license was suspended for 10 days by Mayor Ralph Benedum last Saturday, were exonerated of a report that the punch-board confiscated in their place of business contained a secret key, in a statement issued today by Chief of Police McDermott.

The police chief's statement follows:

"After making an investigation I find that the boards seized at the Liberty pool room contained no secret key but were in violation of the law inasmuch as it was a game of chance.

"Representatives of a Chicago house were in East Liverpool recently endeavoring to place boards which contained a secret key but none were sold, I learned upon inquiry."

Operators of five other pool rooms in whose places punch-boards were seized in a raid about 10 days ago, were closed for periods of five days each. In explaining the difference in the suspension perods, Mayor Benedum today said that the Liberty room was operating the "California Gold Mine," commonly known as a money board, while the other places were operating merchandise boards.

The four pool rooms whose licenses were suspended for five days reopened for business at noon yesterday. The Liberty will re-open next Tuesday.

Official Bulletin, However, Says He is Still Alive.

PULSE HIGHER

All High Japanese Officials Remain at Hayama.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Emperor Yoshihito, of Japan, is dead, according to a Central News dispatch from Tokio this afternoon.

Emperor Yoshihito was born on August 31, 1879. He succeeded his father Mutsuhito, on the Japanese throne on July 30, 1912, at the age of 33 years.

The late emperor had been in precarious health for more than five years. His indispositions had completely incapacitated him for his duties as emperor, and the reins of the Japanese government had been held during that period by his son, Crown Prince Hirohito, who ruled as prince regent.

Hirohito, who is 25 years old, is one of the most democratic of rulers. He will succeed his father on the throne as soon as the extensive formalities following Yoshihito's death have been dispensed with.

TOKIO, Dec. 17.—An official bulletin issued at 10:40 p. m. tonight declared that the Emperor of Japan was still alive.

The bulletin said the emperor's pulse and respiration were higher and that his fever remained about the same.

The statement revealed that salt water injections have failed to produce distinctive results.

All high Japanese officials are remaining at Hayama.

May Withhold News of Death.

The above official bulletin was issued at 8:40 a. m., New York time.

The news of the death of the emperor of Japan, in accordance with custom, may be withheld for many days after his death. No announcement of the death is made until all members of the family have been notified and arrangements for the succession are made. Furthermore the announcement of the death would probably be withheld until the body had been removed to the royal palace. Since an emperor must always die in his palace, so far as official records go, in the light of the aforegoing dispatch it would seem possible that Central News dispatch of the emperor's death is premature.

KANSAS CITY BANK BANDITS GET $79,600

Four Robbers Hold Up Messenger in Downtown Zone.

ESCAPE IN AUTO

Outlaws Execute Robbery With Almost Perfect Finesse.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 17—Four bandits held up a messenger for the Fidelity National bank here today and escaped with $79,600 in new currency being sent to the Fidelity bank from the federal reserve bank.

The hold-up occurred in the heart of the downtown section.

The money was being carried by one messenger, who was accompanied by a guard a short distance behind. The bandits pulled up to the curb in a motor car. While one of them stole up to the guard from behind and slugged him, others held up the messenger, seized the money and escaped in the car.

Three shots were fired at the fleeing bandits, but none took effect, it is believed.

With the streets thronged by crowds of noonday shoopers, the bandits executed the holdup with almost perfect finesse. With such swiftness was it accomplished that one man standing a few feet away, who saw it from beginning to end, said the bandits had taken the money and were gone before he had time even to shout an alarm. Other passersby were entirely unaware of what had happened until they heard shots fired at the fleeing bandits.

PROSECUTION WITNESS NAMES MAZER, RUDNER IN CANTON TESTIMONY

Thelma Harris, Called in McDermott's Trial for Murder of Don R. Mellett, Crusading Editor, Says Alleged Conspirators Met in Doll Carey's House on Night Before Slaying.

SHE ALSO TELLS JURORS THAT POLICEMAN WAS IN PARTY

By DAVID P. SENTNER.

CANTON, O., Dec. 17.—Thelma Harris, of Canton, testified today at the trial of Pat McDermott for the murder of Don R. Mellett, vice crusading publisher, that Louis Mazer and Ben Rudner, alleged conspirators with McDermott, had met in Doll Carey's house in Canton the night before the murder.

"When Mazer went out he had a gun," Miss Harris said.

The witness said Policeman Streitemberger also visited the Carey house with Mazer.

Stanley Baltzly, Massillon storekeeper, testified that Ben Rudner, a week or ten days before the Mellett crime, told him "there would be a big doings up in Canton."

Norman Clark, lawyer, under charge of liquor conspiracy, brought by Cleveland federal authorities, testified Louis Mazer had threatened his life. He was formerly Mazer's lawyer. The witness denied the quarrel with Mazer was over liquor matters.

Finish State's Case Today.

Prosecutor C. B. McClintock said during a recess that he had only five or six more witnesses to call and would finish the state's case today.

The prosecution in drawing its case to a close was emphasizing the testimony against Ben Rudner, wealthy Massillon hardware merchant, and Louis Mazer, of Canton, indicted with McDermott for murder.

The prosecution charges that Rudner hired McDermott to "get" Mellett for the latter's editorial attacks upon the bootlegging ring."

Meilett alleged the "ring" was corrupting the local police department.

Malcolm Klein, another witness, told on the stand of seeing Rudner and Mazer in a Chrysler automobile in Canton on the morning of the murder.

Danny Pfuff, of Cleveland, then testified. Praff related his acquaintanceship with McDermott after the murder when Pat was "hiding out" in Cleveland.

"What was your business when you were seeing McDermott and Ben Nadel in Cleveland?" Pfaff was asked.

"Bootlegging," the witness answered smilingly.

Questioning of the witness concerning Nadel was barred by the court.

Policeman Reported Ill.

After a luncheon recess was declared, Prosecutor McClintock announced that he was preparing to send an ambulance for J. A. McDonald, Canton policeman, wanted as a state witness. McDonald was reported too ill to appear.

O. E. Pfouts, Canton official, was recalled to the witness stand in the afternoon session. Defense counsel had an unnamed youth pose before him.

"Could this boy have been the one you saw with Ben Rudner in an automobile," the witness was asked.

"It might have been," Pfouts finally admitted.

TRAFFIC COMMISSION RECOMMENDS OVERHEAD WALKS AT TWO RAILROAD CROSSINGS AND BRIDGES AT OTHER POINTS

Construction of overhead walks at the College street and Virginia avenue railroad crossings and overhead vehicular and pedestrian bridges at the foot of Broadway and also on Mulberry street were recommended to city council by members of the newly created traffic commission at last night's meeting of council.

The commissioners pointed out that "numerous accidents have occurred here recently and several lives have been lost." Council was urged to "take steps that are necessary to cause the materialization of the recommendations." Solons received the communication and "approved the recommendations."

Request of employes of the water works department, firemen and other city officials for wage increases were rejected after Councilman Thomas Farrall, chairman of the finance committee, reported that the municipality's finances precluded action. A statement setting forth the committee's reasons for opposing wage increases was submitted. Council approved the recommendation for the rejection of all wage increase requests without a dissenting vote. In this connection an ordinance increasing the salary of the solicitor's clerk was tabled.

An ordinance providing for the purchase of a three-way traffic light for installation at the corner of Mulberry street and Pennsylvania avenue was passed on three readings under suspension of the rules. Another ordinance providing for the regulation of taxicabs and establishing a license fee of $10 per car per year was passed on one reading and laid over two weeks for further consideration to give the ordinance committee an opportunity to investigate the proposal.

Councilman Otto Kommel, who qualified last night, objected to the removal of a shed over an outside stairway at the rear of the American theatre. He charged that "some one had a grude against the theatre" and submitted a motion that the matter be investigated by the street committee too. The motion was passed.

Service Director J. W. Moore advised the council that he had been "given instruction to enforce the ordinance" prohibiting the blocking of streets and alleys. He declared council had no authority in the matter inasmuch as steps had already been taken to remove the shed.

Kommel said that the stairway was used as an exit for performers when the theatre had a vaudeville act. Mayor Benedum declared that the door was always padlocked on the outside and that it was locked during the early part of the week when the theatre presented a vaudeville act.

Councilman Hughes said that alleys in the business district were blocked with parked automobiles and that steps should be taken to curb the practice.

A petition was received from Harvey avenue residents, asking that council stop the dumping of salt water on concrete pavements. The complaint was laid over for investigation.

Upon motion of Councilman Kommel, sewer assessment against a lot on Springdale street, owned by Joseph Davies, was reduced $170.68.

Attorney Ben L. Bennett appeared before council protesting against the removal of popular trees along Dresden and Woodlawn avenues and Grant streets. The street committee will investigate, reporting at the next meeting.
